INTRODUCTION.

To honor our parents is a duty. To perpetuate the names and memories of our ancestors should be regarded as not mere vanity, but rather as highly commendable, and this more especially if they possessed virtues and principles worthy of emulation by their descendants. A reasonable degree of pride in family and ancestry preserves many a youth from bringing disgrace upon a family name, and induces him to profit by whatever of good example he may have fallen heir to.

For more than twenty centuries the Germans, notwithstanding their faults, have been noted for hospitality, for keeping their word, for respectful treatment of woman and for love of liberty and independence. Even Cæsar's invading armies never kept them in subjection except for very short periods of time. They originated the word "home," and, until their country became crowded with population, were essentially tillers of the soil. They not only cleared and cultivated the better portions of Germany and long ago colonized Britain, but they redeemed the immense marshes of Prussia, they made beautiful the slopes and valleys of Switzerland, and, many centuries ago, they even sent delegations into Italy, asking of the Romans permission to occupy waste lands near the shores of the Adriatic, saying: "We will pay taxes, we will not meddle with the affairs of your government; we only desire to till the soil, to build homes, and rear families."

When, in the sixteenth century, the Roman Catholic authorities from Rome endeavored to rule all Europe, not only in spiritual but also in temporal affairs, the great Reformation in Germany rolled back upon them like a whirlwind. Germany, though divided into various governments, was again to a certain extent free. But as all the world seemed to consider no Christian government secure without a State church, the Reformed church in turn endeavored to exercise the supposed right of formulating a creed for the people to the exclusion of all other beliefs. In England, Puritans and Quakers objected and refused to conform to the State church. So in Germany there were frequent outbursts against the new religious oppression.

Menno Simon and others contended that the Christian church should not wield the sword. He preached in favor of separation of Church and State. He and his scattered congregations formulated a simple orthodox creed, advocated plainness of speech, of manners, and of dress; they commended frugality, insisted upon honesty, and were given to hospitality and love of the brethren.

As non-conformists to State churches they were persecuted. In Switzerland, Holland and England they found refuge and safety, but not permanent room. By invitation of William Penn they quietly came across the sea, where the colony of Pennsylvania welcomed them and promptly passed a special act giving citizenship to numbers of them by name. Our limits will not admit of an extended history of the German pilgrim fathers, but, were it in our power to collect and collate in one volume all the facts preserved in print and by tradition, the story would be quite as interesting as that of the New England pilgrims. The latter depended upon character, principles, Providence and gunpowder, while the German pilgrims, like their Quaker brethren, felt secure with character, principles and Providence.

These people, like the coral insect, worked upon the foundation of society. They made homes and reared families. They claimed no warriors, no statesmen, and not many great scholars. But they bought the very best of lands and built the largest barns and most comfortable houses, surrounded by the finest meadows, cattle, fields of grain and orchards in the country, as the counties of Lancaster, Montgomery and Bucks plainly prove. The historian and poet have had little to record concerning such a quiet, plain people. In dress and housekeeping we find marks of the sojourn in Holland; in dialect, Westphalia, Holland and England have made their impress; while in manner of worship it would seem that the simplicity of the Waldenses had been learned after breaking away from ritualistic forms. Brave men, patient women and heroic deeds there were, although unknown to fame. In the records of the now numerous Brubacher family we find a case of filial piety seldom equaled in any age or country. Far inland, perhaps in the Palatinate which had been ravaged by fire and sword under the barbarously cruel edict of Louis XIV of France, were two boys and their invalid mother. The boys constructed a rude cart, put themselves in harness and conveyed their mother and a remnant of household goods nearly a hundred miles to the sea. After a long voyage, having landed at Philadelphia, they prepared another cart and in the same manner conveyed their precious load over Pennsylvania hills to Lancaster county. Even Goethe's romance of "Hermann and Dorothea" contains nothing equal to this.

Genealogies of several of these families have been published. Suppose we take the Wismer, the Moyer, Fretz, or Brubacher family, and from one couple find in the sixth or seventh generation 4000 persons living. That shows a family tree branching down the years in only one direction. The number of families is supposed to increase in a geometrical ratio. In reckoning backward the same is true of ancestors. Suppose there had been no inter-marriages and one of the sixth generation mentioned were to go backward for six generations to find all his kin, what would be the showing? He had two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, sixteen of the next and thirty-two of the sixth generation. These thirty-two, being but sixteen couples, we will suppose were the ancestors of 4000 to each pair. The total would be 64,000. Then, theoretically, we might reckon among our cousins 64,000 instead of the few thousands named in this volume.

We may well consider ourselves fortunate in the fact that we are not burdened with our genealogical records for many centuries or for 2000 years back. Were we to reckon from a prominent German family of the days of Cæsar Augustus, we should probably find that all the people of Germany and England could claim descent from that one pair, and next tracing backward, every Englishman and German of to-day could probably claim as his ancestor almost every German who lived in the forests of Germany 2000 years ago.

From such a bewildering speculation it is a pleasure to return to our family history. A large proportion of the Moyer family are found in Canada. The question has been asked, "Why did they migrate from the Keystone State into British territory?" The writer of this introduction is past middle life, was raised in Canada, was a studious listener when the old people talked of old times, and does not remember ever hearing a word as to there having been any other reason than to occupy good and cheap lands where the first settlers could live near each other and secure land enough for themselves, their children and grandchildren.

Canada West was largely colonized from the United States. Some were "United Empire Loyalists," but our people made it a principle to submit to the powers that be. They had no quarrel with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or the Government of the United States. In the "Niagara District" they found what has since been called the Garden of Canada, they having been largely instrumental in making it such. Others went farther west and north into Waterloo county, selecting the best of land, and a less conspicuous colony settled in Markham township, not far from Toronto.

During the troubles that led to the Revolutionary War some of our people thought it wicked to encourage rebellion against their countryman, King George of Hanover, then on the English throne. Naturally they were called tories. A few of these did remove to Canada, where they were also regarded as disloyal because they would not enter the British service.

Exemption from military duty was later bought by payment annually of $1 per head. They were more prompt in paying their "fine," as it was termed, than their neighbors were in attendance upon the drunken frolic on "training day."

This dry record of names will, to those personally concerned, no doubt prove intensely interesting. We shall learn of the location of many of our relatives of whom we had long ago lost all trace. We shall be surprised to find some not far from us, and still more surprised to read the extensive list of children and grandchildren of those whom we last met as blooming boys and girls twenty to forty years ago. In some cases we may find surprises as did the traveler in the desert, who in the distance saw a lion. A nearer approach convinced him that it was a domestic animal, still nearer it proved to be a man, and when they met, lo ! it was his brother.

To David N. Moyer, of Naperville, Ill., great credit is due for perseverance in causing this volume to be compiled and published. To Rev. A. J. Fretz, the editor, every subscriber owes a debt of gratitude, for we are certain that he does not receive adequate pecuniary compensation for his arduous task. Errors and omissions there certainly will be some, but they are not the fault of the editor. As we find in the short sketches the virtues of individuals and no record of their forgotten faults, so may we deal kindly with each other and "Follow peace with all men."

LIST OF EXPLANATIONS AND ABBREVIATIONS. .

In the preparation of this work it will be observed that all descendants are recorded in the regular order of birth, from the oldest down to the youngest throughout the entire connection, each generation being marked consecutively from first to last. The Roman numerals placed before each name are used to designate the generation to which they belong, as:—

- I. Christian Meyer (First Generation).
- II. Christian Meyer, Jr. (Second Generation).
- III. Christian Meyer (Third Generation).
- IV. Fannie Meyer (Fourth Generation), etc.

Beginning with the first (I) ancestor Christian Meyer, all his children in supposed order of birth. Then follows his oldest son Christian Meyer (II Generation) and his children (III Generation) next. Christian being the oldest, is followed down to the last of his descendants; then the second in the order of birth of the III Generation, and so on until the end of the entire branch of Christian Meyer of the II Generation is reached. Then the second child of Christian Meyer of the I Generation, viz: Jacob Meyer, of the II Generation is named, and so on.

Where marriages occur between members of the connection the husband carries the record. In all such cases a numbered reference is placed after the name and marriage of the wife, as, for example (See Index of Reference No. 1). In the Index of References will be found No. 1, Mary B. Freed, Mrd. Jonas R. Landis. On the page given, in the body of the book, the family record is given.

To find family records, see Index of Branches, where names of all that had issue of the first and third generations are given.

DEDICATION.

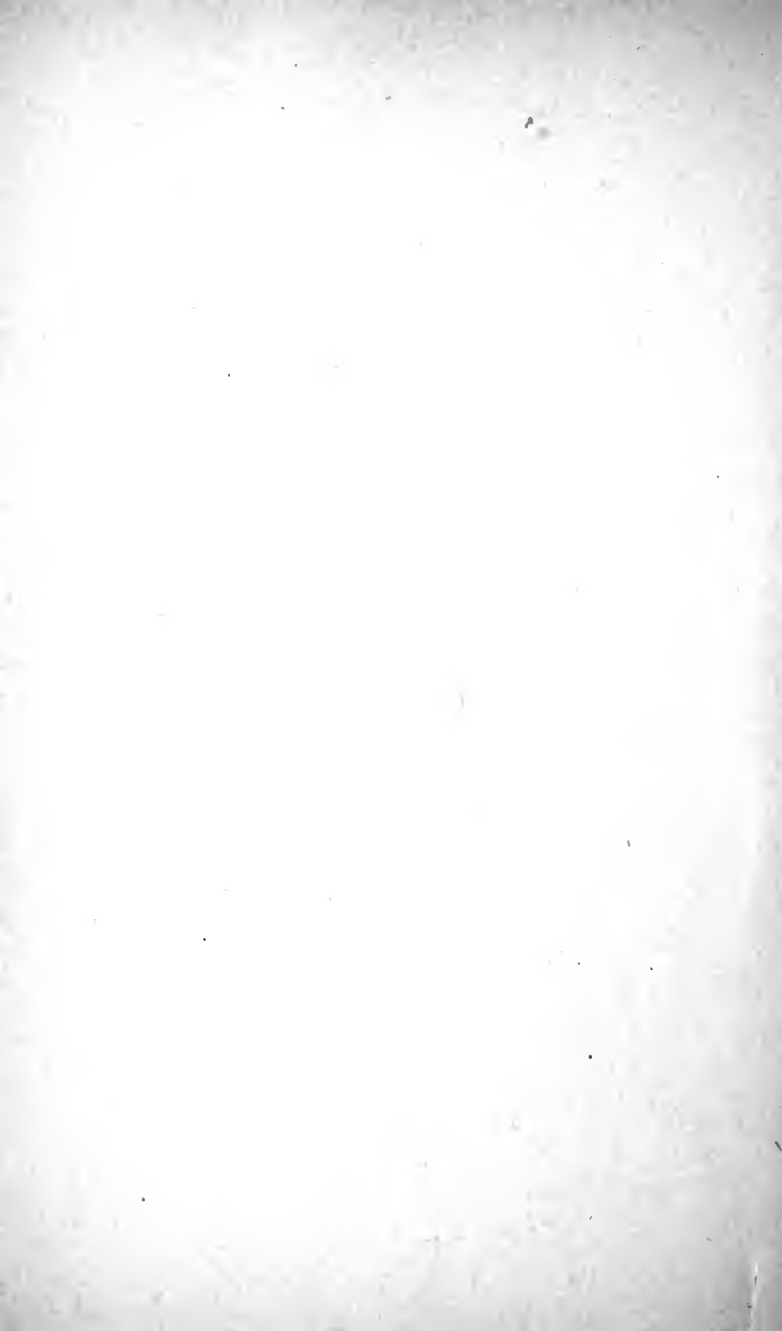

We dedicate this book :

First—To the memory of our ancestors, who bequeathed to us the glorious privilege of religious liberty, and set us examples of blameless exemplary lives.

Second—To our parents, who taught us to prize this inheritance as a priceless boon direct from the hand of God.

Third—To our children, whom we adjure to cherish their inestimable privileges, and keep unsullied the family name.

Fourth—To our posterity ; may they emulate the worthy example of the “good and true” who have preceded them, and “Honor God and keep His commandments.”

PREFACE.

The object of the following genealogy is to preserve the more remote history of the Meyer and Moyer families, and to place upon record the names and biographies of their descendants from father to son, down to the present time, for coming generations.

For many years the author of this work felt a desire to know more about his ancestry, and the particulars connected with his progenitors and their descendants, than the meager legends and traditions related to him by individual members of his own family.

Consequently, during the Winter of 1872, he visited among the connections in Bucks and Montgomery counties, Penna., and collected such facts and data accessible for his own personal gratification, and here the matter rested for a number of years. However, in 1888 a further interest was manifested in the matter by others, and it was finally decided to compile a genealogy of the Fretz family for publication in book form, which was duly brought out and furnished to subscribers in 1891. This led to his compiling and publishing other genealogies, and in course of time a number of the Moyer family became desirous of having a history of the Moyer family compiled and published, and solicited him to undertake the work, and on having discovered to his gratification that he was also a descendant of the family, he cheerfully consented to undertake the work, which was begun in the Spring of 1893.

Had the work been begun years ago, while there were yet living those of the third and fourth generations, much more satisfactory information could have been collected that would be of great interest and value to the work, but which with their demise is forever lost. Already the ancestral thread was lost to many who are unable to trace their lineage farther than to the grandfather, or were totally unaware of the fact that they were in any way connected with the Meyer family.

It is to be regretted that the records are not more complete in many of the branches. Owing to a lack of interest in the matter some, for reasons best known to themselves, failed to respond to inquiries for information concerning their respective families, thereby causing these defects.

The work has been prepared at a great sacrifice of time and labor. Had all promptly responded to communications the work would have been far easier and at less expense. The writer is far from satisfied with the result of his labor. He is aware that imperfections exist, but pleads in extenuation of the fact that the difficulties were insurmountable.

The author acknowledges himself indebted to many friends for kind services rendered during the compilation of this work, and while we express our sincere gratitude to all who in any way aided in the work, we acknowledge our indebtedness especially to those who have very materially aided in the work. They are as follows: David N. Moyer, of Naperville, Ill.; A. N. Moyer, of Kansas City, Kan.; Dr. S. Moyer, of Galt, Ont.; H. H. Moyer, of

Buffalo, N. Y.; John D. Moyer, of Souderton, Pa.; Dr. C. D. Fretz, of Sellersville, Pa.; William G. Moyer, of Chalfont, Pa.; Eli Wismer, of Plumstead, Pa.; Hon. H. G. Moyer and Joseph G. Moyer, of Pleasant Valley, Pa.; James Y. Heckler, of Hatfield, Pa.; and Tilman W. Moyer, of Campden, Ont.

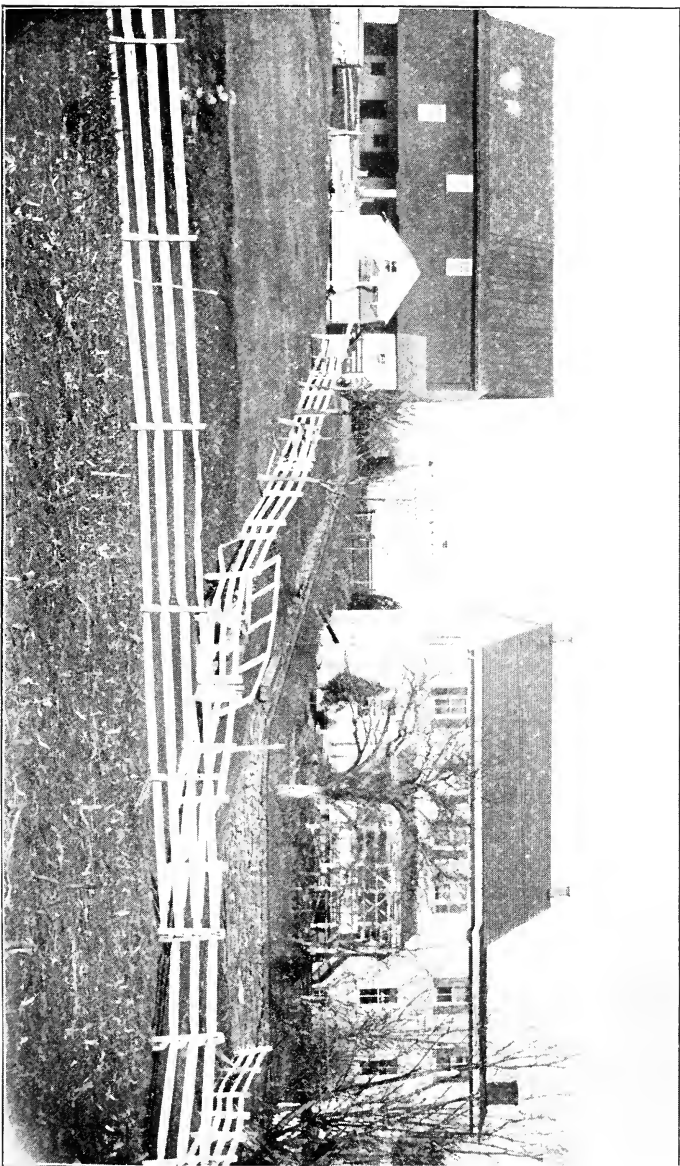

That the work may meet the general approval is the earnest wish of the

CHRISTIAN MEYER, SR., HOMESTEAD, IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY, PA.

THE MEYER FAMILY HISTORY.

I. Christian Meyer, the progenitor of a family numerously represented in Montgomery, Bucks, and adjacent counties in Pennsylvania, with many widely scattered throughout many of the States and Canada, settled in Lower Salford township, Montgomery county.

The tradition of the family point to Switzerland as the fatherland, where the Mennonites, to which sect he belonged, were unmercifully persecuted by the State church, which he, with others, unable longer to endure, abandoned their homes in the mountain fastnesses and fled for safety to the Netherlands.

From thence, about 1700 or later, Christian Meyer, of Amsterdam, sailed to Philadelphia, and later located at the Indian Creek, in what is now Lower Salford township, Montgomery county, where he had purchased his farm containing 150 acres.

It is not known in what year Christian Meyer purchased his land, but it is ascertained by a conveyance granted by James Steel to Henry Funk, dated December 24, 1719, that Christian Meyer already owned the land. Neither is it known from whom he purchased it, or whether he obtained it by virtue of a warrant. The latter seems to be the most probable. He received a patent therefor from the Hon. John Penn, Thomas Penn and Richard Penn, dated September 6, 1734.

His farm was in the form of a parallelogram, and was 240 perches in length and 100 perches wide. * "It extended from near the North Wales road northeast along the present Souderton turnpike, back to the line of Franconia township, and then along the said line northwest 100 perches, bounded on that side by land at first owned by James Steel, of Philadelphia. On the northwest it was bounded by land belonging to Dirk Johnson, of Germantown; on the southeast by Hans Meyer's land, and on the southwest by land belonging to John Isaac Klein."

There has been preserved a description of a cabin then and there erected by him, and which was probably the first Meyer domicile in the Western world. It was built where Joseph Drissel now lives and consisted of four forked saplings driven into the ground, and marking out a square in the forks were laid poles, and on these a roof of poles, and the walls were of upright poles. There was a single opening for an entrance, and the whole was built with an axe.

An article of furniture which probably adorned this primitive house was a large Dutch clock, brought over from the Old World, which is now a much-treasured relic in the possession of Tillman W. Moyer, of Campden, Ontario, Canada.

In 1734 Christian Meyer was rated for 100 acres in Salford township, 50 acres having at an early day been cut off from the original tract for his son Samuel, who lived where the late Joseph L. Moyer resided. He received a deed for it in November, 1741.

The remaining farm of 100 acres of the old homestead Christian Meyer conveyed to his grandson

* James Y. Heckler, in history of Lower Salford township.

Christian Meyer on December 28 and 29, 1748, who added to it by subsequent purchases until he owned in all 232 acres.

It is not known by what good ship our ancestor, Christian Meyer, was brought safely over the waters, the dates of sailing or landing, or who his companions were, and there are no traditions of episodes or incidents of the voyage. These last, at least, are lost in the misty haze of unrecorded facts.

It would be interesting to know what his impressions were of the new land, and his dreams of the future. One may well believe the hearts of these emigrants were filled with emotions of mingled sadness and gladness, and that while regretting the majestic mountains, the glacial streams and the loved homeland of their fathers, they also rejoiced in the knowledge that they had found security for life, liberty and conscience, in the commonwealth of the good William Penn, and bravely plunged into the wilderness, erected their cabins amidst the howling of the wild beasts and the yells of the treacherous savages; carved out their homes, subdued the land, and made the wilderness to rejoice and blossom as the rose; built up the altars of the Lord in their midst and praised Him from whom all blessings flow, with hearts overflowing with gratitude to Him who had led them out of the house of bondage into the land of universal liberty and freedom, where they could worship the God of their fathers around their own altars without fear or restraint. And thus has the Lord led them, multiplied them exceedingly, and blessed them unto this day. Well may the descendants of to-day revere the memory of him who, with such unflinching courage, braved the perils of sea and land to find a home and found a family in this land of religious liberty, and may they imitate the example of the worthy sire in his reverence for God and His sacred word. It would be interesting, too, to know the name of his helpmeet, his bosom companion, who shared with him the trials and sufferings of the fatherland and with equal readiness accompanied him in his flight, undaunted by the then long, tedious and perilous voyage of the ocean, to aid in making a home in the wilds of America and together finish their earthly pilgrimage in this land of the free. But all we know is that her given name was Barbara.

It would give much satisfaction, too, to know just where they were laid to rest to await the resurrection blasts of Gabriel's trumpet, that we might reverently stand within the city of the dead, at the place where repose the precious dust. But He alone knoweth who knoweth the sepulchre of Moses on Mount Nebo's top, and who in His own good time will bid the sleeping dust of His servants to arise. They were among the original worshipers at the Franconia Mennonite meetinghouse, where he and wife are probably buried.

Christian Meyer made his last will and testament, in writing, January 18, 1748. It was probated June 6, 1751, which shows that he died between the dates given, probably in the early part of 1751. Barbara, his wife, had died before he wrote the will. His eldest son, Christian Meyer, and his "loving son-in-law, Henry Funck," were the sole executors of his estate.

Following is a copy of the will :—

DESCENDANTS OF CHRISTIAN MEYER, JR.,
SON OF CHRISTIAN MEYER.

II. Christian Meyer, Jr., b. about 1705, d. about 1787. Mrd. Magdalena —.

He lived in Franconia township where he purchased of James Steel and wife Martha of Philadelphia, 170 acres of land, Nov. 14, 1729. His farm was bounded by lands of Henry Rosenberger, John Freed, Martin Detweiler, George Delp, and others. In his will dated Apr. 26, 1782, he devised this whole tract of 170 acres of land to his son Samuel Mayer, for the sum of £800 of gold or silver.

On May 1, 1794, Samuel Moyer, then of Hiltown twp., Bucks co., and Catharine his wife, conveyed to their son Isaac Moyer, of Franconia twp., 87 acres and 73 perches of the said 170 acres, and on the same date, May 1, 1794, Samuel Moyer and his wife Catharine granted to their son Christian 87 acres and 76 perches, being also a part of the 170-acre tract. On Apr. 7, 1810, Christian Moyer (son of Samuel) and his wife Mary, of Bedminister, Bucks co., granted to their son Rudolph the same 87 acres 76 perches, and on Nov. 20, 1866, Rudolph Moyer and his wife Barbara granted to their son Abraham F., the present owner, the same tract and premises. The said plantation of 170 acres is now divided into three farms, owned and occupied by Abraham F. Moyer, Benjamin P. Moyer, and Henry B. Kulp.

The tract was in the first place a regular parallelogram, 283 perches long and 96 perches wide and included all the land belonging to the Mennonite church (about 3 acres) except the graveyard. The land extended all the way from the corner of the Mennonite church southwest along the Harleysville and Souderton turnpike 283 perches, $\frac{7}{8}$ of a mile to the corner of the other road generally known as Young's corner. The old homestead proper where Christian Meyer, Jr., lived is located $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile s. w. of the Franconia Mennonite church, where now lives Abraham F. Moyer, a great-grandson of Christian Meyer, Jr. The farm has been in the same family now for 166 years. Mr. Moyer, the present owner, still recollects when the first house (probably built by Christian Meyer, Jr.) was torn down. It did not stand quite on the same place where the present house stands.

Christian Meyer, Jr., was a very prominent Mennonite, and stood front in the church. He was one of the founders of the Mennonite meetinghouse in Salford, the ground for which was purchased in 1738 by Henry Funck, Dielman Kolb, ministers, and Christian Meyer, Jr., and Abraham Reiff, deacons. He was later chosen to the ministry and served at Franconia.* He was also one of the chief actors in

* In the records of Franconia church a Christian Meyer is mentioned as a deacon, and a Christian Meyer is also mentioned as a minister. Christian Meyer, Jr., was a deacon when the Salford Mennonite church was organized in 1738, and it is quite evident, to the author's mind at least, that he was later chosen to the ministry at Franconia, and in his capacity as minister, no doubt, conducted the examination at the Plains meetinghouse in the controversy with his nephew, Rev. Christian Funk, which is clearly intimated in Christian Funk's "Mirror to All Mankind."

the controversy with his nephew, Rev. Christian Funk, who was expelled from the church on account of his attitude toward Congress, and conducted an examination into the matter at the Plain Mennonite meetinghouse.

He made his last will and testament Apr. 26, 1782, and which was probated May 31, 1787. He probably died in the early part of 1787. His son Samuel Moyer, and his son-in-law Abraham Kratz, were the executors of his estate.

The following is a copy of the will :

“ In the name of God Amen. I Christian Moyer of the township of Franconia in the county of Philadelphia Yoeman, being aged and infirm of Body but of sound mind and memory thanks be to God do this twenty sixth day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty two make and publish this my last Will and Testament in manner and form as follows. Imprimis I commend my soul into the Hands of Almighty God who gave it unto me and my Body to the Earth to be decently and in a Christ an like manner buried at the discretion of my Executor hereinafter named in hopes of a joyful Resurrection thro' the merits of my Saviour Jesus Christ. And as for the worldly Goods and temporal Estate wherew th it hath pleased God to bless me, I disposed thereof as follows, that is to say ; First is my Will that my just Debts and funeral Expenses shall be paid and satisfied. Item I give and bequeath unto my beloved Wife Magdalena Mayer the sum of one hundred and twenty five Pounds (in Gold or Silver) to be paid unto her by my Executors out of the first money that comes into their Hands from my Estate, and also our Feather Bed and Bedstead, with all the furniture thereunto belonging, and her Chest with all that is in it and one Milch Cow to chuse which she pleases in lien of other Dower.

Item I give to the Congregation to which I belong the Sum of ten Pounds, to be distributed by the Elders thereof to the Poor and needy of the Same. Item I give unto Philip Lauterbach the sum of five pounds, all which Legacies I order to be paid in Gold and Silver in the following manner that is to say, a golden half Johannes weighing nine pennyweight, to be paid and received for three Pounds & a milled spanish Dollar for seven shillings and six Pence, and all other Gold and silver Coin in the same Proportion.

Item I give and devise unto my son Samuel Mayer all my Tract of Land situated and being in the Township of Franconia aforesaid and is bounded by Lands of Henry Rosenberger, John Freed, Martin Detweiler, George Delp, and others, containing one hundred and seventy acres be the same more or less, to have and to hold the aforesaid Tract of one hundred and seventy acres, of Land, together with the Hereditaments and Appurtenances thereunto belonging (together with my two Copper Stills) unto my said son Samuel Mayer, his Heirs and Assigns forever, under this express Limitation, that my son Samuel Mayer or his Heirs or Assigns, shall pay or cause to be well and truly paid for the Said Tract of Land, the sum of eight hundred Pounds in Gold or Silver money (at the following rate viz a golden half Johannes weighing nine Pennyweights to be paid for three Pounds and a milled Spanish Dollar for Seven Shillings and six pence and all other Gold and Silver Coin in the same proportion) In the following manner that is to say, the sum of seventy five Pounds as the first payment thereof at the end of the year after my Decease, and the sum of seventy five Pounds in every year following until the whole sum is paid. And whereas I have heretofore given and paid unto each of my sons and Daughters, Goods and Chattles and sums of money, a true account whereof I have entered in a Book, therefore is my Will and do ordain and direct, because some have received more than others, that those or their Heirs that received less than others shall first receive Goods or money to the value of so much, until they all have equal shares one as much as the other, and further is my Will that all my Goods and Chattles not herein before mentioned to be given and bequeathed, and the said sum of eight hundred Pounds, which my son Samuel is herein ordered to pay for the herein before dev.sed Tract of Land (after my just Debts and the afore mentioned Legacies are all paid) shall be equally divided and paid, first to all the children of my oldest son Christian Mayer deceased, one full seventh part thereof to be also equally divided to them all; And then to all the children, and Margareth my great Grand Daughter (only child of his son Jacob also deceased) of my son Jacob Mayer deceased one full Seventh Part thereof, also to be equally divided to them all, and to my son Samuel one full and equal seventh Part thereof. And my sons in Law John Kratz, Abraham Kratz and Martin Detweiler to each one full & equal Seventh Part thereof. VIII. Rev. William G. Moyer, born in Philadelphia, March 8, 1867 ; married Virginia Williams, daughter Andrew J. Williams, of Navesink, New Jersey, in 1890. Mr. Moyer's boyhood days were spent on a farm, where he followed the usual routine of farm life. At the age of 15 he apprenticed himself to Heebner & Sons, of Lansdale, Pa., to learn the machinist trade. While here he was converted under the ministry of Rev. J. G. Bickerton, pastor of the Meth. Ep. ch. of Lansdale, in 1882. He was at once marked out as a chosen vessel for the Lord's service, and soon after his conversion entered Pennington Seminary to prepare for the Gospel ministry. He was licensed as a local preacher in 1886, and sent as a supply to Manchester charge in the New Jersey Conference. This was his first charge. On entering the work he found the church greatly demoralized and the spiritual condition at a very low ebb. But entering upon his work with great enthusiasm he succeeded in imparting it alike to his people, and the church was soon filled with attentive hearers, and every interest of the church greatly improved. Before the year closed the church was blessed with an extensive revival in which 100 persons were converted and received on probation, some of whom are now leading members of the church.

In 1889 he joined the New Jersey Conference and was appointed to Eatontown charge, where a revival of considerable power was held and many improvements made.

In 1890 he was appointed to South River. During his pastorate of three years at this place about 100 were received into the church by letter and probation. The church and parsonage were repaired. The Sunday school increased in number and interest, the young peoples' meetings soon became a power, and all the interests of the church seemed to be revived under his efficient pastorate.

In 1893 he was appointed to Port Norris, N. J., his present field of labor, and where his labors have been most abundantly blessed of God. The following January after his appointment one of the greatest religious awakenings ever known in the vicinity took place, resulting in the conversion of 300 souls. Mr. Moyer is highly spoken of as a preacher; his congregations are always large. He is a man of marvelous magnetism, has ability, energy, tact and enthusiasm. He was received into full membership in his conference and ordained to deacons orders by Bishop H. J. Vincent in 1892, and was ordained Elder by Bishop Andrews in 1894. March, 1895, he was appointed to State St. M. E. Church, Camden, N. J. Children: (IX) Cora Colwell Moyer, Mar. 17, 1891; (IX) Helen Maria Moyer, b. May 30, 1892.

When the subject of this sketch was eight days old his mother died and he was then cared for by his maternal grandparents until 16 years of age. He attended the common schools of the vicinity, and at an early age was sent to Freeland Seminary, at Collegeville, Pa., now known as Ursinus College, where he attended three years. The two years following he taught public schools, giving general satisfaction. When 19 years of age he commenced the study of medicine with his uncle, Dr. Joseph Moyer, a successful practitioner, then residing at Kulpsville, Pa. He afterwards entered Pennsylvania Medical University, from which he graduated Mar. 5, 1859, and on the 26th of the same month located at Plumsteadville, Bucks Co., Pa., where he was engaged in a lucrative practice for nine years. In the Spring of 1868 he sold his practice and traveled considerably during that year. On Apr. 5, 1869, he resumed the practice of medicine and located at Quakertown, Pa., having purchased the practice of Drs. Joseph Thomas and Richard J. Linderman. Here he has resided ever since and enjoyed a larger practice than at his former place.

When quite young he manifested a love for botany, the study of which he ever since followed with pleasure and profit. He thoroughly investigated the flora of Bucks county, and in 1876 published a catalogue of plants of said county, which was added to Gen. W. W. H. Davis' "History of Bucks county." This was the published flora of the county.

The doctor studied natural history generally, and is well versed in ornithology. He is a member of the

In 1880 was a member of the Electoral College of Pennsylvania on the Republican ticket. In 1887 he received from Muhlenberg College, at Allentown, Pa., the degree of A. M. The doctor has now been practicing medicine for thirty-five years, during which time he met with great success, and won the confidence and good will of the people with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Moyer attended the common schools at home, and took an academic course at Freeland Seminary, now Ursinus College, Collegetown, Pa. He commenced the study of medicine with his brother, Dr. I. S. Moyer, A. M., at Quakertown, Pa., and followed a course of medicine at the Pennsylvania University, from which institution he graduated in 1872. Soon after he located in Dublin, Pa., and had a large practice, which he sold in the Spring of 1890.

The doctor was a born physician, he seemed to understand his cases almost by instinct and was successful in treating them. He had a large practice to the end of his life. He will long be remembered as one of the most successful physicians ever living in that community. He died after a short but severe attack of typhoid fever at Doylestown, Pa.

VII. Harvey Price Moyer, b. near Mainland, Montg. Co., Pa., Oct. 17, 1859. His early education was received in the common schools of the neighborhood, including a short term at the well-known boarding school at Trappe, Pa., under the management of Prof. Rambo, then County Superintendent of the schools of Montgomery county. At the age of 16 he began teaching public school near Mainland, continuing for two years. In the Spring of 1879 he entered the normal school at Huntingdon, Pa., where he graduated in 1880. The next two years were spent in teaching school at Stewartsville and Alexandria, Pa., and in taking advanced studies in the Huntingdon Normal College. In the Fall of 1882 he entered the Senior preparatory class at Oberlin College, Oberlin, O., finishing this course in 1883. In the latter part of this year he was called to fill a position in the preparatory department of Mt. Morris College, Mt. Morris, Ill., teaching Latin, Greek and English literature. This position he held for three years, finishing in the meantime the regular studies of the Freshman year in college. During this period (June 19, 1884) he married Elizabeth Leslie, of Nappanee, Ind., who had been a former student of Huntingdon Normal School, of Huntingdon, Pa. In the Fall of 1886 he moved with his family to Oberlin, O., to enter the Sophomore class of that college. By means of teaching, leading choir, and the most rigid economy, he managed to support his family, continue his studies and complete his college course free of debt, graduating with honors in the classical course of 1889.

It had been his intention to continue his studies in the Theological Seminary, but, unable to do this satisfactorily to himself, owing to the lack of funds, it was thought best at this time to seek some employment to replenish the depleted treasury. Just then an opening was found in the West, and in Nov. 1889 he joined his former classmate, H. L. Hall, at Des Moines, Iowa, and engaged in selling school supplies. Success during the first year at this enterprise resulted in being admitted as an equal partner into the firm known as the Western School Supply House, Des Moines, Iowa, with which he is still connected. This company, now incorporated, with H. L. Hall president, and H. P. Moyer vice president and treasurer, controls some valuable patents and has been doing a flourishing business.

Mr. Moyer's college work was characterized by considerable special work, involving original investigations. Several of his writings on religious subjects have received favorable comment from able critics. He has since kept up his literary interest and is devoting considerable attention to reform movements, especially along the line of the growing movement of Christian Socialism. In the midst of a busy business life he finds time to be the active leader of his church choir, teacher in a large and enthusiastic Bible class, and secretary of the Federation of Evangelical Churches in his city. His activity in literary, musical, religious and reform work promises substantial results in the future. Cong. Children : (VIII) Vera Lenore Moyer, b. June 7, 1886 ; (VIII) Benton Leslie Moyer, b. The details handed down to us of his characteristics and life history are very meagre. He lived in Hilltown township, Bucks Co., where he owned two farms, one of 105 acres, and the other near Blooming Glen, where Samuel Godshall now lives, containing 211 acres, and which was the homestead where Jacob Meyer lived and died. He was a minister of the Mennonite church, and there is no doubt but that he was one of the ministers of the old Perkasio (now Blooming Glen) congregation. He made his will Dec. 18, 1777, which was probated June 19, 1782.

To his sons Christian and Jacob, and daughter Mary, he willed the sum of £126 each (being their deceased mother's portion paid into his hands). To Jacob was willed the tract of 105 acres in Hilltown on condition that he pay to Christian £150. To his wife Barbara he gave various household goods absolutely, also the use of the homestead farm of 211 acres in Hilltown, and all his goods, chattles and farming utensils until twelve years after his death on condition that she educate the children, and then the farm to go to his sons, Michael and Samuel, on certain conditions. He appointed his brother Samuel and his friend Jacob Kolb as executors and guardians of his minor children.

He died of yellow fever in 1778, and his wife Barbara almost immediately after became a victim to the same disease.

IV. Christian Meyer (dec'd). In his younger days he was of a wild and roving disposition. He lived at one time in Philadelphia. Late in life he married and lived for some time in Ohio, where several daughters were born to him, but infelicities came and he lived apart from his wife. His latter days were spent with one of his daughters in Westmoreland county, Pa.

IV. Michael Meyer (dec'd). His will was dated Sept. 21, 1780, and probated Aug. 5, 1782. His will shows that he was not married and had no issue.

IV. Agnes Meyer, b. in Montg. Co., Pa., in 1764 ; d. in Elgin Co., Ont., in 1835, aged 71 years. Both her parents dying of yellow fever in 1778 she was left an orphan at the age of 14. A few years later while riding on horseback to a wedding, accompanied by her cousin (afterward Rev. Jacob Meyer), they were discussing her orphaned and homeless condition, when Agnes took him into her confidence and informed him that she had an offer of marriage. What would he advise? We may guess, for she was soon married to Christian Hunsberger, a stone mason. Ten boys and four girls came to bless their union. Truly, marriage was not a failure in those brave days of old.

With husband and their numerous flock of little ones they emigrated to Lincoln Co., Canada, in 1800. Ten years later they removed West to the Talbot District, Elgin county, and settled on a farm in the township of Bayham, where the relatives at the Twenty almost lost trace of them, for a wilderness of forest seperated them.

She was a woman of medium size, fair complexion and had blue eyes. She has grandchildren still living (1894) who well remember her. One of them, Mrs. Bearss, of Aylmer, Ont., heard from her own lips the story of the yellow fever and of the sympathy and sorrow Agnes felt for her brother Samuel when they were left to fight life's battles for themselves.

Agnes Hunsberger was renowned for her goodness of heart, her nobility of character and usefulness in the new settlement. She was remarkably gifted in the healing art, and her counsel, advice and help were ever in demand among the scattered settlers of the Talbot District. Notwithstanding her own full share of domestic cares, with a family of fourteen children, she answered all urgent calls as physician or nurse. Her favorite chestnut mare, a most intelligent beast, carried her safely through the wilderness at all hours of day or night on the errands of mercy.

After the death of her husband she expressed a wish to live in a house of her own, and her son Christopher erected a cottage for her near the homestead, where she spent the remaining years of her life. She was especially beloved by her numerous grandchildren, to whom it was the greatest joy and favor to be permitted to visit and stay all night with "Gross Mutter." A few hours before her death she sang the well-known verse from hymn 371, in "Die Geistliche Harfa" (Michael Billmeyer, 1810):

" Soll diese nacht die letzte sein,
In diesem jammer thal,
So feuhre mich in Himmel ein,
Zur auserwählten schaar."

In 1853 Michael H. Rittenhouse became owner, upon whose death the farm passed into the hands of his son, W. B. Rittenhouse. He spent his youth on the farm, assisting his father during the Summer and attending the country schools during the Winter months, and by close attention to his studies succeeded in obtaining a first-class A certificate to teach in the common schools, which he followed for five years. At the request of his father he took charge of the farm, where he has since resided. In addition to farming he is also engaged extensively in fruit growing and pisciculture. His ponds, known as the Excelsior fish ponds, are known all over Canada, and many are the ponds that have been stocked by him. V. Abraham Hunsberger, b. in Montg. Co., Pa., June 28, 1794; d. Dec. 24, 1862; mrd. Anna Rittenhouse Feb. 13, 1817.

In the year 1800 Abraham Hunsberger removed with his parents to Lincoln county, Ont., where the years of his boyhood and youth were spent. Some years later they removed to Bayham township, Elgin county, and settled on a homestead in the then backwoods. His early education had been exclusively in German and for a time he taught a German school, but later in life he learned also to read English, his 9-year-old son Enos being his tutor. He held the office of school trustee and in other ways took an active part in the educational interests of the community. Near the village of Straffordville (then called Sandy Town) he cleared and donated to the public an acre of ground for burial purposes a "God's Acre," free to all, regardless of their religious belief, and in which he himself lies buried. He contributed freely of his time and means for the opening up and improvement of new roads, not only in his capacity as Path Master, but often by getting up "Bees" for the purpose. He made it a rule to give three to five days of each year to the service of the poor. This time was largely devoted to soliciting contributions for, and alleviating the sufferings of those who had met with fire losses or other misfortunes, and he himself always gave liberally to every good cause. He was widely known for his hospitality, benevolence and honorable manner of dealing, and lived so truly pious a life that he had the confidence and esteem of all who knew him. He attended the Methodist church while living in Bayham, but to the last he had a feeling of deep sympathy and regard for the church of his fathers and of his own early years, and near the end of his life went 80 miles to the Moyer settlement at the "Twenty" to receive the Holy Sacrament from Mennonite hands. IV. Samuel Meyer, born in Montg. Co., Pa., Mar. 4, 1767. His parents died of yellow fever before he was 10 years old. Where or how he spent the years immediately following is not known, but we must believe they were well spent, from the fact that at the age of 16 he was teacher in a common school. In early life he developed an aptitude for music and was appointed "vor singer" in meeting, and also taught singing schools. On November 5, 1789, he married 19-year-old Anna Bechtel, who bore him five sons and three daughters. Their home was at Blooming Glen. He was a leading promoter of, and actor in, the pilgrimage to Canada West in the year 1800, some account of which is given elsewhere in this volume. Two four-horse teams carried his family four hundred miles to the settlement at the "Twenty" in Lincoln county, Ontario, where he at once purchased from William Wiers, a U. E. Loyalist, 200 acres of good land, paying $400 cash for the same. There was a rude log cabin in the clearing and four acres of wheat ready for the sickle, besides potatoes and other vegetables growing for the year's need. Near the cabin stood a large oak stump burned out at the top in the shape of a mortar in which the Weirs family cracked their wheat and pounded their hominy. Later this was filled with earth and used as a hot bed to start early plants in for the garden.

In those grand forests game was plentiful and the long-barreled flintlock rifle enabled settlers to supply an abundance of venison for the table. His boys never forgot one shot in the dark when a deer was dimly seen in the clearing, the correct aim of their father bringing down a large buck pierced through the heart. Not so accurate was his aim when one day he selected the leader of a dozen wild geese overhead and brought down No. 12 instead of No. 1. Salmon were then plentiful in the lakes and came up the Twenty-mile creek to Ball's Falls, where the settlers speared them with pitchforks. Wolves, bears, wild cats, etc., were numerous. On one occasion while going to mill at the Short Hills, twelve miles from home, with the little grist in a sack on horseback, Meyer leading the horse, a she bear and two cubs were met in the road. The surprise was mutual, and being unarmed, Meyer very quickly exchanged places with the sack. Bruin and her cubs scampered off in one direction while horse and rider went the opposite way.

During the Summer of 1820 he made a visit on horseback to the old home at Blooming Glen, Pa., accompanied by Joseph Michener and Henry Houser on foot. They lodged together the first six nights, but on the seventh day the pedestrians left the horseman behind, arriving at Bethlehem, Pa., on the fourteenth day, four hours ahead of the rider. Next day the journey was completed. After a five weeks' visit they prepared for the return. Samuel Meyer bought another horse, a double set of harness and a new canvass-covered wagon. By the recent death of his father-in-law, Jacob Bechtel, he received a snug sum of money for his wife, and was also asked to carry other money to one Eiman in Canada, total $1400 in gold and silver coin. Joseph Michener made a strong double-bottomed tool chest. The coin was concealed between the bottoms, and the chest was then filled up with new tools and locked. They started, Meyer with the loaded wagon, the other two men on foot. For fourteen nights Michener slept in that wagon, generally with one eye open, and at some rowdy taverns he kept both eyes open. The longest stretch of road without a settler was eleven miles. On the fifteenth day they crossed the Niagara river at Black Rock, near Buffalo, and stayed with a farmer named Sherk at Black Creek, reaching home next day.

His next trip to Pennsylvania, a few years later, he made on foot, getting some chance rides, and completed the journey in nine days. He was a rapid walker and more than once covered 6 miles in an hour.

In 1832, at his own expense, he hired Joseph Michener to build a three-pier bridge across the Twenty, which stood for many years.

Samuel Meyer was a man of more than ordinary talent. He never attended an English school, yet acquired a very fair English education. His writing in English was excellent, in German elegant. He taught for many years the first school in the settlement, in a log building where now stands the Mennonite meetinghouse, "below the mountain."

He was a man of fine physique, rather tall, powerful in muscle, rapid on foot, an extraordinary swimmer, and, though non-resistant in principal, abundantly able to take care of himself. Excepting with ague, he was never sick a day in his life.

He was well informed in regard to legal papers, many old deeds and other documents still in existence being in his own handwriting. He led the singing in his own church for forty years, composing numerous hymns and tunes which were as neatly penned as manuscripts by monks before the art of printing was invented. While speaking usually the Pennsylvania dialect he was master also of the best High German. His enterprising, good judgment, frugality, kindness and hospitality, and above all, his truly Christian life, have left their impression for good and for good only.

He was twice married. His first wife, Anna Bechtel, was a small woman, but plump and comely. She wore short skirts and a jacket. Her best hat was a white beaver, and the crown about an inch high. She died February 12, 1832, having been an invalid for many years. On October 11, 1836, he married Katharine Bechtel, widow first of Daniel High, Sr., and second of Rév. Jacob Meyer. She outlived her third husband. Samuel Meyer died Aug. 22, 1844, and Katharine February 6, 1851. Farmer; Menns. Children: Magdalena, Jacob, Anna, Barbara, Samuel, Abraham, David, Joseph.

V. Anna Moyer, born in Montgomery Co., Pa., July 17, 1799 ; died June 22, 1827 ; mrd. Rev. Jacob Gross (his first wife) Dec. 17, 1817. P. O. Beamsville, Ontario. Farmer and minister ; Ev. Ass'n. Children : Samuel, Mary, Annie, John, Elizabeth.

Rev. Jacob Gross, son of Rev. Jacob and Maria Krall Gross, was born in Plumstead township, Bucks county, Pa., Dec. 22, 1780. The years of his childhood and early manhood were passed under the parental roof of his sainted father, amid the stirring scenes incident to and following the war of the Revolution. On the farm adjoining to the Gross homestead lies buried the noted Tory chief, Moses Doan.

An honest, thrifty young laboring man, with generous impulses, he had gained quite a competency by the time he attained his 30th year. In the year 1810 he left his early home and turned his face toward the setting sun and the North Star and journeyed to that then far off country (Canada) on foot, in company with his brother John, returning to Pennsylvania after a brief sojourn. He finally moved to Canada after the close of the war of 1812, and married Anna Moyer December 18, 1817. He bought and settled on the farm near Beansville, Ont., Canada, which he occupied as a prosperous and well-to-do farmer until his demise. His hospitable roof gave shelter to the itinerant preacher and the stranger irrespective of creed. He was not forgetful of the Apostolic injunction: "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers."

His eventful career was not without its touch of sorrow. The dreaded messenger, Death, entered his home June 22, 1827, removed his wife and left him to mourn his loss with five motherless children: Samuel, Mary, John, Anna, Elizabeth. His sister, Mary Nash, a widow, left her home in Tinicum, Pa., with her little daughter Anna, for Canada, to keep house for him and minister to the wants of his motherless children. She proved a kind and true foster mother to the children, who still hold her in grateful remembrance, though long since fallen asleep, a mother in Israel, the pride and ornament of the minister's home.

Rev. Jacob Gross married a second time, to Salome, daughter of Elder Samuel and Susanna Bleam Moyer, of Hilltown, Bucks county, Pa., August 23, 1830, who died after a brief illness April 10, 1878, and lies buried in the Evangelical graveyard at Campden, Ont.

In the year 1833 he was elected a minister of the Mennonite Church and later ordained bishop. He was a faithful minister of the creed, an honest and sincere man, who had the courage to maintain his convictions. During his incumbency in office as bishop, a religious controversy arose in reference to the temperance cause, Sunday school and prayer meetings. In the year 1849 he, with others of his congregation, left the Memnonite Church and united with the Evangelical Association, of which he continued a member and minister until his death, November 25, 1865. He lies buried beside his second wife in the Evangelical graveyard at Campden, Ont., Can. Children (second wife): Susan, Salome, Jacob (who died in infancy, aged 2 years and 6 months).

Mr. Gross was a finely educated gentleman and a writer of superior ability, and his contributions to the local press always attracted attention. His library was a very complete one, and he was a well informed man on most any topic. He was also the author of very good poetry possessing a charm which brought out the noble instinct of man.

In 1865 he went to Erie, Pa., and entered the employ of Carroll Bros., lumber merchants, from which he resigned in 1890. He then took a position with the Erie Fish Association, but later took charge of the Fishermans' Fish Company. He was a member of Perry Lodge, No. 399, F. and A. M., of Erie.

They had twelve children, ten of whom survived and two died in infancy. His occupation was farming, his trade broom making. In his earlier years he made boots and shoes for himself and others, and also linen and woolen goods for family use. His parents emigrated from Pennsylvania to Canada, lured by the prospect of good cheap lands in a new country. The journey was made in wagons and occupied about six weeks, and not a few dangers were encountered and hardships endured on the way. The family settled near the Twenty-mile creek, two miles east of the present village of Campden, in what was at that time a dense forest, inhabited only by Indians and wild beasts. It is related that some settlers who preceded them were murdered by the Indians at this place, which was said to be haunted by the barking of a dog belonging to victims of the outrage who died in self-defence.

Mr. Moyer received a good education from his father, a school teacher himself, and a Commissioner of Deeds, etc. He was of small stature, erect in bearing, and quite active to within a few years of his death, quiet and reserved in manner, of a kind and generous disposition, of excellent habits, and of exemplary character in every respect. He was a member of the first temperance society organized in the Province. He gradually succumbed to the weakness of old age and died a calm and peaceful death at the age of 81 in the Mennonite faith. His remains lie in the Mennonite burying ground near Campden, beside whose were laid six years later those of the beloved wife and mother. He received a good common school education, and was engaged in farming and manufacturing of brooms at home before marriage, and afterward on the Rittenhouse farm, four miles due west from the place of his birth. In 1871 he removed to the village of Campden and went into the dry goods and grocery business, at first in connection with the postoffice in partnership with Joseph B. Grobb, and subsequently on his own account until 1890, when he removed to Texas, where he is now engaged in the manufacture of brooms. By industry and hard work in a limited field of labor he has succeeded in educating his family, which has been his aim rather than the accumulation of much property. He was baptized in the Mennonite faith, but is now a member of the Presbyterian church. He has always taken an interest in church affairs. Children: Hewson, Sarah, Emma, Ida, Edward.

VII. Hewson Henry Moyer was born on what was known as the Rittenhouse farm, in Clinton Twp., Lincoln Co., Ont., Sept. 23, 1859. When he was 12 years of age his father removed to the village of Campden in the same county, where the son attended the public school and obtained a third grade teachers' certificate. At the age of 18 he began teaching, and was first employed in the school of the district in which he was born and where he had received his primary education, numbering among his pupils some of his former schoolmates. Here he remained one and a half years, in the meantime securing a second grade certificate. He then entered the normal school at Ottawa, from which he graduated in December of 1879. After teaching a year and a half longer in the Union School on the lake shore, Louth township, he entered the Collegiate Institute at St. Catharines,

JOHN H. HOUSSER.

Ont., where he spent two years, passing the matriculation and first year examinations in arts of the University of Toronto, with first-class honors in modern languages, history and geography at both examinations. The vacation following was spent in newspaper work on the Berlin (Ontario) "News" and on the Welland "Tribune," but finding it more remunerative he resumed teaching for more than a year at Virgil, near Niagara, on the lake. From Niagara he removed to Buffalo in March 1885, and for nearly six years filled the position of cashier of the Masonic Life Association, of western New York. Afterward he resigned his position and accepted the management of an accident insurance company.

In September 1892 he received the appointment as principal of Public School No. 47, which position he still retains, as also that of night High school teacher, having received the latter appointment when the school was opened in 1890. June 22, 1887, he was married to Margaret Anna, daughter of Captain Campbell, of Woodstock, Ont. He is a member of the Presbyterian church and secretary of the board of trustees, also an officer of Washington Lodge, No. 240, F. and A. M.; treasurer of the 22nd Ward Good Government Club and member of the executive committee of the principal association of Buffalo. One child: (VIII) Gladys Campbell Moyer, born July 12, 1891.

VII. Sarah Lodema Moyer, b. in Lincoln Co., Ont., Sept. 22, 1861; mrd Rev. Louis Henry Wagner July 4, 1889. P. O. Stratford, Ont. Mrs. Wagner began teaching when 17 years of age, taught two and a half years when from over work she was taken sick. After a year's rest she resumed her labors and taught two and a half years more. She then (January 1, 1885) entered the Buffalo General Hospital training school for nurses, and after two years training graduated. During 1887 and 1888 she done private nursing in Buffalo, Emporium, Pa., Angola, N. Y., Clifton Springs Sanitarium, St. Louis, Mo., and Great Falls, New Hampshire.

Her husband, Rev. Louis Henry Wagner, was born in Grove township, Alleghany county, N. Y., April 11, 1857. His father, Rev. Jacob Wagner, was a native of Germany, born at Siefersheim, near Bingen on the Rhine, Hessen. He emigrated with his parents in 1840 and settled in the vicinity of Lyons, N. Y., where he was employed with his father, Henry Wagner, at farming and the coopers' trade, until brought to the Saviour by that indefatigable pioneer missionary, Rev. Joseph Harlacher, and began preaching at the age of 18, serving very important fields in the state of New York and Canada. He died in Berlin, Ont., April 19, 1858. His wife Margaret (nee Hailer) born upon Canadian soil, but of German descent, her father being from Wilfredingen, Baden, and her mother from Muhlhausen, Alsace, were the first German born settlers at Berlin, Ont., where they arrived in 1831. Several years after the death of her husband Mrs. Wagner married one Daniel Bean, a country school teacher, and Lewis Henry received a good common school education. An uncle after whom he was named, and his grandfather Jacob Hailer, of Berlin, took quite an interest in the lad, and with a view of giving him a better education offered him a home in their families, which he accepted, and when 13 years old left his mother's home to attend the Central school at Berlin. Three years later he passed the examination and attended the High school, continuing several years. An idea to get into business life possessed him, so he entered the employ of his uncle, Louis Breithaupt, as an apprentice tanner, remaining with him two years, also learning the trade of leather belt making during that time. The desire for still better educational attainments now again made themselves strongly felt, and he received permission to attend Northwestern College, an institution of the Evangelical Association at Naperville, Ill., where he remained three years, after which, in the Summer of 1878, he again entered the employ of his uncle as clerk in the leather and shoe findings department, and later as bookkeeper and traveling salesman.

Quite early in life impressions of a higher calling, that to which his sainted father sacrificed his energies and life, made themselves felt, but not until the Winter and Spring of 1882 would he consent to give it any attention. In his 12th year he was received into church fellowship on profession of faith, and as often as he lived up to the inner promptings of love and duty to God and man something seemed to tell him in words unheard by others yet keenly felt by himself, "you are not where God wants you." Being fond of business and not desiring the staid realities of an itinerant preacher's life, he would, for the time being, drown these inner promptings in the interests of his employments and at times even in actual folly. But now the thought would not leave him, and, after many prayers and consultations, he decided to apply to his class for recommendation to preach, which was freely given him. At this time he was holding the important offices of Sunday school superintendent and exhorter in the Evangelical church at Berlin. A few weeks later the Canada Conference of the Evangelical Association met at St. Jacobs, Ont., who unanimously granted him his license, received him into the itineracy and appointed him assistant to his former pastor, Rev. J. J. Klipphardt, at Sebringville. The next year he was given Gainsboro Mission, during which time he built and secured payment for a new church at Bismark and had an encouraging revival on the charge. In 1884 he was sent to Hespeler, having been ordained deacon by his conference just previously. About this time he was married to Mary Staebler. At the conference session of 1886 he passed all the examinations and completed the full course of study creditably, was ordained an elder and admitted into full connection in the conference. In 1887 he was assigned to Blenheim Circuit, where his wife died two weeks after their arrival, leaving an infant son.

Mr. Wagner's health becoming somewhat broken down, by the kindness of some friends in the Summer of 1888, he was privileged to make a few months tour to Europe, visiting England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland and Italy, which quite restored him. In the Spring of 1889 his conference sent him to Campden station, where he served three years with much favor and success. It was while here that he was married, on July 4, 1889, to Sarah Lodema, eldest daughter of Jacob S. Moyer. Another move in 1892 brought them to their present field of labor, Stratford, Ont. Mr. Wagner has for eight years held the office of conference missionary treasurer. He is in the prime of life, having just passed his 38th birthday. His future is full of prospects, bright and encouraging. One child : (VIII) Ida Louisa Wagner, born Feb. 16, 1893.

VII. Emma Catharine Moyer, b. in Lincoln Co., Ont., July 6, 1863 ; mrd. Marshall McIlhany Offutt, of St. Louis, Mo., July 4, 1889. P. O. Wichita Falls, Texas. Manager for J. S. Mayfield, lumber dealer ; Meth. Ep. ch. One child : (VIII) Allen Douglass Offutt, b. July 27, 1893.

VII. Ida Jane Moyer, born in Lincoln Co., Ont., June 17, 1867 ; mrd. Peter Dierlamm Dec. 19, 1893. P. O. Stratford, Ont. Mr. Dierlamm is an artist. He was born December 25, 1851, at Schoenberg, Germany, and came to Canada with his parents when 3 years of age. He received his education at the public schools and took a course of mental philosophy, afterward receiving the title of S. S. D. After leaving school he gave considerable time to self-culture. Young Dierlamm spent his boyhood on his father's farm, but very early in life he gave evidence of the great artistic skill which he has since developed to such a remarkable degree. When a boy of 7 he painted in water colors. Afterwards he studied in oil colors, and under the best artists on the continent continued to develope and perfect himself in this art for which he has such remarkable adaptation. For nine years he conducted a photograph gallery in connection with an art studio. He located in Stratford in 1889 and has already established a provincial reputation as an artist. Among his much admired portraits are those of the Honorable Speaker Thomas Ballantyne and late James Trow (bought by House of Commons, of which he was a member for twenty years), Mayors of different cities, etc. Of his landscapes the "Old Homestead" has won much praise.

His first marriage was blessed with three beautiful children. In 1893 he married second wife Miss Ida J., youngest daughter of Jacob S. and Elizabeth Moyer. Mr. Dierlamm has been superintendent in the Evangelical church Sunday school for a number of years and is at present a teacher and assistant superintendent in the Sunday school of the Evangelical church at Stratford, and is also a member of its board of trustees.

V. Abraham Bechtel Moyer was the third son of Samuel Meyer, who emigrated to Upper Canada from Pennsylvania in 1800, being one of the pioneers of Clinton township, in the old Niagara district.

He was born January 29, 1809, and was married to Mary Gross Nash, a native of Pennsylvania, March 23, 1830. His father located him on an adjoining farm (on the Fly road), where he remained about six years, when he sold out and with his wife and three children settled in what was termed the "Indian Bush," on the Rainham road, Haldimand county, about four miles west of Dunnville. Here in a few years he had cleared a farm, erected good buildings and planted an orchard. Venison and wild turkey were the staple food, and luscious berries were plentiful. Bears, wolves and venomous serpents were frequent visitors in the clearing. In 1844 he again sold his possessions and leased Cross & Fisher's mills and farm in Norfolk county, on the shore of Lake Erie, where he engaged in the manufacture and sale of flour, plaster, walnut lumber, and in agriculture, until 1847, when, at the earnest solicitation of relatives, he returned and purchased a farm in Lincoln county, a few miles south of Beausville, where he remained until the Autumn of 1850. The period from 1850 to 1860 was spent in Pelkham township, Welland county, and from 1860 to 1863 in the town of Brantford and vicinity. The last place here occupied was the picturesque and historic home of Captain Brant, chief of the Six Nations, on the Grand River. In the Spring of this year, as the family were ready to sit down to an evening meal, the house was discovered to be on fire, and with nearly all of the contents was consumed.

Adversity and ill health were now bearing heavily upon him, and he once more returned to the old homestead, where a house was temporized until arrangements could be made by one of his sons for building anew. In 1864 this was accomplished, and here his last year of toil culminated in sickness which ended his eventful life on April 21, 1865. He was of medium stature and weight, was full grown at the age of 17, his hair was jet black but soon began to turn gray. He was noted for his integrity, cheerfulness, enterprise and courage. To his sorrow he believed all men to be honest until he knew the contrary. He was liberally endowed with tact and skill, essential qualities in the pioneer, which served him well in the construction of whatever he might require, whether buildings, utensils, implements, or shoes for the family including the lasts. He lived for his family, forgetful of self, and by overexertion shortened his life. When schools were not otherwise provided he employed a teacher in the home.

In religion he was cheerful, orthodox, liberal, unobtrusive yet prompt in the discharge of duty. To the last he trusted his God and loved his neighbor as himself. Early in life he and his wife were Mennonites, in which faith they continued until about 1850, when they joined the Evangelical Association Church. 20 he began teaching country school, which profession he followed for eighteen years, excepting a few terms in Clark Seminary at Aurora, Ill., and vacation in the harvest fields of Illinois. Three years in the Stone schoolhouse at Fry's Corner, South Cayuga, Ont., followed by three years at Campden, in Lincoln county, he regards as the most satisfactory as to material, public interests and results of his school life. From 1868 to 1870 he taught at Independence, Mo. A professorship at Lincoln College, Greenwood, Mo., in 1870-71, was given up for want of college funds. On account of his knowledge of German he was offered a position in the Central school of Wyandotte, now Kansas City, Kan., which he held until 1875. Next he engaged in the business of real estate and loans. In 1879 himself and partner purchased the "Wyandotte Gazette," which was published and edited by them (Armstrong & Moyer) until 1887, when Mr. Moyer sold his interest. He was one of the original directors of the Wyandotte National Bank, of which he has been for a number of years vice president, holding an active position. VI. Rev. Levi N. Moyer, born in Canada June 19, 1845; mrd. Mary E. Raymond June 20, 1871. P. O. Wilmette, Ill. Mr. Moyer's early days were spent on the farm. The district school furnished the educational advantage until the year 1861, when the privileges of the grammar schools were enjoyed for several years. At the age of 19 he went with an older brother to Illinois to seek employment in mercantile lines, and this line of business he has followed successfully with very little interruption up to the present time. The early training of the boy was religious in the extreme, and the teachings of the home and church were deeply rooted in the young mind and heart, so that he early sought to lead a Christian life, and united with the church when a mere boy. In the year 1871, having giving evidence of gifts and graces, he was licensed to preach, which he did as often as an opportunity presented itself. At the session of the Upper Iowa Conference, held at Cedar Falls, Ia., October 1884, he was elected and ordained to the office of deacon by Bishop R. S. Foster, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

While Mr. Moyer never entered the regular pastorate, yet during his entire business career he has found time and opportunity to preach and sing the Gospel with great acceptability. He was for many years identified with the Y. M. C. A. in Iowa and was a member of the State executive committee, and for three years was president of the association at Cedar Falls, Ia. As an evangelistic Gospel singer and chorister Mr. Moyer was very successful, having served one of the largest churches in the State in that capacity for about fourteen years. His soul-stirring song did much to soften the hearts of the people and lead them to accept the Gospel message and yield themselves to Christ. For more than ten years he preached in turn with other ministers to the students of the Iowa State Normal School. In 1889 he accepted a position of great responsibility with a large mercantile firm in Chicago, where he is now manager and buyer of a large business. The ambition of his life seems to be to prove to the world that it is possible to be a Christian business man, and in this he is succeeding, for he is constantly called upon to preach and deliver addresses in various sections of the city and country. As a speaker Mr. Moyer is fluent, clear and practical. His voice is both strong and tender, and his powers of expression are unusual.

Perhaps his time and talents should never have been divided between the church and business, but while those who hear him preach say he should never be found in business, those in his employ and those who deal with him say he should continue to prove to the world that principles of the Gospel can enter and be interwoven with business life. She was a sweet singer and using this talent was very helpful to her husband on his circuit in Jackson and Lafayette counties, Mo. Under her leadership in services of song Methodists South joined in worship with Methodists North, seemingly forgetting the bitterness engendered by the great war so recently ended. Tenderly was she laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery of Independence, Mo.

VI. Jesse G. Moyer, b. near Beamsville, Lincoln Co., Ont., Feb. 28, 1850. He was thrown on his own resources at 15 and worked as farm hand during the Summer months and attended school in Winter. At 18 he went West and secured a situation in a dry goods store at Peru, Ill. He remained in the mercantile business as salesman for about nine years in Illinois, Iowa and Pennsylvania. During this period he visited the old home and friends twice, and spent the Summer of 1873 recruiting health in the wilds of Manitoba and the northwestern territory.

He was married October 15, 1874, at Ottawa, Illinois, to Anna E. Tomlins, of LaSalle, Illinois. She was born at Pottstown, Pa., May 2, 1855. In the Spring of 1877 he moved to Jordan, Ont., and engaged in the nursery business, where he remained till the Spring of 1882, when he moved his family to Connestogo, Ont., and went to Mapleton, Iowa, followed by his family in the Summer. In February 1883 they moved on a farm near Topeka, Kan., farmed a year at Topeka, Rosedale and Ellsworth, Kan., then settled in Kansas City, Kan. For several years he engaged in house building, and during the boom was in the real estate business and held a Notary Public commission. Later he served a year as manager of the Kansas City Plaining Mill, and then served two years as Assistant State Weighmaster. The family has been living on a farm during the last four years. David B. Moyer was born in Lincoln Co., Ont. This Eden spot of the Queen's Dominion was at that time a vast forest, only broken here and there by the clearings of the hardy pioneers, and the educational advantages of the young back woodsman were very limited. He, however, enjoyed the privilege of one term at a German school taught by his father, and was taught the "Three R's" in English by the same tutor, and by his own further efforts he ultimately acquired sufficient education to meet the exigencies of the times. He learned at an early age to swing a pioneer's axe, and at 14 began clearing operations on the 100 acres of forest land purchased for him by his father, being lot No. 3, in the 8th Con., township of Clinton. He also learned the shoemakers' trade, and during the early years of his married life made and mended the "foot wear" for his family. When 21 years of age he married Rebecca, daughter of Abraham and Maria (Gross) Nash, a native of Bucks Co., Pa., and settled upon the above described farm, which he occupied until the time of his death.

Mr. Moyer was a man of extremely mild and genial disposition, quiet and unassuming, of generous impulses, and given to hospitality. His latch string was always out to the itinerant preacher, colporter, visitor, or wayfaring stranger. He was domestic in his tastes, and deeply devoted to his family and home life. He loved his homestead with its forests of pine and sugar maple, oak and beech, and he always spared the axe from his 20 acres of magnificent pine.

He was always interested in the educational matters of the community, and served his own school section at various times as trustee. While taking no active part in political affairs or partisan wrangles, he had decided convictions and exercised his franchise by voting (usually) for the Reform candidate. He kept his home supplied with good books in both languages, and such papers as the New York "Observer," Toronto "Globe" and "Evangelical Messenger" were for many years regular visitors at his fireside. Of Mennonite ancestry and environment, he was an adherent to that faith until 1849, when, during the revival efforts of Rev. F. Scharffe, he united with the Evangelical Association. In this church of his adoption he lived an earnest Christian life, was active in every good work a faithful, consistant member to the end.

June 17, 1871, during a visit in Bucks Co., Pa., he was stricken with apoplexy while in the act of mailing a letter at Fountainville, and died at the home of Rev. Isaac Rickert on the evening of the following day. His last intelligible words were :

Den er verlasst mich nicht."
"Von Gott will ich nicht lassen,

His remains were removed to his home near Campden, Ont., and on June 24 attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends, were borne to their last resting place in the Evangelical church yard.

He married Mary Ann, widow of Conrad Seibert, and daughter of William and Anna (Schweitzer) Lingelbach, June 4, 1872. P. O. Berlin, Ont. Minister Ev. Ass'n. of N. A. Children: Ida, Eli, Anna, Samuel, Mary.

Rev. Samuel N. Moyer was born in Lincoln Co., Ont. His early life was spent on the homestead farm and during the Winter months he attended the common school. In January 1854 he began his career as teacher and taught a three months term at $11.00 per month. In 1855 he again taught three months, after which he took a course of instruction at the Toronto normal and followed the profession of teaching until 1868. He was converted at the age of 15 and united with the Evangelical church at Campden. In 1857 he began to exercise his talents for the Lord in Sabbath school work and weekly tract distribution at Port Elgin, where he was then teaching. This he followed up for years, both Summer and Winter. He was appointed class leader at the first organization of the Evangelical church at that place in 1859. During these years he felt that he should go forth as a herald of the Cross of Christ, but to himself his unfitness seemed so great that he dared not let even his dearest friends know of his convictions. Finally, through the searching inquiry of a father in Israel, he yielded his assent and was given work as a local preacher in 1867. At the next annual conference, held in Blenheim Twp., Oxford Co., under the presidency of Bishop Joseph Long, he was licensed as probationer and sent as junior preacher to Upper Woolwich Circuit to assist Rev. Theodore Hauch. He was sent to Blenheim Circuit alone in 1869, and to Hamburg Circuit in 1871-72. He was ordained deacon at Crediton in 1870 and elder at Lingelbach's church in 1872. He was appointed to Lincoln Circuit and Gainsboro Mission 1873 and 1875; Campden station 1876; Hespeler Mission 1877 and 1883; Creditor station 1880. In 1884 he was elected presiding elder and sent to the Ottawa District, where he remained three years, serving at the same time as pastor of Golden Lake Mission. In 1887 he was stationed on the North District. In 1888 he was re-elected presiding elder and stationed on the South District, and in 1889 transferred to the West District. Here he remained until 1892, when, upon being again re-elected he was sent again to the former district. Preaching of Christ and him crucified was the joy of his life, and the Lord crowned his endeavors to glorify His name, by giving him many souls to his ministry on every pastoral charge he served.

On Sabbath morning, March 11, 1893, while serving an appointment at Morriston, Ont., he was so severely attacked with hemorrhage of the stomach that he immediately sank helpless in the pulpit. He was tenderly borne to the house of a friend, where, for some days, his life hung as by a thread, but in a few weeks he was able to return to his home at Sebringville, and although by no means in a proper physical condition he was at his fort during the annual conference shortly after. His health remaining at very low ebb, by advise of his physician, he spent the Summer months in Manitoba, but all in vain. He died October 3, 1893, at the home of John Well, Cavalier, N. D., where he was resting a few days during the journey homeward. His remains were brought to the home of his brother-in-law, Samuel Rieder, near Shakespeare, Ont., from whence, on October 9, they were taken to the cemetery near Lingelbach's church for burial. Sermons were preached in German by Rev. Joseph Umbach, and in English by Rev. D. Kreh, to an immense gathering of friends, among whom were twenty-six ministers of the Evangelical Association.

In his conference he had the esteem and confidence of his associates, as is indicated by his having been thrice elected to the office of presiding elder and twice sent as delegate to the general conference. He held the office of treasurer of the missionary society of his conference for many years, and afterwards was repeatedly given the presidency. His main forte as a preacher lay in his ability as an evangelist. His sermons were of the awakening kind, sending conviction to the heart of the sinner, and by his pathos and tender sympathy leading him to accept salvation through the Lord Jesus Christ.

It used to be commonly said: "If Brother Moyer cannot stir up a revival there is no use of any one else trying." Full of good hope, confident of success, and with a heart as tender and affectionate as that of a child, his enthusiasm often carried his audience with him. As a pastor, he was a persistent house to house visitor, and generally knew all the little children of his flock by name. For twenty-five years he preached the Word, laboring diligently and faithfully as an active itinerant in the Canada Conference of the Evangelical Association. His memory will long be cherished in the hearts and homes of hundreds of his former parishioners. Children: (VII) Ida Susanna Moyer, b. Mar. 23, 1873; d. Apr. 16, 1876. (VII) Eli Simpson Moyer, b. David N. Moyer was born in Lincoln Co., Ont., and until the age of 19 lived on his father's farm at the Twenty-mile Creek. He was educated in the public schools of the neighborhood, which he attended during the Winter, until 1866, and obtained his first business experience in 1867, by canvassing three months for a "History of the Great Rebellion." It was the parental design that he should succeed his father on the homestead farm, but farming not being to his taste this plan did not come to fruition, and his life since 1868 has been literally a roving one. October 30, 1868, he left his home and visited some months with friends in Pennsylvania. In 1869 (March 6 and June 6) he made a tour to Ireland and Scotland, and spent the succeeding Summer months battling with Bucks county (Pa.) harvesting implements. The following Winter he was occupied in subduing New Jersey wild lands in the vicinity of Vineland. May 1, 1870, found him again at his old home near Campden, Ont., where he spent the Summer working in a brick yard and following the plow, and during the closing months of this year he studied telegraphy at the Toronto Telegraph Institution. From March 1871 to June 1873 he served as operator and instructor for the Dominion Telegraph Company at St. Catharines, Thorold, Welland, Seaforth, Owen Sound, Thorn Hill, Toronto and Pennbrooke, Ont., and Cape Vincent, N. Y. In September 1873, having completed a three month term at Mosgroves Business College, Ottawa, he accepted a position as bookkeeper in a wholesale clothing house of that city, but the condition of his health demanding a change of occupation, he shortly after engaged in the book business, and for two years sold books and Bibles in Easturn, Ont., and the cities of Montreal and Quebec. September 1, 1875, he established his domestic hearth in San Jose, Cal., and the next five and a half years he travelled as salesman in California and Nevada. His territory in California was from Shasta to Tuolumne county, and from the Sierras to the Pacific, and in Nevada as far East as Eureka. He visited not only the principal railroad towns, but sought out the highways and byways, and on buck board on stage coach followed the trail of the gold hunter to many remote hamlets and mining camps. Once he enjoyed the exhilarating experience of a ride across the Sierras on the drivers seat of a six-horse stage coach, with Horace Greely's famous Jehu' Hank Monk, at the ribbons. During two years he was engaged in the fruit tree business, and was one of the first to introduce the Japanese persimmons to the notice of California fruit growers. He also did pioneer work, introducing orange culture in many communities, where the cultivation of citrus fruits has since become a leading industry.

In April 1877 he removed his family to Vallejo, and in September 1878 to Sacramento. In each of these cities he added a son to his family. In April 1881 he returned with his wife and three young sons to Canada. The next five and a half years, still following his chosen pursuit, he travelled over field and flood in Ontario, the northwestern and Southern States, and New York, with his family located successively in the Canadian cities of Quebec, P. Q.; Ottawa, Guelph and St. Catharines, Ont.; Raleigh, N. C., and Buffalo, N. Y. In October 1886 business exigency again calling him to the West, he removed to Naperville, Ill., where he has since resided.

Mr. Moyer has been on the road in one way or another almost continuously for twenty-eight years, having travelled in that time in a business way in thirty-two states and territories and in four provinces of the Dominion. He has been since May 1883 in the employ of a Chicago manufacturer.

At the age of 4 he was a pupil at Miss McCord's kindergarten in Sacramento, and at 6 studied two terms under a private tutor in St. Catharines, Ont., after which he was entered as a regular pupil in the public schools of the latter city. Accompanying his parents in their frequent travels, he experienced the vicissitudes of school boy life in vastly separated cities, and graduated from the Naperville High school with the class of '92. October 1 of the same year he entered the employ of a Chicago manufacturer as office boy, from which in two and a half years he was advanced to the position of book-keeper. He is an official member of Grace church and Sunday school, an aggressive temperance worker and an enthusiastic Endeavorer, and is at this time (1895) vice president of the Q Division, Chicago Christian Endeavor Union.

VI. Henry G. Moyer, b. in Hilltown Twp., Bucks Co., Aug. 28, 1848; mrd. Emeline Seiple, of Allentown. P. O. Perkasio, Pa. He was raised on his father's farm, and began fitting himself for future duties by attending the common schools of his district. This educational experience was supplemented by availing himself of the opportunities afforded by higher schools of learning, winding up his schooling by taking in the Quaker City Business College, from which he graduated with honors when 20 years old. In 1879, when Perkasio became a borough, he was elected Justice of the Peace, which position he filled for three terms of five years each. During that time he had an extensive connection with the settlement of estates and other business in Bucks county. In 1882 he purchased half of the interest of the "Central News," a local paper published at Perkasio, with Mahlon Sellers & Co., he became one of the editors of the paper. Mr. Sellers dying soon after, S. R. Kramer purchased his interest and the "Central News" has since been conducted under the firm name of Moyer & Kramer. Politically, Mr. Moyer is an ardent Republican in his county, having been prominently identified with the local organization and having attended several Republican State conventions as a delegate. In 1882 he was nominated by his party as a candidate for the House of Representatives from his county, and although failing of election, received a large complimentary vote from the opposite party in the district in which he was personally known. In 1894 his party again nominated him for the State Senate, when he was elected by a majority of 1577 votes in a county which the year before elected a solid Democratic delegation to the House. At the session of 1895 Mr. Moyer was chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and also served on the committees on Appropriation, Finance, Insurance, Mines and Mining, and Retrenchment and Reform. Although he had never been connected with the Legislature prior to 1895, Mr. Moyer had no difficulty in adapting himself to the duties of his position as a Senator and rounded up the first half of his term with credit to himself and the State.

Mr. Moyer and wife are members of the Evangelical Association church at Perkasio, of which he is a class-leader, and in which capacity he has done considerable service. See Page 120.

Mr. Ziegenfus was ordained to the ministry at the conference held in Philadelphia, in 1850, and labored continuously for 35 years, during which time he was located at Germantown, Northampton Circuit, Lebanon, Schuylkill Circuit, Mahantongo Circuit, Philadelphia, Kutztown, Milford Circuit, Bethlehem, Newark, N. J.; Mauch Chunk, Parryville, Montgomery Circuit, Pleasant Valley and Brownstown circuits. In 1886 he retired to Bethlehem, Pa., to spend the remainder of his days in quietude and rest after having endured many hardships in traveling to and from his appointments in all kinds of weather, but had the satisfaction of knowing that many were added to the church militant during that period. VII. A. Frank Ziegenfus, M. D., b. in Dauphin Co., Pa., Oct. 3, 1855; mrd. Kate S. Meetlor Feb. 15, 1881. It was his mother's desire and his own inclination at an early age to take up the study of medicine as a profession, but being the son of an itinerant minister the chances seemed slim. At the age of 16 years he left home and school and entered a store as clerk. With economy he saved enough to take a course at Eastman's Business College, where he graduated with the intention of following a commercial life. About this time his long cherished hopes were realized through the kind offer of his uncle, Dr. Joseph M. Gerhart, which made it possible for him to take up the study of medicine, for which he made restitution, and taking charge of Dr. Gerhart's practice for two Summer's while attending college. He entered Hahnemann Medical College, of Philadelphia, October 1876, and graduated March 18, 1879. He then located at 1124 Wallace St., Phila., where he has remained ever since. United Ev. ch. He was the fourth owner and occupant of the Wismer homestead. During his early life he also distilled whiskey from apples on the farm. Thousands of bushels of apples were thus disposed off in the neighborhood. About 900 gallons of whiskey was the yield in a good season. This occupation so far carried on by every generation had its career ended by the subject of this sketch, who, from his earlier experience, and a full realization of the danger to, and demoralizing effects on the rising generation, could without the surrender of any convictions, abandon the heretofore popular "Still."

Mr. Wismer and wives were members of the Old Mennonite church at Deep Run, of which he was a deacon thirty years. During his term as deacon some stirring events took place, ending in a division of the church. He was a popular man in the community, well read and posted in the ordinary business transactions of his day. Settling estates, clerking sales, writing wills and agreements, etc., occupied part of his time.

VI. Samuel Wismer, born Nov. 14, 1814; mrd. Elizabeth Kulp. She was born June 11, 1823. P. O. Plumsteadville, Pa. Farmer, and lives on a part of the old Wismer homestead. During his early lifetime he had two remarkable escapes. When a few years of age lightning struck his father's house. The electric bolt descended through the chimney, followed the pipe to the stove and went through the floor within a few feet of where he lay asleep in a little bed. While yet a boy he and his brother Jacob were sent to cut up a tree top. Jacob, who was several years younger, seized the axe and slashed around among the limbs. The result was startling. Samuel was standing nearby on the ground while Jacob was perched a little higher. The axe descended and made a clean cut through the hat to the skin of Samuel's forehead without drawing any blood or making a scratch. Mr. Wismer is a highly respected citizen, and he and wife are members of the Mennonite church at Deep Run. Children: Eli, Anna, John, Mary, Elizabeth.

VII. Eli Wismer, born January 25, 1844, on the southwestern part of the original tract, in Bedminster township, Bucks county. He received a common school education in the district school at Deep Run, which was open four months and towards the close of his school days five months in a year. In 1865 he received a certificate from the Superintendent of Public Schools to teach in the county. He taught four terms in his native township and one at Plumsteadville.

He was appointed Assistant U. S. Marshall to take the ninth Census of Bedminster township in 1870. In the same year he was married to Annie, daughter of Joseph Myers, of Plumstead township. She was born June 29, 1846. In 1871 he commenced farming on the farm on which he was born. At the organization of the Plumsteadville Dairy Men's Association in 1880 he was elected secretary and soon after salesman for the association, which position he holds the twelfth consecutive year.

His father's teaching in early life impressed on him the evils arising from the use of intoxicants, and during the Constitutional Amendment campaign he was among the leading agitators in his community to prohibit the manufacture and sale thereof as a beverage. Mr. Meyer was in appearance tall, erect, a man of dignified bearing and ranked among the most popular and influential men in his time and neighborhood. It is said that by actual count there were 120 white topped or covered carriages and wagons at his funeral, which made a solid procession of one and a half miles long, that when the first carriage arrived at the meetinghouse the last left the house of the deceased (one and a half miles distant). As was the custom in those days (especially among the more wealthy), they were all invited to return to the house of the deceased and partake of a ("Trauer Mahl") mourners feast. Joseph Mathias and united with the Hilltown Baptist church, and by that church was licensed to preach the Gospel. In 1852 he entered upon a course of study preparatory to the university, and entered the University of Lewisburg, Pa., class of '58. In 1860 he was ordained to the ministry at the Baptist church of Solebury, Bucks county, and was duly installed pastor of that church, which he served for three years. He then removed to Mercer county, Pa., and became pastor of the Fairview Baptist church, over which he presided until 1866, when he removed to Pulaski county, where he secured a home under the Homestead law. On their arrival at their home in Missouri he received an appointment from the American Baptist Publication Society, of Philadelphia, as missionary colporteur, in which service he labored nearly two years, after which he entered upon a voluntary self-supporting missionary work, subject to all the trials, privations and self-denials incident to pioneer missionary work, with but little pecuniary compensation. At intervals, in the meantime, he put up a cabin to shelter his family and opened up and cultivated a few acres of ground from which to secure a living for his family. During his residence of 29 years in Missouri his labors have been confined to the section known as the "Ozark Mountains." He has taught several terms in the public schools. He has raised and educated six children, three of whom have qualified themselves as successful teachers. Mr. King, through the blessing of God, has secured a comfortable home wherein to repose in old age. In his earthly pilgrimage he has passed his three score and tenth milestone, and is waiting and looking forward to enter that bright mansion of our Father in Heaven. V. Samuel S. Moyer, b. in Bucks Co. Oct. 16, 1794 ; d. in Lincoln Co., Ont., June 9, 1871 ; mrd. Elizabeth Wismer in June, 1817. She was born in Bucks Co. Oct. 31, 1796 ; died Nov. 25, 1881. Emigrated to Canada in 1800. He was familiarly known as "Fly Sam," because he resided at Fly Creek. It was during the War of 1812 that Samuel Moyer exhibited considerable pluck in recapturing a horse stolen from his father by Indians. The English had employed a company of several hundred Indians from the western part of Canada and brought them down to defend the borders, but were that wild, fierce and reckless, and the officers having so little control over them, that they were soon relieved from service. On their way home these Indians stole a large number of horses from the settlers. Among others, on the afternoon of a rainy day, they took a fine horse from the field of Jacob Moyer. Samuel, who was then a lad of 18 or 19 years, was sent after the horse. He was told that, after they camped for the night, to go to the officers and try to get the horse back. Barefooted and thinly clad he pursued the troops for about nine miles to a small village (now called Grimsby), where the officers put up for the night, the Indians going a little beyond the village and camped to the left of the road going west. About 200 yards south of the road and parallel with it is a rocky ridge. Here the Indians started a number of fires, hopped the horses and put them in pasture between the fires and the ridge. Samuel went to the officers before dark and asked them if they could get the horse away from the Indians. They said: "No, we can't do anything with them. The only way to get the horse will be for you to steal it after dark when they become quiet, but mind you, if they see you they will shoot you as quick as a squirrel." With this discouraging advise Samuel went to a farm house, about one-fourth of a mile east from where the Indians were camped to get the lay of the place before dark, after which, and when darkness had set in, and the Indians laid down for the night, everything being quiet, he started on his hazardous mission. Going up along the foot of the hill until he had the horses between himself and the fires, which enabled him to see both the horses and the Indians while he in the darkness was unobserved by the latter, climbing a fence at the foot of the hill, he crept along on his hands and knees until he came to the place where the horses were, and happened to get near his horse for the first one. The horse gave a low whinney and put his head down and smelt at him. Samuel soon had his knife out, cut the rope and freed the horse's head. About this time several of the other horses became frightened, and in their attempt to run made considerable noise, which brought a number of the Indians to their feet. They stirred up the fires and peered off into the darkness, while Samuel lay quiet with his face on the ground only about 75 yards away from the nearest fire. After all was quiet again, and the Indians had rolled themselves in their blankets, Samuel rose to his feet, kept the horse between himself and the fires and started off slowly towards the hill. When he came to the fence, in his efforts to let down one corner, the rails being wet, three or four of the rails slid off the top, making quite a noise. This brought most of the Indians to their feet again, however, they did not see him, and he mounted the horse and rode west along the foot of the hill for a mile or so, then turned north, crossed the road and went about a mile and a half to the lake shore, where he remained over night at a house. The next morning he started for home across the fields, and struck the road about two miles east from where the Indians were camped. Soon after he struck the road he met two Indians of the same tribe with muskets. They both stopped and looked after him, but allowed him to go on unmolested, and he reached his home with the horse in safety. Farmer, shoemaker and painter; Menns. On leaving home he went to New York, thence to Nantucket, where he boarded a whaling vessel and sailed around the cape of Good Hope, then east, touched at Vandemans land (now Tasmania), south of Australia, then east to New Zealand, where he assisted in capturing 26 whales, after which he sailed east around Cape Horn. On his return he gave wonderful reports of his voyage. For three years he saw no land. He crossed the equator, and while doing so, was obliged to pour water to keep the ship from burning. They also met waterspouts, which they shot off with cannons. In severe storms he was told to climb the rope ladders and lower the sails, and upon refusing to do so, they bound him to a mast and lashed him until he was willing to go. The marks from the lashings he received he carried to his grave. For his services he was paid in bogus money and sent as far as England, where he remained until he was heard from and brought to the old homestead in Canada, where he died.

V. Samuel T. Moyer, b. in Penna. in 1797; d. Oct. 4, 1874; married Charlotte Hilts December 31, 1819. Mr. Moyer emigrated with his parents in the year 1800 to a farm in Clinton Twp., Lincoln Co., Canada. On this farm, situated between the old Mennonite church and Lake Ontario, he spent his entire life. His early youth was spent partly at the little German school, but mostly at home, where he made himself by far more useful than the average boy is able to do.

For this boy was a hustler, and the push and energy that characterized his youth was a noteworthy feature of his manhood and earned for him a competence such as few of his contemporaries possessed. When about 14 years of age his father died, he being the oldest of the boys, had the care of the farm, in a great measure at least, cast upon his shoulders. A rather heavy burden for a lad of 14 years, but he proved himself more than equal to the occasion. The family prospered, the farm was cleared up and was made to "blossom as the rose." When about 20 years of age he married his first wife Charlotte, widow of Abe Overholt (who was shot by the Indians with sixteen bullets at Stony Creek, for insulting a squaw to whom he was trying to sell fish). The fruits of this union was six boys. Soon after her death (in 1829) he married Barbara Smith, of Markham. She died about 1850. He then married Susan Honsberger, widow of John Honsberger, of South Cayuga, Ont., who survived him about five years.

Truly, this man was a rough diamond. While his manner was rough, coarse and abrupt, there was probably no kinder nor more sympathetic heart on the Niagara peninsula. When friends came from a distance to renew acquaintances 'twas he who looked after them, and a drive of thirty miles to Cayuga or elsewhere was a labor of love for him. Physically he was large, strong, and of a robust constitution. About middle age his hearing became very much impaired; otherwise he seemed to retain the vigor of his youth almost until his death. He now rests in the old Mennonite burial grounds near the home he loved so well. Throughout his life he was a staunch, true and consistent member of the church of his father. Farmer; Memns. V. Abraham T. Moyer, better known as "Waterloo Abe," was born in Lincoln county, Ont., in 1801, on the old homestead between the Mennonite church and the lake. Along with his brothers and sisters he attended the little school near home, where he learned to read the German Bible as well as to write German. Later in life by personal application he learned to read and write English, and became a very intelligent and well informed man. When nearly 21 years of age he married Elizabeth Swartz, who, when 17 years of age, came from Westmoreland county, Pa., on horseback. They at once settled on the old homestead, where they spent the next ten years, when he sold their half of the farm and moved to Waterloo county. After a stay of four years they sold their farm and returned to the "Twenty." It was this experience in Waterloo that earned for him the cognomen "Waterloo Abe." In 1848 he bought the Fisher farm, locally known as the "Ice Springs," situated at the foot of the mountains, near Beamsville, where they spent the rest of their days, she dying in 1876 and he in 1881.

"Waterloo Abe" was a man of noble appearance, fine physique, even erect and graceful at 80. At 70 he could easily outrun the average young man for 100 yards. But he was no sport; on the contrary his life and conduct were characteristically that of a Christian. When 80 years of age he was still preacher of the old Mennonite church, which office he held for over 40 years, and filled it most acceptably. As a Mennonite he could tolerate no departure from their established rules and customs. He always wore the same cut of a coat, "swallow tail," "Latz Hosen" and "plug" hat, all of which were kept scrupulously clean and neat. Mechanically he was gifted. He could make a pair of shoes, a grain cradle, a tub or pail, or frame a building; in short, his mechanical ability seemed to be unlimited and proved of great benefit both to himself and friends.

In common, with many of his generation and not a few of his next, he was guilty of a pardonable superstition. Peas, various grains and seeds were of choice sown in the proper "sign." With him happenings augered for good or ill. He was even looked upon by many as being possessed of secret knowledge that rendered him able to stop pain, bleeding, fire, bots in horses, etc. Of this man we know nothing but what is good and commendable. Oh! that his spirit might be perpetuated in the lives of his descendants. Children: Andrew, Jonas, George, Tilman.

Mr. Detweiler accompanied his parents to Harleysville, Hatfield and New Galena, at which places they resided for some time. At the latter place his father invested in an abandoned lead mine, operations of which he revived and kept up for several years, although attended with great financial loss. Here his mother died in 1879, and the family was broken up, although three of the older brothers had previously gone to Philadelphia and obtained good positions. The subject of this sketch also went to Philadelphia, where he remained until 1881, when he went with his elder brother, John, to Iowa, where he engaged in teaching school for several years, in the meantime frequenting the newspaper offices in the town, to which later he became so attached that in 1885 he purchased the "Iowa Citizen," the management of which he assumed, taking two leaves of absence, however, in the meantime—one to Knoxville, Tenn., to work on the Knoxville "Tribune," and one to Omaha, where he was engaged upon the "Omaha Republican" during the first Harrison-Cleveland campaign. In 1891 he sold the "Iowa Citizen" to take the lecture platform. He has been heard chiefly in the West and South, where he has addressed audiences of culture under the auspices of teachers' normal institutes, literary and church societies, Chautauqua assemblies, Young Mens' Christian associations, and kindred organizations. He is most appreciated in his dramatic recitals, and, although but a few years in the field, has won considerable reputation in his readings. His wife is the accomplished daughter of a prominent attorney at Charles City, Iowa. Meth. Ep. No issue.

She had issue, and her portion of her father's estate ("one full and equal seventh part thereof") was devised in his will to her children. The number and names of her children are not known, and no trace of them have been found. No doubt numbers of their descendants may be living in Montgomery county, near the old homestead.

III. Barbara Meyer, b. in Montg. Co.; d. about 1823; mrd. Abraham Kratz. He was born in Montg. Co. in 1741; d. in 1817. They lived in New Britain Twp., Bucks Co., about one-fourth mile east of the Upper Hilltown Baptist church, and a few hundred yards away from the Stump road, where Frederick Steeb now lives, where (in 1767) he purchased the Williams' homestead with 188 acres. The buildings are a well built stone house two stories high, and a stone barn. These buildings were no doubt erected by a Welsh settler of colonial times, named William Williams (a descendant of the notable Roger Williams, founder of Rhode Island), who in 1747 purchased 307 acres, and lived thereon just twenty years, when he sold, as above stated, to Abraham. This homestead remained in the possession of Abraham Kratz during the remainder of his life, and of his son Valentine, who inherited the homestead and 110 acres; and Simeon, who inherited it from his father, Valentine. Abraham Kratz and wife were members of the Mennonite church at Deep Run, where they are buried. Children:

V. Elizabeth Kratz, b. May 24, 1835 ; d. Sept. 15, 1840.

V. Reuben W. Kratz, b. in New Britian, Bucks Co., Feb. 23, 1838. In the Fall of 1852 his father and mother died in the space of five weeks. Left an orphan at the early age of 14 years, he went to Plumstead, Pa., where he attended one Winter term of school. In the following Spring he hired to H. K. Myers for eight months at farm work. Then he apprenticed himself to his brother Abraham as wheelwright, serving one year and nine months. In the Spring of 1856 he went West, believing there were better things in store for the young than in the densely inhabited East; went to Whiteside county, Ill., and worked at his trade, breaking prairie with an ox team, threshing, etc. In the Spring of 1860 he married Emeline A. Swena, of Sterling, Ill., and in the Spring of 1863 they loaded their goods and effects in an old wagon and started for Kansas. Their whole wealth consisted of a team, wagon, bed, stove, a few minor articles of household goods, and $21 in cash. They started for a point in eastern Kansas to find a home for themselves, and on May 10, 1863, located where they now reside, in Appanoose Twp. (P. O. Ponoma), Franklin Co., Kansas. Here they lived in a log cabin with puncheon floor and clapboard roof. In August Mr. Kratz joined the State Militia, and served in Kansas and Missouri 18 months. While on such duty the family remained without a protector, but he had permission to go home at times and get supplies for their maintenance. The nearest mill was 20 miles away and run only one day in a week. The nearest trading store was at Lawrence, 32 miles distant. The militia was disbanded in 1864, and from that time Mr. Kratz was able to be at home and care for his family. Neighbors were a long distance apart. There were no settlements except along the streams, and it was common to visit neighbors 10 or 12 miles distant. The Sac and Fox reserve was near by and Indians were plenty, but always peaceably and friendly. Mrs. Kratz was left alone one night, and, sleeping with the doors open, several Indians entered to inquire for whiskey. She informed them the whiskey, if there was any, was at the wakeup, about three miles distant, and they retired.

In the Winter of 1865, through the kindness of two of their old neighbors in Illinois, Messrs. C. C. Alexander and John Benjamin, who advanced the money, they were able to buy a stock farm of 152 acres ; 37 acres of this was afterwards sold to assist in paying for the balance. In 1878 Mr. Kratz purchased 240 acres, making a farm at this date of 355 acres. In the Spring of 1866 he erected a log cabin 16 by 16 feet foundation. This the family occupied until the Fall of 1873 when a more commodious house was built, but this the family soon outgrew, and in the Spring of 1886 a house costing over $3000 was erected. In an early day Mr. Kratz determined to give strict attention to raising stock, and he has never allowed himself to lose sight of this idea. He has at times 150 head of cattle, 40 head of horses, and 200 hogs feeding, and makes a specialty of fattening beef cattle. The business has not always been prosperous, owing to grasshoppers, chinch bugs and dry weather. School facilities have always been good—probably as good as many in the older States. Mr. Kratz has served on the School Board in his district 24 years. He and wife are members of the Congregational ch. Children : Frances, William, Horace, Lemuel, Amy, Harriet, Esther.

JACOB MEYER, SON OF CHRISTIAN MEYER.

II. Jacob Meyer (dec'd). It appears as if he needed the care and protection of his brothers and sisters, because provision was made that they should provide for him "sufficient meat, drink, apparel, washing and lodging, fit and convenient for him during his natural life," and therefore it is not probable that he ever married.

SAMUEL MEYER, SON OF CHRISTIAN MEYER.

II. Samuel Meyer (dec'd), mrd. Barbara ——. He lived on a tract of 50 acres that had at an early day been cut off from the old homestead farm of his father, and which his widow, after his death, sold to his nephew, Christian Meyer, May 27, 1767, together with buildings and improvements. Samuel Meyer made his will August 20, 1764, and was probated December 9, 1766. In his will he says he is blind and has "no children or bodily heirs living," and therefore devised his whole estate to his loving wife, but solicits his wife to make a free gift of £2 of lawful money to his brother, Christian Meyer; £2 to his sister, Elizabeth Oblinger, and £2 to his cousin, Christian Moyer. His wife was the sole executrix. Witnesses: Jacob Landes, Nicholas Haldeman and Andrew Ziegler.

DESCENDANTS OF ELIZABETH MEYER, DAUGHTER OF CHRISTIAN MEYER.

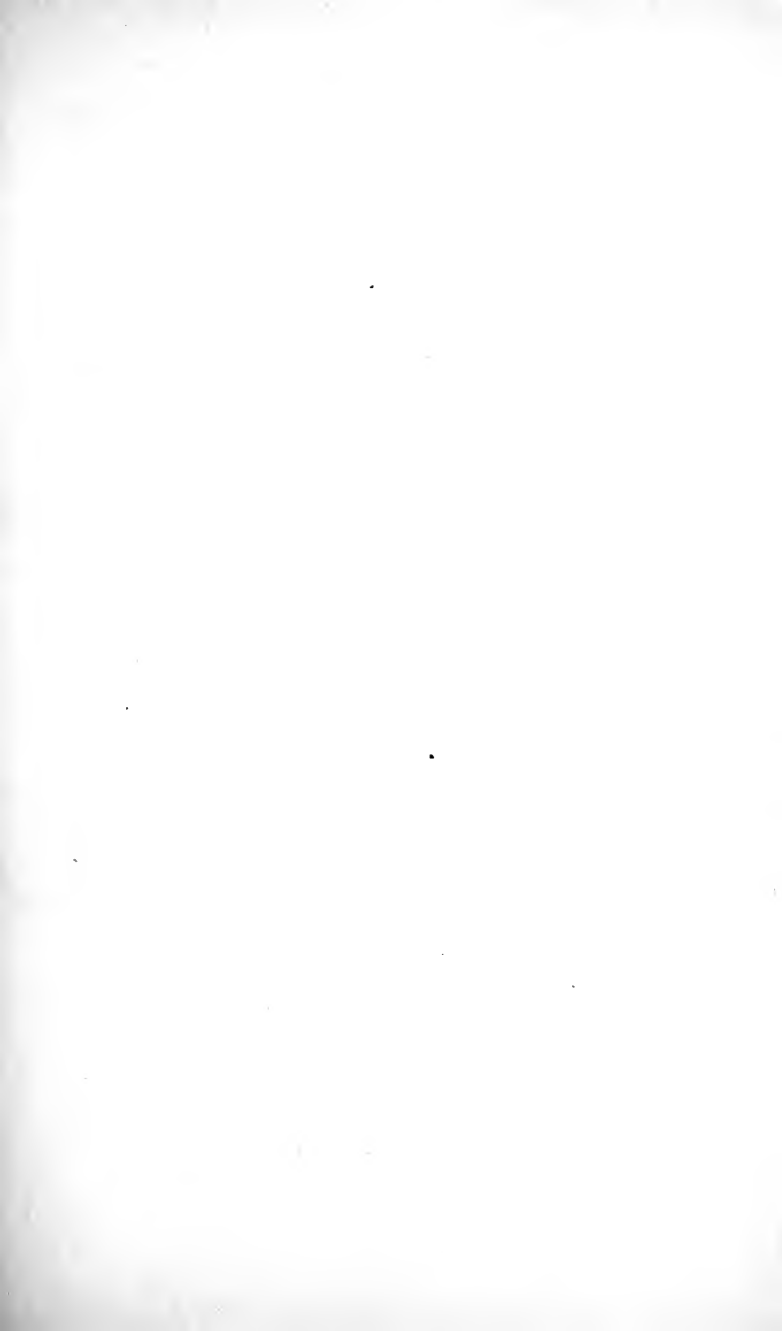

II. Elizabeth Meyer (dec'd), married Nicholas Oblinger, Jr. He was born on the old John Kline place, now owned and occupied by Enos Wambold (or Wampole). There lived Nicholas (Claus) Oblinger, Sr., more than 150 years ago, who was probably the pioneer of the family. He made his will August 3, 1730, and died soon after.

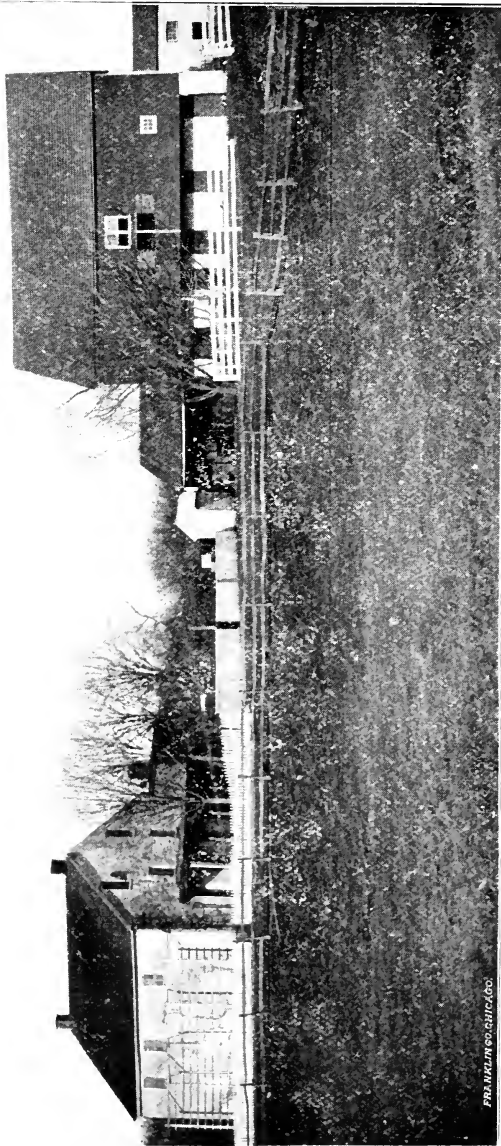

Nicholas Oblinger, Jr., owned and lived on the Binder farm, upon which a part of Harleysville is now built, and which he owned from 1745 to 1751. Previously he owned a tract of $34\frac{1}{2}$ acres in Lower Salford from August 31, 1734, which he owned for several years. The tract was woodland until many years later, and upon which, to the present day, no buildings were erected.

DESCENDANTS OF ANNA MEYER, DAUGHTER OF CHRISTIAN MEYER.

II. Anna Meyer, died July 8, 1758; mrd. Rev. Henry Funk. He was b. in Europe, either in Holland or the Palatinate, and emigrated to America in 1719. He settled at the Indian Creek, in Franconia township, Montgomery county, where he died in 1760. His farm consisted of three tracts of land, making in all 201 acres, lying along the Indian Creek, on which was also a grist mill, which he in all probability erected. The house opposite the mill is a very old structure, and was also, no doubt, built by Henry Funk, and was the homestead. He also owned other land besides his farm at the Indian Creek. Soon after settling at the Indian Creek a Mennonite church was organized at Franconia, of which he was chosen the first minister, and later was ordained bishop. He was the author of two religious works, one a small book in German, entitled "Spiegel der Taufe" (Mirror of Baptism), and the other a larger book, entitled "Eina Restitution oder eine Erklaerung einiger hauptpunkten des gesetzes," which was published after his death, in 1763. He was also, in connection with Dillman Kolb, appointed by the Mennonite church to supervise the translation of "Van Bracht's Martyrs Mirror, or der Blutiga Schauplatz," from the Dutch to the German. The book made a folio of 1514 pages, and was printed at Ephrata in 1748. Bishop Funk was a well educated man for the times in which he lived, and a man of extensive influence in his church and community. Children: John, Henry, Christian, Abraham, Esther, Barbara, Anne, Mary, Fronicka, Elizabeth.

VII. Col. George S. Haste, born in Preston, Ont., Mar. 28, 1844 ; mrd. Emeline M. Hawkins Oct. 27, 1868. P. O. Valparaiso, Ind. No issue. Colonel Haste's early childhood was spent at the place of his birth, but before he was 5 years of age his parents moved to Waukegon, Ill., and from there they later moved into the country and engaged in farming until 1856, when they removed to Waupaca county, Wis. Here they lived happily in their rural home for many years. During the Winter months George attended the public school, and in the Summer assisted on the farm. At school, notwithstanding the meagre facilities for mental discipline then to be had, he made a record for improvement and progressiveness, which even at that early period presaged the career that afterwards followed. When on the farm he went about his work with that degree of energy and with that spirit of earnestness which never fails to bring success. Such were his early advantages, such the surroundings and opportunities that helped to strengthen and invigorate him for the active work of life. At the early age of 15 he started out for himself. Thus early in life he went out to meet the world, and the world was ready to receive him. The active and the faithful never fail of their reward. Going to Valparaiso, Ind., in 1860, where he still resides, he took a clerkship in a dry goods store, working hard and receiving small pay for his services. For four years he served in this capacity, and during that time by his manliness, deportment and business tact, he won the fullest confidence, not only of his employer but of his associates and the general public as well. But during these years the great civil conflict was raging. Deluged in blood, the giant powers of the North and South were arrayed against each other and spending their deadly force. It was then, loyal to the institutions of his country and true to the promptings of his heart, that he gave up his position and went forth in the great struggle for the right. He enlisted with Company C., 138th Ind. Vol., May 25, 1864, serving in the Army of the Cumberland, which campaigned through middle Tennessee and Alabama. Wherever duty called he was ever ready to respond, and for unfaltering courage and steadfastness was known alike to his comrades and superiors, each of whom found in him a cheering companion and friend. He was discharged with the rank of Corporal Oct. 5, 1864. Returning to Valparaiso in 1866 he again engaged in the capacity of clerk with a hardware establishment. So faithful was he in the service of his employer that, after a five years engagement, he was admitted as a partner. The business prospered, and for over two decades, by wise management, judicious and honest dealings with the people, their enterprise gradually assumed large proportions. In 1892 Colonel Haste purchased his partner's interest in the concern, thereby assuming entire ownership and control. Thus he advanced step by step from a clerkship to the head of one of the largest business enterprises in his city. It is an example of prosperous growth of activity and thrift well worthy of emulation. Besides his large business interests he has a lovely home, presided over by a devoted wife, and the city possesses in him a substantial and most esteemed citizen. In 1882 he enlisted in the State Militia and served three years as captain of Company C., 3rd Regt. Inf., Indiana Legion. From this rank he was promoted to that of Battalion Major, serving in this capacity for two years. He afterwards served as Regimental Major two years, and was then promoted to the rank of Colonel, which office he held for three years. In each of these positions he displayed rare military skill, and discharged his official duties with that degree of credit that has been so characteristic of the acts of his life. His military record, no less than his record as a citizen, stamps him as a man of superb courage, of moral strength, and as a man who is unwilling to remain idle when there is a higher plain to be reached. Early in life he united with the Methodist Episcopal church, of which he has always been an active member, and his influence for good has never ceased to be felt. He is a member of the Knights of Pythias, and served for years as Lieutenant Colonel of the uniformed rank. His voice is also heard in the councils of the Masonic Order, to which he is a conservative and valued adherent. Although he has just rounded out his 50th year, yet his physical condition gives promise of many useful years to come. By perseverance, diligence and indomitable energy, he has pushed himself forward from the unknown unaided boy to the full dignity of matured manhood, surrounded by affluence honorably acquired, and, more than all, he has won for himself a name of spotless and unquestioned integrity.

VII. Caroline Haste, b. Aug. 26, 1846; mrd. H. W. Porter. P. O. Kouts, Ind.

VII. Angelia Haste, b. Mar. 16, 1851; mrd. Thomas Favell. P. O. West Superior, Wis.

VII. Richard A. Haste, born Dec. 2, 1856, in a log shanty, situated among the pines of Waupaca county, Wis. Extreme poverty, both of purse and opportunities, was the lot of all the pioneers of the fifties. A few months school in the Winter constituted his opportunity for education until he became 13 years old, when he went to Valparaiso, Ind., where, by working during vacation and doing chores for his board, he managed to attend the city schools three years. At the age of 16 years he began teaching school. In 1876 he entered the normal school at Valparaiso, graduating in 1878. In the year 1879 and 1880 he spent teaching in Illinois, and during the latter year he was elected president of Kansas State Normal School, at Concordia, Kan., which position he resigned to accept the principalship of the Streator Illinois High School. Here he remained two years, when he entered the law school of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, completing the law course in 1885. He immediately located in Wichita, Kan., in the practice of law. The great boom of 1886 and 1887 enabled him to amass quite a fortune (some $40,000) in real estate speculations, which was duly lost in the following reaction. In 1887 he was married to Sarah Atherton. During the year 1887 he was elected professor of law in the Garfield University, which position he held until his removal to West Superior, Wis., in 1891, since which time he has been engaged in the practice of law at that place. He has never held any public office. His only experience in politics was in Kansas, where he ran for the Legislature on the Republican ticket in 1888 and was defeated. Mr. Haste has also some reputation as a writer of fiction and poetry. He is the author of some after-dinner poems that have been published, and of a political drama in three parts, entitled "To the Victor Belong the Spoils," which has been published in pamphlet form, and which speaks well of his ability as a writer. He has also a work of fiction under way, but which will not be published for two years yet. One child: (VIII) Gwendolen Margaret Haste, born Dec. 4, 1889.

Mr. Ashenfelter's mother was Catharine Kneer, whose grandfather came to America in the ship "Richard and Mary" (John Moore, master), landing Sept. 26, 1752.

Mr. Ashenfelter graduated at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., in class of '65, being president of same. In the Summer of 1866 he assumed editorial charge of the "National Standard," published at Salem, N. J., he being at the time engaged in reading law in the office of Peter McCall, Esq., of Philadelphia. Late in the Fall of that year, however, he went on a long sea voyage around Cape Horn, accompanying a sea going friend, Capt. John Shourds, of Camden, N. J. He landed in Valparaiso, Chili, in March 1867, and spent nearly two years on the west coast of South America. In the Fall of that year he became Consular Clerk at Guayaquil, Ecuador. He returned home in 1868, completed his legal studies and was admitted to the bar. After completing his course and teaching for a time in the public schools he connected himself with the institution as Professor of Mathematics. He subsequently purchased Rev. Henry A. Hunsicker's interest in the institution and became proprietor and principal. He conducted the institution very successfully for five years, when the buildings and grounds were purchased for Ursinus College. He then associated himself with Dr. Wells in the ownership and management of the Andalusia Academy, in Bucks county. After the death of Dr. Wells (in 1871) he assumed entire charge and continued at the head of the academy for five years.

In 1880 he was elected by the Board of City Trusts to fill the chair of Vice President of Girard College. At the death of President Allen two years later, Prof. Fetterolf was chosen to succeed him. He has held the position and discharged the manifold duties ever since with the confidence of the board and the approbation of the public. The government of Girard College demands high and rather peculiar qualifications. The position of president is one of great responsibility, standing as he does in "loco parentis" to over 1500 orphan boys—the representative head of the greatest individual charity on the continent. President Fetterolf has the charm of a genial, quiet, well-balanced character, a pleasing address, an impressive presence, and that subtle faculty which wins the confidence of boys. He is the fourth president of the college. The first presided over 200 boys, the second 500, the third 1100, while Dr. Fetterolf has over 1500 under his charge.

It requires executive ability of the highest order to successfully direct the destinies and control the actions of so many undeveloped mental and physical organisms, and that Dr. Fetterolf is able to accomplish this without harsh discipline demonstrates in the strongest possible way his eminent fitness for the responsible position he occupies. His abilities has had numerous recognitions from the faculties of other colleges, the most recent of which were the conferring upon him of the degrees of A. M. and Ph. D. by Lafayette College, and by Delaware College of the title of L. L. D.

Dr. Fetterolf has been twice married. His first wife was Miss Annie, daughter of George Hergesheimer, of Germantown, Pa. In 1883 he married Laura M., daughter of William D. Maugam, of Brooklyn, N. Y. He then left school and took charge of the property bequeathed to him by his father. He tore down the mill built by his great-grandfather in 1782 and erected upon its site one of the most complete flouring mills in the State, together with handle works and saw mill. These mills were destroyed by fire in 1869, but he immediately rebuilt them and are with the homestead farm still under his personal supervision.

Mr. Funk has been Justice of the Peace in his township and postmaster at Springtown during Garfield's and Harrison's administration. In 1885 he established the Springtown "Times," a weekly newspaper of 48 columns, and has since been its editor. He is secretary of the Globe Mutual Live Stock Insurance Company, is president of a local building and loan association, and is also interested in various other enterprises. Mr. Funk has been very successful in business. He is the owner of valuable real estate and water powers, and is recognized as one of the leading men in his part of the county, and much credit is due him for the public spirit manifested by him in furthering public enterprises. The "Times" is an influential eight-paged paper, and together with its extensive job printing and book binding department is one of the largest business enterprises of the town. It has had a very successful career, much of which is due to the business tact, energy and untiring perseverance of the associate-editor, Henry H. Funk.

VI. Hon. Samuel F. Geil, b. in Bucks Co. Sept. 28, 1841. Mr. Geil received a good academic education in his native county. In 1859 he removed to Cleveland, O., where he began the study of law. After passing through the usual studies he was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of Ohio Sept. 26, 1862. Having read law with Herrick & Barlow, he attended the Ohio State and Union Law College at Cleveland, from which he graduated May 26, 1872.

At the breaking out of the war in 1861 he was among the first to enter the volunteer service, and was appointed First Lieutenant of the Second Regiment, Ohio Cavalry, and remained until December 11, 1861, when he resigned.

In November 1862 he removed to California and took up his residence in Monterey county, where he has been actively engaged in the practice of law. He served two terms as District Attorney in that county, and during his incumbency conducted many cases of great importance and public interest in a highly satisfactory and successful manner. He has had a large and profitable practice for the last twenty years. He is the attorney for Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and other corporations. For the last fifteen years there has not been a case of any importance in the county in which he resides, either civil or criminal, that he has not been engaged in. Immediately after his arrival in California he was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of California, and also in all the Federal courts.

On February 2, 1866, he married Josefa Sanchez, who, with two living children, are members of the Roman Catholic church. Mrs. Geil descends from an old and prominent Spanish family of that region in which they reside. Her grandparents, on her mother's side, were native Californians. Her father, Don Rafael Sanchez, was private secretary to Governor and General Micheltorena, under Mexican rule.

Mr. Geil has been a member of the Masonic fraternity for many years. He served for three years as High Priest of Salinas, Chapter No. 59, R. A. M., and is now a Knight Templar and a Noble of the Mystic Shrine. He is also a prominent member of the order of Odd Fellows. Children: (VII) Samuel Geil, b. Mar. 8, 1867; d. Nov. 10, 1868. He was also one of the three first Directors of the Poor of Bucks county in 1807, consisting of James Chapman, John McMasters and Ralph Stover. Mr. Stover was a very useful citizen in the community in which he lived in adjusting legal matters between his neighbors and settling up estates, etc. He owned a 300-acre farm on the Tohickon, now owned by Amos Kilmer and Frank Myers. Children: Abraham, Mary, Elizabeth, Ann, William.

V. Abraham F. Stover, b. May 10, 1786; d. Feb. 26, 1854; mrd. Rachel Fretz, dau. of John and Anna (Kratz) Fretz, of Warwick Twp., Pa., about 1808. She was b. Mar. 30, 1787; d. in 1870, aged 83 years, less 13 days. He lived on a part of the homestead of his father in Bedminster township, situated on the Tohickon creek, a part of the farm now belonging to Amos Kilmer. Mr. Stover was a prominent and useful citizen. In 1817 he was elected to the Pennsylvania Legislature, and re-elected in 1820. He was appointed Justice of the Peace by the Governor, and was also a surveyor. In 1833 he sold his share of the homestead and moved with his family to Fauquier county, Va., where he purchased a farm of 135 acres with a mill, and afterwards bought an adjoining tract of 270 acres. He died in 1854. Children: John (d. in childhood), Ralph, infant, Charles, Albert.

He finished his education at the Doylestown Academy, after which he returned home and assisted his parents on the farm. In the year 1833 the whole family removed to Thoroughfare Gap, Va., where they purchased a mill and farm. Ralph, taking charge of the mill, soon built up a large and prosperous business.

In 1841 he removed from Virginia to Point Pleasant, Pa., where he purchased a saw mill, flour mill and other property, and also engaged in the manufacture of lumber, flour and feed. He was one of the prime movers and projectors of the Danboro and Point Pleasant turnpike, of which he was president. He also advocated the building of Point Pleasant Delaware bridge, and served as treasurer of the company for many years. He took much interest in school and church affairs, doing much to improve the school, and donated the ground for the Baptist church, of which the family are members. He also donated ground from his farm for a cemetery. The tract is beautifully situated, over-looking the Delaware river and surrounding scenery. He reserved a plot for a family burying ground, in the centre of which he erected a handsome granite monument about ten feet high, as a memorial of the sleeping inhabitants within its enclosure: After a successful business career, and rearing of a good and virtuous family, he and wife have retired from business. Children: Robert, Mary, John, Rachel, Emeline, Horace, Eliza, Ella, Adelaide, Chester, Annie, Albert.

At the close of the war, which left the Rebel States without the protection of law and order of any kind, the whole community insisted on his acting as County Magistrate, which office he held until the reconstruction of the State government was effected under authority of Congress. As a Union man he did not make himself obnoxious by ill judged intrusion of his sentiments upon others in that section, and thus he was left alone during the war, except that the armies of both sides encamped on his place at Thoroughfare Gap repeatedly and left neither fence or living thing of stock on the place. His losses in

THE EXODUS TO CANADA.

In 1868 David N. Moyer secured the following interesting account from his uncle, Jacob Albright, who was one of the party :

“ During the Summer of 1799 Amos Albright, Abraham Meyer and Jacob Meyer travelled on foot from Hilltown, Pa., to the Niagara district, in Upper Canada, on a prospecting tour. They were so well pleased with the country that, before returning, they purchased 1100 acres of land. For a portion of it lying along the Indian trail (now the Hamilton and Queenston road) the price was $2.50 per acre, and for the balance, lying nearer the lake, $1.50 per acre. A deposit of $40 secured them the purchase, and they then walked back to their Pennsylvania homes.

“ The same Autumn they removed to the new land of promise with all their portable belongings. The party consisted of the following : Rev. Jacob Meyer, Dilman Meyer, Valentine Kratz, John Hunsberger (deaf), Abraham Hunsberger and Amos Albright, and their families. Each family had with them a four-horse team and a cow. With one exception the cows were all shod. Jacob Albright, then a lad of 10 years, was one of the cow drivers. Their journeys, for a great part of the way, were through an unbroken wilderness, and when night overtook them they would build their campfires.

“ At Black Rock they crossed the Niagara on a small ferry boat. Amos Albright's load was the first one to make the transfer. The wagon body, with its load, was placed crosswise on the float, which ‘ wiggled and wobbled ’ and required the utmost exertion of Mr. Albright and George Althouse (one of the drivers), to prevent its capsizing. However, they were all eventually landed in safety on the other shore, and in due time reached their wilderness home.

“ Not long after their arrival a child of Valentine Kratz died and was buried at the present site of the old Mennonite burying ground. This was the first death among the colonists. The Winter following proved a severe one, and the new settlers endured great hardships and suffering from lack of proper food and shelter.

“ During the following year (1800) a second party of Pennsylvanians betook themselves to the Canada settlement. Among them were the following persons and their families: Samuel Meyer, David Meyer, Abraham Huntsberger, Christian Huntsberger, Jacob Hausser and Daniel Hock. Their train, too, consisted of four-horse teams. Samuel Meyer had two of these. At night they built fires around their camp to keep off the wild beasts and also did their washing and baking to be ready for travel in the early morning.

“ One evening some of the women chased a snake into the foot of a hollow tree. Then determined that it should not escape they built a fire at the foot of the tree, hoping to surely destroy the reptile. Daniel Hoch had a team of four magnificent stallions. They were decked with splendid new harness, ornamented with belts, and their owner felt justly proud of them. He took daily delight in tormenting David Meyer about his poor, bony nags, and was forever predicting disaster for them. On the night above mentioned the tree, which the women had fired to burn out a snake, fell and killed three of Hoch's fine stallions. This was a serious misfortune to the entire party, but an especially severe loss to Hock, who would have been glad now to pay a high price for as poor a team as David Meyer's. He succeeded shortly after in obtaining oxen to haul part of his goods, and there was no more scoffing at David Meyer's horses.

“ One dark night a furious storm passed over the emigrant camp, a perfect deluge of rain poured down upon them, and horses and cattle were terrified by the electric explosions. Most of the travelers were asleep in their wagons. Sam Housser slept on a fodder sack with only the dome of heaven overhead. The thunder and lightning did not awaken him, but the deluge soon did, and he was glad to seek for a fodder sack and thankful for the grateful shelter of an oak tree, where he spent the remainder of the night."

The following items were contributed in 1868 by Henry High, who was born January 1, 1780, in Pennsylvania, and was one of the colony that came over in 1800. He says :

"There were eleven teams in our party and about sixty persons all told, four horses to a wagon being the rule. Samuel Meyer had two four-horse teams ; some had three teams ; Daniel Hoch had two four-horse and one two-horse team. Sam Housser drove the front team all the way. Sometimes we advanced only a few miles in a day. Often a wagon would upset, sometimes in a pool of mud ; once or twice a dog was buried in the debris, and the howling that followed for a short time was woeful music. Usually, if we came to a nice stream of water in the afternoon, we would camp for the night. We passed through one Indian village. The largest town we saw was Kentockaway, quite a settlement and beautiful land. (Deaf) Abraham Huntsberger broke his wagon and had to stay back until he got it fixed. Mud, mud, mud over the Allegheny mountains ! the roads were awful. During the seventh week we reached our journey's end."

At this time (1800) there was one house (Shipman's tavern) at the present sight of St. Catharines, which was surrounded by a vast pine forest, a public house at Joe Smith's (now the farm of W. D. Smith), one at the "Twenty" (now the Snure residence, on the flat at Jordan), and one house at Beamsville. Between was an unbroken wilderness.

HANS MEYER, OF UPPER SALFORD.

I. Hans Meyer, died about 1748. Came from Germany or Switzerland about 1708.* He settled in Upper Salford township, Montgomery county,† Pa. He was a farmer and paid quit rent. The homestead is situated on the south slope of the west branch of the Perkiomen creek, in the southern central part of Upper Salford township, about two miles east of Salfordville. The deed of Isaac Pennington and wife and Casper Wister, to Hans Meyer, bears date July 23, 1729. The land was bounded as follows: "Beginning at a hickory tree at a corner of Derrick Johnson's land, thence N. E. by a line of marked trees 220 perches to a white oak, thence N. W. by a line of marked trees 177 perches to a black oak, then by a line of marked trees S. W. 140 perches to a post, then S. E. 30 perches to a post, then S. W. 80 perches to a post in a line of the said Derrick Johnson's land, then by the same S. E. 147 perches to the place of beginning, containing by estimation 216 acres, besides the usual allowance of 6 per cent. for roads."

The original homestead is owned and occupied by Jacob L. Moyer, a great-great grandson. The present house was built by Henry L. Moyer about 35 years ago. The barn, built by Henry, son of Hans, in 1787, is still standing and is in good condition.

* It is the author's opinion that he landed in America at a later date, probably about 1720 or 1725. He purchased his land in 1729, and his son Henry, who, it is said, was a year old when they came, had born to him his first child about 1750. If they came in 1708 then Henry would have been 43 years old when his first child was born, which in all probability was not the case.

† It was then Skippack township, Philadelphia county.

Of the life and characteristics of the pioneer Hans Meyer we have not been able to learn anything. He was probably a brother to the pioneer Christian Meyer, of Salford township, but of this we could learn nothing definite. It is said three brothers came over—two settled in Montgomery county, Pa., and the other went to one of the Carolinas. Farmer; Menns. Children: Henry, John, Barbara, Jacob, Elizabeth, Anne, Hester.

II. Henry Meyer, born in Germany or Switzerland, came to America with his parents when a year old. It is said he tried to walk on board of ship. He was married to a Miss Barbara Miller, who came from Germany when 18 years old. DESCENDANTS OF BARBARA MEYER, DAUGHTER OF HANS MEYER.

II. Barbara Meyer (dec'd), b. about 1710 ; mrd. John Fretz, one of the pioneer ancestors of the numerous family of that name, who settled in Bucks county, Pa., soon after the first quarter of the eighteenth century, and who emigrated with his brother, Christian Fretz, and a third brother (name unknown, who died on the voyage), from near the city of Manheim, in the Grand Duchy of Baden, Germany, formerly known as the Palatinate, or Rhemish Prussia.

It is quite evident that the Fretz brothers landed at the port of Philadelphia, and in all probability arrived there some time between the years 1700 and 1720. It is said that they came to this country during what was known as "the last persecution." They were given the alternative of connecting themselves with the State Church or leave the country, and with many others of their countrymen they chose, rather than to give up their religious liberty, to leave the "Fatherland," the land of their birth, the homes of their kindred and friends, the graves of their ancestors, and all the hallowed associations of the home and country of their nativity, and found for themselves a home in a strange and far-off land where they could worship God "under their own vine and fig tree," according to the dictates of their own conscience without fear or molestation. They came about 30 or 40 years before the French and Indian war, when the country was but sparsely settled, the inconveniences great, and the equally dangerous red man infested the land. They were still living during the period when some of the great subjects, which eventually led to the war of the Revolution were being agitated, and their children were settled with families during the bloody struggle for independence.

It is not known where they at first settled. It is said that they came with the Meyer ancestors, and they, no doubt, settled somewhere in Montgomery county for a time, and later permanently settled in Bucks county. John Fretz located in what was then Plumstead township, but now Bedminster, on what is known as the old Fretz homestead, one mile northeast of Bedminsterville, now owned by Ely Fretz and occupied by his son, Mahlon M. Fretz. The homestead originally consisted of 230 acres of land, which John Fretz purchased of Bartholomew Longstreth in 1737 or 1738, for which he paid £106, the release being given in the latter year in the month of May. The tract had a house, barn and other buildings, but was surrounded on all sides by vacant and unimproved wild land.

John Fretz was a weaver by trade and was known as "Weaver John." Of his public services nothing is known of especial interest, further than that he was one of the committee to form the new township of Bedminster in 1741.

John Fretz and wife, Barbara, and their immediate descendants, were Mennonites and worshipped at Deep Run, first in the old log church, built about 1746, and later in the old stone church built about 1766, and which stood for over 100 years. They no doubt aided in erecting these churches, both by contributing of their means and labor, and from the latter their remains were carried to their last earthly resting place in the cemetery adjoining. "May their ashes rest in peace until the trump of Gabriel shall awake the dead to come forth and obtain the inheritance of the faithful."

John Fretz died in 1772, probably in February. His last will and testament was dated January 29, 1772, and was probated on March 3 of the same year, which shows he died between the two dates given. The provisions of the will were that his son Christian should have the farm and pay £800, and each of the children were to have equal shares, except the sum of £60, which was to be distributed among the children of his first wife, and which came from their grandfather (on the mother's side.) To the widow (Maria,* his second wife) was willed £100, of which she was to receive the interest as long as she remained his widow. She was to have the house in which George White lived at that time.

III. John Fretz, b. Mar. 1730; d. May 4, 1826, aged 96 years; mrd. Mary Kolb (dec'd), of Tinicum Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., in 1754. She was b. Sept. 10, 1730. He lived previous to and at the time of his father's death on the Tohickon, in Haycock Twp., Bucks Co., where he owned and operated a mill. He afterwards moved below Doylestown, from where (in 1800) he emigrated to Canada with all his family, except his daughter Barbara, who married Jacob Silvius and remained with her family in Bucks county, and Moses, who went to Canada the year previous. The journey to Canada was in wagons and on foot. The old people rode and the younger members of the family walked. It is said that Mrs. Hipple carried her child all the way to Canada on foot.

An incident occurred during the residence of John Fretz in Pennsylvania which undoubtedly indicates that in his sympathies he was more loyal to the British Crown than to the American cause. It was during the early days of the Revolution. The patriot army being somewhat destitute of arms, the soldiers went from house to house collecting guns for the army from the settlers. On coming to his house they asked for his gun. He took the weapon from its accustomed place and replied to the soldiers: "Yes, you can have my gun, but I'll keep hold of the butt end of it."

In 1801 the first Mennonite church was established in Canada, known as Moyer's church. Of this church he was ordained deacon in 1801, being the first deacon of the Mennonite church in Canada. Chil-

VI. William Rittenhouse, M. D., b. in Lincoln Co., Ont., Sept. 5, 1852 ; mrd. Mary, dau. of William W. Moyer, of Campden, Ont., Apr. 2, 1874. Mr. Rittenhouse received a common school education, attending school in the Winter months, and as soon as he was old enough worked on his father's farm in the Summer. Before he was quite 17 he obtained a certificate to teach, and on January 1, 1870, took charge of his first school. For over thirteen years he labored in the school room until he was compelled to seek other occupation by failing health. At the age of 22, while teaching a country school at the modest sum of $400 a year, he was married. Three years later he secured an appointment to a position in the Central school of St. Catharines, Ont. After four years of hard work he was promoted to headmastership of the school. But the unceasing labor, the close confinement, and the loss of two of his children so wore upon his health that he resigned his position in 1883 to seek more active out-door life. During the same year he began the study of medicine, and the next year removed to Chicago, where he received his degree at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1886, and at once settled down in the same city to engage in the practice of his profession. Dr. Rittenhouse holds the chair of obstetrics in the Chicago Summer School of Medicine, of which he is one of the founders. Mr. Kephart in early life was a farmer, and like the Revolutionary patriot, General Putman, at the outbreak of the Civil war left the plow for the field of carnage at the first call to arms. His military history dates back to 1855, when he joined the Doylestown

Guards, which at the beginning of the war was captained by W. W. H. Davis, who tendered the services of the company to the Government at the first call for 75,000 men for three months. They were the first troops to pass through Baltimore, Md., after the Massachusetts Regiment met with violence at the hands of the mob. The company was attached to the 25th Regt. Pa. Vol., and formed Company I of that regiment. They were among the troops to make the first advance into Virginia, and during the campaign in that State they met the enemy in a skirmish at Harper's Ferry, and engaged them in battle at Falling Water. At the expiration of enlistment they were mustered out of service and returned home. After the regiment was mustered out of service Mr. Kephart was promoted from private to Corporal. Soon after their return the 104th Regt. Pa. Vol. was raised with Capt. W. W. H. Davis as Colonel, from whom Corporal Kephart received his commission as First Lieutenant of Company B. The regiment joined the army of the Potomac and served through the Peninsular campaign, and engaged in many bloody battles of the war. Their first battle was Lee's Mill, then the siege of Yorktown, battles of Williamsburg, Chickahominy, Seven Pines, Fair Oaks, Seven Days' battle, James' Island, John's Island, taking of Morris Landing, sieges of Fort Sumpter and Charleston, Cedar Creek, and campaigns before Petersburg and Richmond. After the battle of Fair Oaks, Lieutenant Kephart was promoted to Captain of Company B, and subsequently commissioned Major, then Lieutenant Colonel, and finally Colonel of the regiment.

After his return from the war his first venture was in the clothing, boot and shoe business, but for the past 25 years he has been employed as a train messenger for the American Express Company, at Chicago. He received the best school advantages the borough afforded, and was subsequently sent to Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., to complete his education. He began the practice of medicine at Salfordville, Montgomery county, Pa., but, owing to ill health, at the end of three years he sold his practice and removed to Quakertown, where he is now successfully engaged in the drug business, combined with a large and lucrative office practice. In 1886-87 he took a post graduate course of instruction at the Philadelphia Polyclinic, a college for graduates in medicine, fitting himself as a specialist

In the Fall of 1892 he was renominated by acclamation and re-elected by a largely increased majority. In the session of 1893 he served on the following important committees: Educational, Municipal, Corporation, Public Health and Sanitation, and Congressional Apportionment. His wife survived him 20 years, and died May 8, 1823. It is a noteworthy fact that at the time of her death she was the mother of 12 children, had 109 grandchildren and 103 great-grandchildren.

Previous to his father's death Christian lived on what is known as the Isaac Fretz homestead in Tiinicum township. He was one of the executors of his father's estate, and inherited the old homestead in Bedminster under the conditions mentioned in the will, and where he subsequently lived and died. To the homestead he added in 1793, by purchase from his son John, the tract known as the "Poor Fields," which consisted of about thirty acres.

In his day the Indians were yet quite numerous and often quite troublesome. It is related that he had a very fine horse to which the Indians took a particular fancy and wanted to buy it, but he would not sell the animal. The Indians, however, determined to have the horse, came by night and stole it. Some time after he ascertained where the horse was and went to the Indian camp. Arriving at evening, and seeing the horse turned out to pasture, he concealed himself until slumber had fallen upon the inhabitants of the wigwam. The Indians had a custom of just before retiring for the night to go outside of their wigwams, shout and make a great noise to frighten away the wild beasts. Knowing this to be the signal for retiring he waited until he thought they were sound asleep, then entered the lot, secured the horse and returned home with it.

VI. Philip K. Fretz, b. in Warwick Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., Sept. 14, 1813. He lived on a part of the old homestead in Warwick. He was a farmer and a prominent man of the county. He was extensively engaged in contract work and was one of the contractors to build the horse shoe curve of the Pennsylvania Railroad over the Allegheny mountains.

He inherited from his forefathers a stern sense of duty, a loving, jovial disposition, together with a keen appreciation of a harmless joke, and an unswerving directness in following that which his conscience deemed right. To write of him as he was known, is to write of the day by day life of the earnest, loving Christian, who had at heart—first, his township, then his county, next his State, and finally “The best country that God Almighty ever gave to man.” He was a man to feel for his neighbor in affliction, sickness and death, and to rejoice with him in prosperity.

In January 1845 fire broke out in the county buildings, and if it had not been for the prompt help of the neighbors, under the lead of Mr. Fretz, no doubt lives would have been lost. About the Summer of 1848 or '50, cholera being prevalent in many parts of the country, it broke out with great virulence at the Bucks County Almshouse, on which occasion Mr. Fretz displayed heroic courage and bravery by laboring all Summer for the safety of the neighborhood until the scourge was abated.

OLD MENNONITE MEETINGHOUSE, DEEP RUN, PA.

New Britain church for several months, after which he taught school for ten months in Plymouth township, Montgomery county, Pa. In 1854 he taught a term of school near Columbus.

Having injured his eyes by too close application to study, he consulted a physician connected with a college eye infirmary, commenced treatment, and after his school term was completed, by the physician's suggestion and recommendation, he commenced the study of medicine. After attending a course and a half of lectures and close reading until the Fall of 1846, he went to Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, from which he graduated in March 1857. During his time of study in Columbus, he had charge of the dissecting room and aided in the eye infirmary. These two circumstances gave him a taste for surgery and diseases of the eye. After graduating he returned to Columbus and commenced to practice, giving especial attention to the eye and ear, though not abandoning the general practice.

The war breaking out in 1861, a call was made for medical men. He offered his services, and he and another stood equal (third) in the list of over fifty admitted to examination, yet he could be appointed assistant only. In the Summer campaign in West Virginia he had the entire work of the regiment until Winter, when he had the first severe sickness of his life, and from which he probably never fully recovered. The next Summer (1862), foreseeing the same probable experience of all the work with part pay of Surgeon, he resigned. In a few days he was appointed surgeon of the 95th Ohio Regiment, and was immediately sent to the field in Kentucky. On August 30, 1862, the regiment engaged in the battles of Richmond, where a large part of them were killed, wounded and captured. He was six weeks in the enemies' hands with the wounded, when they were returned paroled to Columbus in October and prepared for the work of 1863 down the Mississippi River and the siege of Vicksburg, in all of which Dr. Gill participated. After that campaign and the second attack of Jackson, Miss., they spent the Fall and Winter in scouting and doing guard duty.

He applied for permission to appear before the United States Medical Board for examination for Surgeon of Volunteers, a higher position than surgeon of a regiment, though of the same rank (Major of Cavalry). A ten-days' examination satisfied the authorities and he received his commission from Abraham Lincoln. He was at once sent to the Atlantic campaign and very early assigned as Surgeon in Chief of the First Division, 20th Army Corps, of Gen. Joe Hooker's fighting corps. This position he held to the close of the war, finishing the Atlantic campaign, the famous march to the sea, the Carolina campaign, and so on to the great review at Washington in 1865. He went with the Western troops west to Louisville, Ky., and was honorably mustered out in August 1865.

The Fall of 1865 he spent in traveling and the Winter at Jefferson Medical College. In May 1866 he sailed for Europe, where he spent two years of hard study in hospitals—sixteen months in Germany, the remainder of the time in Paris, Geneva, London, and returned to New York in May 1868, and resumed the practice of his profession at St. Louis in October of the same year. He was associate-editor of the St. Louis "Medical and Surgical Journal" until 1873, when at the solicitation of friends he removed to Jerseyville, Ill. About 1875 the degree of A. M. was conferred on Dr. Gill by McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., and the degree of L. L. D. by the University of Wooster, O., in 1885, the medical department of which was located at Cleveland, O., where he was living and lecturing in the medical college, occupying the chair of clinical surgery. In 1881 he was appointed physician to the Southern Illinois Penitentiary, where he did some of his best work. In March 1865 he received the first Brevet (Lieutenant Colonel) of any medical officer from the State of Ohio. From Chester, Ill., (Southern Illinois Penitentiary) he was urged to take the chair of surgery in the medical department of the University of Wooster at Cleveland, O., which position he filled for over two years, when he resigned, and in October 1886 removed to Eldorado, Kan., having at that time just completed his work on "Diphtheria, Croup and Tracheotomy," a work which cost him much labor.

In the Spring of 1855 Dr. Gill joined the Methodist Episcopal church of which he has been a member ever since, and held every official position up to president of the Lay Electoral Conference of Southern Illinois in 1883. In November 1894 he removed to Pittsburg, Kan., and has limited his practice to eye, ear, nose and throat. Children: (VII) Amos Carpenter Gill, born May 6, 1871; died February 22, 1872. VI. Abraham F. K. Krout, A. M., b. in Bucks Co., Pa., Feb. 2, 1843. At the age of 19 years he entered the North Wales Institute, where he remained about a year. In the Fall of 1862 he began teaching, and taught successively at the Deep Run, Rocky Ridge, Algard, Sellersville, and Plumsteadville schools. In 1868 he took charge of the West Bethlehem schools, Lehigh county, and in 1869 accepted the principalship of the Coplay schools, same county. In June 1883 he gave up teaching to become the accountant and cashier for the Coplay Iron Company, a position he held until October 1888. In the Fall of 1889 he took charge of the borough schools of Emlenton, Pa., where, as principal, he reorganized the school system and introduced a number of changes for the improvement of the public schools of that municipality. He next took charge as principal and supervisor of the Lehigh-ton borough schools, and later as principal at Wyoming, Pa. He is at present connected with the Temple College, Philadelphia.

Through all these years of teaching there is one idea that has never been lost sight of, namely : that of self-improvement. The schooling at the academy was only the beginning of a life of study. In 1876 he appeared before the State Board of Examiners, passed the examination and was granted a Normal certificate as teacher of didactic. He found much pleasure in pursuing a course of general studies in science and language, and in 1877 Franklin and Marshall College recognized his industry as a student and conferred on him the honorary degree of A. M. He has been a member of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association since 1877, and is also an active member of the Tourey Botanical Club, of Columbia College, New York City, since October 1881.

Having the confidence of the people at his permanent home in Coplay, he was frequently called upon to fill positions of honor and responsibility. He was the first commissioned Justice of the Peace for his borough, and held the office from 1869 to 1890. He was secretary of Town Council for 13 years, and a School Director five years. The Judges of the Courts frequently appointed him to serve on road juries and commissions, and there are few townships in Lehigh county in which he has not been called to execute these appointments.

Being a member of the Reformed church he took an active interest in the founding of Trinity congregation at Coplay in 1872. He served as deacon and was for many years secretary of the Consistory. He was the superintendent of the Sunday school of this congregation for 18 years.

He married Mary C. Moyer, of Skippack, Montg. Co., Pa., October 1, 1868. Children: (VII) Mabel Olivia Krout, b. Dec. 25, 1871; (VII) Jacob Henry Krout, b. May 16, 1874; (VII) Clarence A. Krout, born May 3, 1883; d. Sept. 12, 1883. (VII) Helen Rachel Krout, born Nov. 5, 1885.

"Aunt Betsey" was a great favorite with the birds; not canaries or caged birds, but wild birds, hundreds and hundreds of them, free to go and come as they pleased. She could call them to her at any time in the day, and no doubt they would have flown to her at any hour of the night had she called them. She would crack nuts in the house, and say to the girl, "get my bird sun bonnet;" then while the audience looked out of the window she cracked more nuts on the piazza. Such a flying from the woodlands and meadows, such an alighting of birds of all sizes and colors on "Aunt Betsey's" head was a beautiful sight, and the old tattered sun bonnet, torn by bird claws, was an insigne of office and more honorable than the helmet of some gallant knight of old. Children: Jacob, Catharine, Susan, Magdalena, Elizabeth, Violette, Hannah, infant, Annie, Rachel, Cornelia, Sarah.

IV. Abraham Fretz, born in Bedminster, Bucks Co., Pa., Mar. 30, 1769; d. Mar. 7, 1844; mrd. Magdalena, dau. of John Kratz, of Hilltown, Pa., April 30, 1793. They lived on the old Fretz homestead in Bedminster. The farm, consisting of 255 acres, he inherited from his father. He was an honest, upright citizen, a conscientious christian, and much esteemed by the community in which he lived.

It is related that while working in the field one day a man rode up, and seeing his fine cows wanted to buy one, but he did not want to sell. The man, however, insisted and asked him to set a price. He then thought that if he would ask double what the cow was worth the man would leave without buying. But contrary to his expectation the man laid down the money and drove the cow off. After the man was gone he talked the matter over with his wife and they decided it was "usury." He mounted a horse, rode after the man and gave him back half of the money, saying: "I don't want to be damned for a cow."

He and wife were members of the Menmonite church at Deep Run, of which he was a deacon for many years. Children: Anna, Rebecca, Jacob, Christian, John, Isaac, Martin, Elizabeth, Barbara, Abraham.

In 1856 his parents moved to Bedminster township, on the farm of his grandfather Christian, where his father was born and brought up, and which, upon the death of Christian, passed into the hands of Ely, who still owns it.

When 17 years old Allen was sent by his parents to the Mennonite Seminary at Wadsworth, O. He subsequently attended one term at the Excelsior Normal Institute at Carversville, Pa., after which he taught eleven terms, working on his father's farm during the Summer months.

In the Fall of 1882 he accepted the nomination of the Republican party as a candidate to the State Legislature, but his party being in the minority in that year's campaign he was defeated with the rest of the ticket.

In 1883 the Second Mennonite church at Deep Run called him to be their minister, and he was accordingly ordained by Bishop Moses Gottschall on October 13, 1883, and installed pastor of the same.

Feeling the pressing need of an English paper in the interest of his branch of the Mennonite church, he, with the aid of Rev. N. B. Grubb, pastor of the church in Philadelphia, succeeded in getting out the prospectus of "The Mennonite," which was laid before the conference and accepted as one of the periodicals of the church. He is still one of the editors of the paper, which has steadily increased in popularity and circulation since it was started.

On November 24, 1893, he was ordained to the office of bishop by Rev. William S. Gottshall, assisted by Rev. J. S. Moyer, at Deep Run, Pa., and has the spiritual oversight as bishop and pastor of the Deep Run and Souderton churches. He was variously occupied as farmer, weaver, miller and merchant. He at first lived on a farm in Montgomery county, and afterwards purchased 60 acres of the old Fretz homestead and some adjoining lands in Bedminster, where he built in 1838 a stone dwelling house, and subsequently a barn, tenant house and other buildings. The farm is now owned and occupied by Reuben Miller.

He and wife early in life were members of the Old Mennonite church at Deep Run. About 1847 a division took place in that congregation, and a new meetinghouse was built a few hundred yards from the old one. At the time of the division he was a trustee of the old church, but cast his lot with the new church, and was subsequently chosen one of its first ministers.

Having disposed of his mill property he removed to Newton, Sussex county, where he had built a house and engaged in the commission business. About 1866 he removed to Stillwater, same county, where he purchased a home and engaged in the merchandis 

VI. Jacob Freeman Hendricks, A. M., born May 15, 1854; mrd. Annie Garner, of Doylestown, dau. of Robert S. Garner, ex-Deputy Prothonotary of Bucks county, in 1894. He was the youngest and is now the only surviving child of his parents. When he became of school age he was sent to the district school. In 1865 his father sold the farm on which he had lived for many years and bought a property near Line Lexington, in Hilltown township, and moved thereon. Here the boy resumed his attendance at a district school, assisting his father when school was not in session in the work on the farm.

Between the years of 1865 and 1870 he induced his father to send him for several short terms to the Line Lexington Seminary, a select school for boys and girls. In the Spring of 1870, thirsting for still wider educational advantages, he attended the Excelsior Normal Institute at Carversville for a twelve weeks' term, then under the principalship of Rev. F. R. S. Hunsicker, D. D. In the Fall he entered the profession of teaching, taking charge of a school in Hilltown township. In the Spring of 1871 he entered Millersville State Normal School and remained there twelve weeks. In the Fall he again took charge of a school in Hilltown and continued teaching in that township for three successive terms. In the Spring of 1874 he returned to Millersville and remained one term. In the Fall he was examined by County Superintendent Knauss, of Lehigh county, and granted a provisional certificate with No. 1 in every branch. He was thereupon elected principal of the schools of Rittersville, in that county. After teaching there several months he was granted a professional certificate. In the Spring of 1875 he once more returned to Millersville and remained to finish his course, graduating in the class of '76. He graduated with the degree of Bachelor of the Elements, and had conferred upon him one of the honors of his class. In the Fall he took charge of a school at Breinigsville, Lehigh county. During this term he gained prominence among the teachers of the county. At the teachers' institute of that year he was made secretary of the institute, appointed to open the discussion on one of the topics, chosen delegate to the State Teachers' Association, and selected as one of the evening lecturers. In the Fall of 1877 he took charge of a school in East Donegal township, Lancaster county. During this time he gave some attention to public lecturing, appearing among other audiences before the Page Literary Society of Millersville. At the commencement of '78 he received from his Alma Mater the degree of Master of the Elements. In the Fall of that year he was elected teacher of the intermediate department of the Doylestown borough public schools, and before the close of the term was made principal and borough superintendent.

In the Summer of 1879, after winning golden testimonials as a teacher, he left the school room and turned his face in the direction of the legal profession. He entered the office of Alfred Fackenthall, Esq., of Doylestown, and was duly registered as a student at law. In 1881 he was admitted to the Bucks County Bar and at once entered upon the practice of law at the county capital. In the Spring of 1885 Doylestown borough elected him Justice of the Peace by an overwhelming majority, when his party was hopelessly in the minority. The same year he was admitted to the Bryant Literary Union of New York, and again he entered the lecture field. For several years he appeared before county teachers' institutes and other distinguished audiences, and won the strongest testimonials. At the commencement of '86 Ursinus College conferred upon him the degree of Master of Arts.

From the time he turned to the law he has been closely identified with politics, and has been on the stump for his party in every campaign. He has been an ardent believer and zealous worker in the Republican League of the United States, and has been signally honored by that organization. He was president of the Doylestown League three years, delegate from the Doylestown League to the State Convention four times, delegate from the State League to the National Convention three times, and Pennsylvania member of the National League executive committee two years. For five years he has been Notary Public and for four years clerk of Doylestown Town Council. For three years he was chairman of the Bucks County Republican Committee. He was one of the founders of the "Republican" Printing Company, and is secretary of the company.

In the political campaign of 1894 the Republicans of Bucks county overwhelmingly demanded his nomination for District Attorney, though he did not seek the office, and there were other candidates contesting for the honor, with much reluctance he yielded to the popular wish and accepted the nomination. No sooner had he entered the arena than the opposition concentrated their fight upon him and fought him with bitterness and desperation. He emerged from the fight in triumph and entered upon the duties of the office.

In religion he is a Presbyterian. He has been an active worker in the Sunday school and an ardent believer in the Christian Endeavor Society. He has figured prominently as a speaker at public gatherings. In 1890 he delivered the annual address before the literary societies at the Millersville State Normal School and Ursinus College. He still resides at Doylestown, where he assiduously pursues his several lines of work. One child : Grace.

VI. Clayton D. Fretz, M. D., born on the old John Fretz homestead in Bedminster November 16, 1844. At the age of 6 years his mother died of a lingering illness. He remained at home with his father until the Spring of 1855, when he was hired on the farm of the late Jonas Meyers, of Bedminster, where he remained nearly two years. The following year he was employed with the late Reuben Stover, and the year previous with Aaron Tyson, working on the farm during the Summer and attending school at Bedminster during the Winter terms. His father, having resumed farming, he returned home in the Spring of 1859 and assisted on the farm, attending school during the Winter months at Fretz Valley.

In the Spring of 1862 he attended a term at the North Wales Institute, under the principalship of A. S. Overholt. He also attended the Spring term of 1863 at the same institution. In the Summer of 1864 he took a course at Eastman Business College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., graduating July 12. In the Autumn of 1862 he secured a certificate of County Superintendent S. S. Overholt, and taught his first term of school in the "Old Octagon" schoolhouse, near Fountain-ville. He continued teaching for the next three years, teaching at the Monroe school, Durham, and the Fretz Valley school at Bedminster, and closed his career as teacher at Crout's school, Rockhill.

During the last term he commenced reading medicine under his preceptor, Dr. I. S. Moyer, then of Plumsteadville, Bucks county. After the close of the school he devoted all his time to medicine, and entered the office of his preceptor as a regular student, and in the Autumn of 1866 matriculated at the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. During the succeeding two years he applied himself closely to study, attended the lectures, and graduated March 13, 1868. Ten days thereafter, on March 23, he located at Sellersville, Pa., and entered into partnership with Dr. Nelson Applebach for the practice of his profession. He met with success, and in a few years succeeded in acquiring a lucrative practice and establishing himself in the confidence and esteem of the community. In the Autumn of 1871 he dissolved the business partnership with Dr. Applebach to enter into a life partnership with Kate B., daughter of Dr. Charles W. Everhart, of Sellersville.

The study of botany and the collection of specimens of plants and flowers has been one of his favorite pursuits. He has added many new and rare plants to the known flora of Bucks county, besides having discovered one new to the State flora and a variety not before known to science. His herbarium not only contains a complete set of all the plants in Bucks county but a very large majority of the plants growing east of the Mississippi, including not less than 10,000 specimens and about 4000 different species and varieties.

THE FIRST FRETZ FAMILY REUNION.

BY C. D. FRETZ, M. D.

The first reunion of the Fretz family was held in the grove adjoining the old Fretz homestead, near Bedminsterville, Pa., September 15, 1888. The descendants of the pioneers, John and Christian Fretz, came in large numbers. Nearly all the eastern counties of Pennsylvania were represented, as well as the States of Ohio, Kansas, New Jersey and the District of Columbia. More than 500 of their descendants registered their names, and many were there who did not register. The number present was estimated at from 800 to 1000. The oldest descendant present was Mrs. Susanna Funk, of Line Lexington, being 86 years old. She is the daughter of Martin Fretz, deceased, of Hilltown township. Philip K. Fretz, of Bedminster; Henry Fretz, of Plumstead; Mrs. Elizabeth Fretz Farren, of Doylestown, and John Henry Garges, of Washington, D. C., were among the oldest. The ministers of the Gospel were Rev. Allen M. Fretz, of Bedminster; Rev. A. J. Fretz, of Milton, N. J., and Rev. Enos Loux, of Dublin. The medical profession was represented by Dr. Harvey Kratz, of New Britain; Dr. A. F. Myers, of Blooming Glen; Dr. O. H. Fretz, of Quakertown; Dr. A. N. Fretz, of Fleetwood, Berks county; Dr. C. D. Fretz, of Sellersville, and Dr. John H. Fretz, of Hagersville. The only representative of the legal profession was J. Freeman Hendricks, Esq., of Doylestown. County Superintendent W. H. Slotter, of Doylestown, represented the educational interests. The mass was made up of the sturdy yeoman, who for a century and a half has given character to the family by their integrity and moral worth.

The committee of arrangements had made ample preparations. A table 180 feet long was constructed, upon which the ladies were engaged during the forenoon in transferring the contents of many well filled baskets and boxes. When the dinner hour arrived and a general invitation to all was extended by the chairman, the audience as generously responded, and not until the table had been filled and cleared three times were all the hungry satisfied. A speakers' stand had been erected, in front of which were placed benches and chairs for the audience, and on one side was placed an organ, presided over by Miss Ida Moyer. The musical part of the program was conducted by Dr. A. F. Myers. The exercises of the forenoon were opened by singing the coronation hymn from printed slips. This was followed by a fervent prayer by Rev. A. J. Fretz. The address of welcome was then delivered by Rev. Allen M. Fretz. J. Freeman Hendricks, Esq., of Doylestown, addressed the audience very felicitously for some time, when the exercises of the forenoon were closed by singing the patriotic hymn, "America." The time between the exercises was taken up in social converse and in registering the names of the descendants present. Dr. John H. Fretz, who had been appointed as register, was kept busily engaged during the interval.

The afternoon exercises were opened by singing the hymn, "Come, thou Fount of every Blessing." Rev. A. J. Fretz then delivered the historical address, which was listened to with profound interest. He graphically depicted the surroundings when the two brothers, John and Christian Fretz, driven forth from their fatherland by cruel persecution, sought refuge in this far-off land, this wilderness, inhabited by wild beasts and the equally dangerous red man. The genealogy of the different branches of the family were briefly given, and other data. Dr. A. N. Fretz, of Fleetwood, then gave a short talk, after which County Superintendent Slotter delivered the memorial address. After some announcements and the singing of a hymn, "There's a Land that is Fairer than Day," the exercises were closed with the benediction and the doxology, "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow."

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

DELIVERED BY REV. ALLEN M. FRETZ, AT FRETZ
REUNION, SEPTEMBER 15, 1888.

Dear friends, in appearing before you this morning to bid you welcome on this occasion, I feel that mine is a pleasant duty indeed. It is a pleasant duty—first, because I trust that all who have now assembled before me, as well as all who may be here later in the day, have come with an assurance of the fact that they are welcome. Further, it is a pleasant duty for me to stand between the fathers of almost two centuries ago whose dust now lie mingled with the earth in yonder graveyard, and their numerous descendants, of which I have the honor of being one, to bid you welcome to the first general reunion of the Fretz family. Less than two centuries ago these teeming valleys and verdant hills were mostly forests, and were with this grove in which we have assembled to-day the home of the red man, while the beasts of the forests vied with him in finding a sustenance. The remains of our ancestors lie side by side in soil not their own by birth, and we visit their graves at times to call our memories back to their daring lives, while the ashes of the Aborigines have entered into the soil from which we reap our beautiful harvests and obtain our sustenance. In the early years of the eighteenth century came emigrants from England, Scotland and Germany, and took possession of the land in this vicinity. It was then that, among the many others, two brothers, John and Christian Fretz, left their homes and friends in the fatherland and for weal or woe crossed the wide perilous Atlantic, and came to this new world, the refuge for the oppressed and persecuted of every civilized country.

In course of time Christian became possessor of land in Tinicum township, about three miles from here, while John made his purchase and future home on a tract in Bedminster township, of which the soil on which we meet to-day is a part, and which has since been continuously in the possession of his male descendants to this day. In these homes the Lord prospered them till now their descendants are no longer confined to the townships of Bedminster and Tinicum, but have increased and multiplied and spread abroad until now they may be found in almost every State and Territory through the length and breadth of this fair land, and in various parts of Canada as well.

This is an age of reunions. Alumni of schools and colleges have reunions, the veterans of the late war have reunions, families have reunions, and it is well that the descendants of these two brothers should have such a gathering also. During the brief time allotted for preparation there were sent out to all Fretz descendants, whose names and addresses could be ascertained, invitations to meet with us at this reunion, to renew the memories of our ancestors and become better acquainted with each other as offspring of a common ancestry. I do, therefore, in memory of our fathers, bid you welcome to this assembly. In behalf of the present proprietor of this grove I bid you welcome. In the name of the committee of arrangements I bid you welcome. I bid you welcome to the exercises that will be conducted here to-day, and to the common table that will be spread for dinner. Let us make this a day of profit as well as of pleasure. While our memories are refreshed with the daring and self-denial of our ancestors, let us take an example from their devotedness to the cause for which they forsook their native land—religious liberty, and cultivate true filial love and devotedness to one another. Above all, let us lift our hearts in thankfulness to God, the giver of every good and perfect gift, for his blessings upon our ancestors, upon our immediate fathers and mothers, and upon us to the present moment. Let us unitedly pray that he may continue to be with us and bless us as he has been with our fathers and blessed them. Let us seek so as to live in his fear and to glory in his great name, that in the great and final family reunion we may all be privileged to participate. That we, having heeded the loving invitation, may be reunited with our friends gone before, and with them forever share the joys of a reunion inseparable.

THE SECOND FRETZ FAMILY REUNION.

BY C. D. FRETZ, M. D.

The second reunion of the descendants of John and Christian Fretz was held in the grove near the old homestead, in Bedminster township, on Saturday, September 2, 1893. The early morning gave but faint prospects for a pleasant day, owing to the stormy aspects of the weather. Nevertheless, by 11 o'clock several hundred persons were gathered about the speakers' stand, when Rev. Allen M. Fretz, of Souder-ton, chairman of the reunion committee, called the meeting to order. The day's exercises were ushered in by the singing of the magnificent hymn, "Come, Thou Almighty King;" Dr. A. Myers, of Blooming Glen, musical director. Next followed the invocation by Rev. Thomas S. Fretz, of Lewisburg, Pa. Reed Fretz, of Bedminster, then, in a few words, welcomed the assembled to the home of their ancestors, which had fostered them in their hour of need. This was very felicitously responded to by Prof. Alva B. Fretz, of Cedar Grove, N. J. Rev. Allen M. Fretz then proceeded to deliver the memorial address. Worthy did he enumerate the brave deeds of his forefathers, who lie resting in the old graveyard at Deep Run, hoping they might be emulated by their descendants and their memories forever held sacred. The singing of the coronation hymn closed the first part of the program, after which all were invited to partake of the bounteous repast prepared by the ladies' committee. Ample justice was done to this pleasing feature of the program. The table, about 200 feet long, spread with various varieties to satisfy the most fastidious, was a novelty to see. The committee on registration, consisting of Messrs. J. Franklin Fretz, Oscar Fretz and Joseph Myers, were busily engaged with the register, in which descendants present inscribed their names. In the meantime the cloudy morning was transformed into a beautiful afternoon, and crowds of people hastened to the grove until the number was swelled to about 2000. Promptly at 2 o'clock all gathered once more around the platform, when the entire assemblage broke forth with the patriotic strains of "My Country 'tis of Thee," which were echoed and reechoed among the rings of the forest. After the singing J. F. Hendricks, Esq., of Doylestown, addressed the assemblage. He spoke of the integrity and honesty of which the family had always been noted since the first ancestor. Mr. Hendricks' speech was followed by a beautiful solo, rendered by Miss Florence E. Newbaker, of Philadelphia, entitled "My Father's Home." A short essay was then read by J. Kirk Leatherman, M. E., of Lullytown, Pa. Another pretty solo was sung by Miss Mary H. Fretz, of Milton, N. J., entitled "Dream of the Old Home," after which County Superintendent William H. Slotter addressed the audience in a few words. This was followed by another hymn, "Nearer my God to Thee." The family historian, Rev. A. J. Fretz, of Milton, N. J., was then introduced, who held the audience enraptured for some time. The meeting then adjourned after singing, "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow."

HISTORICAL ADDRESS.

DELIVERED AT THE SECOND REUNION OF THE FRETZ
FAMILY, AT BEDMINSTER, SEPTEMBER 2,
1893, BY REV. A. J. FRETZ.

[Revised Extracts.]

This is indeed an auspicious day to be assembled here on almost consecrated ground for two reasons—first, because this was the home of an ancestor who came from the old world to the new, settling here 156 years ago, and founded a family now numbered by the thousands, scattered over this broad land from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with numerous representatives in Canada and some in other countries. Here finished his work and ended his earthly pilgrimage, one whose memory we shall ever revere and cherish for his bravery, fidelity and patriotism. Second, because here are assembled such a numerous company of descendants of our worthy ancestors, John and Christian Fretz, to recount some events in the lives of these devoted fathers of more than a century and a half ago, and to extend greetings to one another in the common bonds of kinship to render praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God, who directed the steps of the ancestors hither. We are here also, if possible, to learn more concerning the early ancestors, to gather together the remaining fragments of their history, incidents of their lives of interest, and that will be highly prized by generations yet unborn. Family histories and genealogies are works of great value and much interest to the descendants, and they become more and more so as time passes on. Their sayings, acts, privations, early struggles, the final successes, traditions and history of the ancestors, so often recounted by the grandfathers and grandmothers, cannot fail to be of interest, and these things should be put in a form for permanent preservation. There will come a time, generations hence, when these things will be of incalculable value. It is remarkably strange that there are so many who do not care for these things and take so little interest in them, to such an extent that they do not know who their grandparents were.

According to a tradition of the family the ancestors, John and Christian Fretz, with a third brother who died on the voyage, came from near the city of Manheim, Province of Baden, Germany, formerly known as the Palatinate, or Rhemish Prussia, and therefore undoubtedly were of German nationality. Although during the persecution of the Mennonites in Switzerland by the Calvinists, many of them fled across the line into the Palatinate, where they remained for a time, and afterwards emigrated to America. Many of these Swiss Mennonites from the Palatinate were among the early settlers of Bucks and Montgomery counties, among them, if the tradition of the family can be relied on, were the Meyer ancestors. It is said that the Fretz ancestors emigrated to America during the "last persecution" and came in company with the Meyer ancestors, who settled in Montgomery county.

The Meyer ancestors of Montgomery county were Christian and Hans Meyer. Hans Meyer, as we have recently learned, was the father-in-law of our pioneer ancestor, John Fretz. They emigrated to America in the early part of the eighteenth century, and thus we find them settled here in the infancy of the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania years before the French and Indian war, and long before the United States became a free and independent nation. Some of the stirring scenes in the colonies took place during their lifetime, and as the earthly pilgrimage of the aged ancestors began to draw to a close the colonists became restless under the British yoke, and barely had the pioneers gone to their rest before the

The Fretz brothers married their wives on American soil, and here all their children were born. At the time of the publication of the Fretz history it was not known who either of the Fretz ancestors married. We were fortunate, however, in our investigations into the Meyer family quite recently, to discover the fact that John Fretz married for his first wife Barbara, daughter of Hans Meyer, of Upper Salford, Montgomery Co., and thus is happily discovered a missing link, which enables those who are descendants by this marriage, to go one generation back of the Fretz ancestry. The fact is now established that our first ancestor on American soil was Hans Meyer, of Upper Salford. This, no doubt, is a surprising revelation to many of you here to-day, who have never so much as dreamed that you were Meyer descendants. But it is a happy revelation to us, as it brings us into closer and dearer relation to the many descendants of Hans Meyer, who are scattered all through Bucks and Montgomery counties and elsewhere. This discovery gives us a possible clue to where John Fretz at first settled before purchasing the homestead at Bedminster, and which was no doubt somewhere in Montgomery county, and where all the children by the first wife, except Elizabeth Kulp, were probably born. He probably settled for a time in that county, then in 1737 or 1738 purchased the homestead in Bedminster, on which we are to-day assembled, of Bartholomew Longstreth, consisting of 230 acres, and for which he paid £106. This tract, when purchased, had a house which was probably of logs, a barn and other out-buildings, but was surrounded on all sides by a wilderness of vacant and unimproved land. Here the pioneer sojourned until the close of his earthly pilgrimage, improving his home and following his vocation of weaving, which may have been his principal occupation in his later years.

The last will and testament of John Fretz was dated January 29, 1772, was probated March 3 of the same year, which shows that he died between the two dates given, probably in February 1772. Several of his children were also weavers, which they no doubt combined with other occupations. John lived for some years after marriage in Tinicum township, and was also a weaver. At the time of his father's death, in 1772, he was a resident of Haycock township, on the Tohickon, where he run a mill. Afterwards he moved to Doylestown, and in 1800, when 70 years old, he emigrated with his family to Canada. His son Moses went out to Canada the year previous, and his daughter Barbara (wife of Jacob Silvius) remained in Bucks county.

John Fretz was one of the leading spirits in founding the first Mennonite church in Canada, of which he was the first deacon. He died in 1826, aged 96 years. His descendants are very numerous, most of them residing in Canada, but many are in the Western and other portions of the United States. Among them are prominent ministers of the Methodist Episcopal, Mennonite, Baptist, and other churches.

Jacob Fretz at first lived near Erwinna, in Tinicum township, on what is known as the Ervine farm, he having sold it to a man of that name who was also a weaver. The family suffering from malaria he afterwards purchased a farm in Bedminster township, along the Tohickon, where his son Joseph, known as "Big Joe," lived and died. Christian Fretz was a farmer. He inherited the old homestead in Bedminster, on which he lived and died, and to which he added by purchase from his son John the tract known as the "poor fields," consisting of about 25 acres. He was a wealthy man and reared a large family. His descendants are very numerous, numbering about 2000 living, with over 500 deceased.

Abraham Fretz was also a weaver and lived on a farm at Fretz Valley, in Bedminster township, now owned by Philip K. Fretz, a grandson, and Reed Fretz, a great-grandson.

Elizabeth Fretz married Jacob Kolb, a farmer. They lived and died in Hilltown township, where many of their descendants still live.

To the ancestors, John and Christian Fretz, we owe a debt of gratitude for their unflinching faith in God, fidelity to His cause and for their bravery. It was no small matter for the ancestors to leave their homes in the far-off fatherland, to brave the perils of the ocean, and to endure the hardships and inconveniences incident to their settlement in the new world, in the vast wilderness of America, where they erected their log cabins, surrounded on all sides by wild beasts and treacherous savages. But pressed on account of their religion, persecuted in the land of their nativity on account thereof, with sincere devotion to God and conscience, they dared to brave the perils of land and sea to find a home where they would at least be untrammelled in the worship of God, a privilege so dear to the hearts of all God's people.

What thoughts must have crowded upon their minds as they looked for the last time upon familiar scenes around them, as they stood at the graves of beloved dead ones for the last time, joined in prayer and song, and listened to the word of God in the old parrish church for the last time in the land of their nativity, spoke their last farewell to loved ones at home, clasped the hand of father and embraced mother for the last time with eyes dimmed with tears and the tongue of utterance choked with emotion, and turned their backs upon the old home and fatherland, and faced towards the new. How their hearts must have sank within them, when, tossed upon the bosom of the old ocean, they consigned the body of a brother to a deep and watery grave.

The ancestors and their immediate descendants were plain and unpretentious folks of the Mennonite faith, chiefly occupied as weavers, farmers and millers, in which occupation they were successful. For several generations the family produced no professional men. But later generations have not been confined to the workshop and farm. They have graced every walk in life, and represented every profession. In the school room, in journalism, in medicine, at the bar, on the platform, in legislative halls, and in the pulpit, they have won renown. They have stood in the ranks of the soldier in the nation's hour of peril, wielded the sword, and died upon bloody fields of battle in defense of country and home.

In conclusion let me say that we, as our ancestors did, are also making history—history that will have more or less influence upon our children and descendants after us. That we may have nothing to regret let us make a clean history, and leave only an influence for good upon those we leave behind us to tread the winepress of life after we are gone. Then in the great day when all history will be a finished work, and the final gatherings of the nations be, with our ancestors and our descendants, we may gather in one final reunion, and that our Heavenly Father may welcome us, own us, and crown us citizens of his eternal Kingdom.

THE MEYER FAMILY OF SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP, BUCKS COUNTY, PA.

Rev. Peter Meyer, together with his three brothers, William, Jacob, Henry, one sister (name not known) and their mother (a widow) came to America about 1741 or later. The family were born and lived in Switzerland, but fled from the fatherland during the fierce persecution of the Mennonites by the Calvinists, or State (Reformed) church, to the Palatinate in Germany, where they remained with friends in the vicinity of Kerbach for about a year, after which they emigrated to America. The mother married a second husband by the name of Nickey Schaafroth, but had no issue by this marriage. The sister was the oldest of the children. She married a man by the name of Schatz, but had no issue. Of the brothers, Peter was the oldest and Henry the youngest. Peter, William and Henry settled in Springfield township, Bucks county, and Jacob at Centre Valley, Saucon township, Lehigh county. They were all farmers and members of the Mennonite church. It is said that Peter was a minister in Switzerland. He was one of the early ministers of the Mennonite church in Springfield. Jacob was also a minister, and preached in the Saucon Mennonite church.

DESCENDANTS OF HENRY MOYER, SON OF — MOYER.

II. Henry Moyer, b. in Penna. about 1778 ; died March 27, 1845, aged 67 years ; mrd. Susanna, dau. of Abraham and Catharine (Fried) Souder. She was b. April 1, 1779 ; d. October 18, 1860. *It is not positively known who Henry Moyer's father was, as he died when the children were small, and the old Bible containing the family records, which Henry Moyer took with him to Canada, was destroyed by fire. It was the opinion of his son Abraham that his grandfather (Henry Moyer's father) came from Switzerland. As above stated, Henry Moyer's father died when the children were small and they were put out to friends and relatives, and Henry probably never knew much of his brothers and sisters, except his two sisters, Mrs. Abraham Stauffer and Mrs. Widemoyer.

Mrs. William Moyer, of Berlin, Ont., has in her mind that Susanna, wife of Henry Moyer, used to say that one brother went North to buy cattle and another went South, and were never heard from afterwards, but there is nothing positive about this. Abraham Moyer used to say he knew there were more in the family than Henry and the two sisters.

Soon after marriage Henry Moyer purchased a farm of 70 acres four miles from Doylestown, Pa., and paid $2200 on it, and afterwards bought an adjoining tract of 30 acres with the promise of friends to advance him the money, but soon the hard times came, and his friends not able or willing to advance him the money he could not meet his payments, was sold out by the Sheriff and lost all he had paid on the place, leaving a debt besides, which, however, he paid as soon as he was able. This showed the honesty and christian principle he possessed.

In May 1825 he, his wife and family (excepting their son Abraham, who had gone two months previous) in a company emigrated to Waterloo county, Ont., and settled in the woods two miles south of the present village of Breslin, near the banks of the Grand River, where he died. On October 15, 1829, while they were out logging, their little log house caught fire and burned down with everything in it, among which was the old Moyer Bible containing the records of his father's family. Children: Abraham, Jacob, Catharine, William, Henry.

III. Abraham Moyer, b. in Bucks Co., Pa., July 14, 1803; d. in Berlin, Ont., November 20, 1893; mrd. Barbara, dau. of Isaac and Esther (Bechtel) Shantz. She was b. in Waterloo Co., Ont., May 6, 1812; died in Berlin, Ont., April 22, 1887. In company with Samuel Fried he left his home in Pennsylvania and walked to Canada, arriving at Preston, Waterloo county, March 20, 1825, making the trip in 13 days. After they arrived they had 25 cents left, which they divided equally between them. Mr. Moyer resided on a farm within the corporation of Berlin, where he raised a large family. Menns. Children: Mary, Isaac, Nancy, Aaron, Esther, Magdalena, Moses, David, Sallie, Samuel, Lavina, Abraham, Levi.

V. Josiah S. Moyer, b. in Berlin, Ont., January 28, 1861. The early part of his life was spent with his father on a farm near Kossuth, where he obtained a common school education. It was soon discovered, particularly by his father, that farming had no great charms for him, in consequence of which he was sent to college. After graduating Mr. Moyer taught school for a short time. The compensation of this, however, was not compatible with his ambition, and at the age of 21 he was engaged by his uncle, S. S. Moyer, button manufacturer in Berlin, as traveling salesman, which position he held for three years.

Like many other energetic Canadians, Mr. Moyer emigrated to the United States, where success was possible to a degree not so limited as in Canada. His first position was with Darling & Scholes, of Buffalo, N. Y., importers of clothiers' trimmings, which he served for four years in the capacity of senior salesman, traveling in all parts of the United States with success characteristic of ardency and probity. Subsequently Mr. Moyer effected a substantial connection with the U. B. Schantz Co., Rochester, N. Y., manufacturers of buttons, and represented this firm for a period of five years, traveling between St. Louis and Washington, D. C. January 1, 1896, he disposed off his interest in the above firm, abandoned the road and located in Buffalo, N. Y., devoting his time to real estate and his private interests.

Mr. Moyer has traveled extensively in Europe, both for business and in search of pleasure. With a friend he visited the Paris Exposition in 1889, and extended the tour to Rome and Naples. During the Fall 1892 Mr. Moyer made an extended trip to the Pacific coast, visiting all points of interest, and January 1, 1893, he circulated among his friends a book giving a graphic account of his encounters and escapades in the far West, entitled "An Aristocratic Vagabond in California."

IV. Peter E. W. Moyer, M. A., b. in Waterloo Co.,

Ont., Oct. 3, 1836; mrd. Elizabeth, eldest dau. of the late William Ardagh, of Toronto, Ont., May 5, 1868. When about 1 year old his parents moved on a bush farm, where he spent his early years, working on the farm in Summer and going to school in the Winter. Being a boy of more than ordinary pluck and intelligence he was qualified and commenced teaching public school at the early age of 15 years, and spent four or five years teaching in Winter and assisting on the farm in Summer.

When about 20 years of age he was converted in a Methodist revival meeting at Berlin, which was the means of changing the whole tenor and ambition of his after life. Having a strong desire to do what he could for his fellowmen he soon after commenced to perform the duties of a local preacher. Later he attended Victoria University (then located at Cobourg, Ont.), and after four years graduated in Arts, receiving the degree of B. A., and three years later that of M. A. He spent three years as a traveling preacher, but owing to failure of health and other considerations satisfactory to his own mind, he decided to devote himself to newspaper life, having for some years acted as correspondent for a number of religious and secular papers in Canada and the United States.

In the Spring of 1866 he purchased the "Waterloo Chronicle," which he ably conducted for some years. During the first of these years he collected all the information possible from the old settlers and wrote a history of the early settlements and pioneers of Waterloo county, Ont., and published it in a series of articles in his paper. Those articles were highly interesting and appreciated, and practicably reliable, as many of the early pioneers were yet living and capable of relating quite definitely the events of their emigration as well as their experience of early wilderness life. Disposing of his Waterloo business he purchased a daily paper in St. Catharines, Ont., which he successfully carried on for eight years. Having a good offer he disposed of it and returned with his family to his native town, Berlin, and shortly after, in the year 1878, started the Berlin "Daily News," of which he is still the editor and proprietor.

He is an able, independent and vigorous writer, thoroughly Canadian in all his feelings and aspirations, always taking an active part in political matters, and for many years has been an able member of the Municipal Council of the town of Berlin, and has never failed to use his best energies to advance its interest and promote its growth.

Mr. Moyer has for nearly forty years been an official and active member and worker in the Methodist church. He has been a member of a number of annual conferences, and of the last General Conference, the supreme legislative body of that denomination, the largest in the Dominion of Canada.

His domestic life has been unusually happy, although he has had a very busy life, and of late years had to do a large part of his work under the painful sufferings of chronic rheumatism and other bodily afflictions. VALENTINE MOYER,
OF TULPEHOCKEN TOWNSHIP, BERKS CO., PA., AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

BY HENRY C. MOYER, AUBURN, N. Y.

I. Valentine Moyer, Sr., died 1797. The first authentic statement concerning this man yet ascertained, is in a record of baptisms of Host Church, Berks county, Pa., as early as 1759. The next is his Will, recorded in Book of Wills, "B." page 473, in Reading, Pa. His name seems to appear among the taxables of Tulpehocken township, Berks county, Province of Pennsylvania, in 1757. In this tax list his name is spelled "Valentine Meier;" a probable instance of the incorrect spelling of the old time assessor. In fact the name, with its variations, appears in early Pennsylvania records thus: Moyer, Mayer, Meyer, Mire, Miar, Myher, Miere. The name Moyer, however, occurs as early as 1721, and as far as can be learned has always thus been written by this family. This man may have been related to Frederick Moyer, of Tulpehocken, who, with his family, was killed by the Indians June 30, 1754, but this is only conjecture. It is said that during the Revolutionary war he belonged to the provision train which transported produce from the fertile valley of the Tulpehocken to the camp at Valley Forge, and that he was at another time appointed to purchase horses for General Washington's army.

Whether he was an original settler, or the son of an original settler, is as yet an undetermined matter.

If an original settler, it has not yet been ascertained whether he emigrated into Tulpehocken from the Mohawk Valley, N. Y., or eastward from the Susquehanna, or with some funds in hand from Germany, as a fortune seeker in the New World; or whether as an exile, because of religious persecution, from the German Palatinate. He may have been the son of an original settler, for the name of Haus (John) Moyer is mentioned in the list of early settlers in the Tulpehocken region as early as 1721; and a Henry Moyer was one of a colony which Conrad Weiser brought from Schoharie, N. Y., in 1723. There is a legend that two brothers came from Germany, that one settled in the Mohawk Valley and the other on the Tulpehocken. There is another statement that four (or six) brothers came from Oberhost, Palatinate of the Rhine, in an early day and settled at Tulpehocken. Since the subject of this sketch was early identified with "Host Church" we may look upon this last statement as quite probable.

The name "Valentin Meyer" occurs in the list of foreigners imported in ship "Queen of Denmark," from Rotterdam, last from Cowes. Qualified October 4, 1751. Whether he and the subject of this sketch are the same is not yet ascertained. The first reliable information we have is in the record of baptisms in Host church, thus: "Maria Barbara Moyer, born January 9, 1759, baptized February 16, 1759, parents, Valentine and Margaret Barbara Moyer." He had a son Philip from a previous marriage, who was well grown at the time of this second marriage, as is indicated by this record: "Maria Catharine, born Feb. 27, 1762, baptized Mar. 20, 1762, parents Philip and Maria Catharine Moyer, sponsors, the grand parents, Valentine and Margaret Barbara Moyer." The name Philip Moyer occurs in the list of foreigners imported in ship "Neptune," from Rotterdam, last from Cowes. Qualified September 24, 1754.

Host Church is located in Berks county, Pa., about five miles north of Womelsdorf. It was organized as early as 1750, and possibly prior to that time.

A church building of good size was erected in 1775, and the same was extensively repaired or rebuilt in 1885. It occupies an elevated spot, beautiful for situation, is one of the ancient landmarks, and is generally spoken of as the "Old Host Church." It is a matter of regret that the list of members, or the record of marriages and deaths are, at the present writing, among the things that are lost. In the graveyard adjoining the church is an ancient section, where, here and there, are standing old sandstone gravemarks, weather beaten, and in some instances entirely defaced, but the name of Valentine Moyer, or any of his kin, is not to be seen on any of them. Evidently many graves have been leveled by the hand of time and all vestiges of their existence removed. It is probable, since he and his family were identified with this church as early at least as 1759, and that he died about a mile distant in 1797, that all that is mortal of him rests somewhere in the old section of the Host Church cemetery.

Valentine Moyer, Sr., was married to Margaret Barbara ———. Her maiden name has not yet been ascertained. Whether a European by birth, or born amid the wilds of America, are also among the undiscovered things. What we know of her, who may have had much to do with making her husband financially successful in spite of pioneer difficulties, we know only by inferences. It appears that she was about 20 years younger than her husband, that she was of a most active disposition, for approaching 60 years of age, her favorite custom seems to have been horseback riding along the dangerous bridle-paths of the Tulpehocken region, and that she was still, at that age, the possessor of some of her former personal attractions, is evident from the fact that the Will of her husband made a second marriage an unprofitable, if not an impossible, affair. When she died, or where she was buried, we do not yet know.

Valentine Moyer, Sr., died in 1797. He made his Will April 30, 1797, "being very sick and weak in body, but of sound mind, memory and understanding." The Will was "proved" August 7, 1797.

REV. HENRY C. MOYER.

See Page 645.

The Will shows that he was the owner of two farms, one of 150 acres, which he sold to his second son, John Nicholas Moyer, for £1430, the same to be paid in payments to the heirs; and the other on Summer Hill, which was to be sold to pay present debts and the balance to be put on interest for the benefit of the widow.

It shows further that he had given his eldest son, Philip Moyer, a "proportionable" already, but, should it appear in the final settlement that he had not received an "equivalent," then he should be made to share alike with the others.

The names of his children, as heirs, occur in the following order: John Nicholas, Daniel, George, Valentine, Michael, Peter, Henry, Elizabeth. His daughter Margaret is mentioned as being married to Henry Weber, and his daughter Barbara had married Valentine Mochel, but she having died his daughter Catharine had become Valentine Mochel's second wife.

In the next item the Will speaks of "my eldest son Philip."

The Will clears up a long standing contradiction. One branch of descendants claimed that Valentine (Jr.) was the fourth son of Valentine (Sr.), and another branch claimed that he was the fifth son. The fact is, Valentine (Jr.) was the fifth son of Valentine (Sr.) and the fourth son of Valentine (Sr.), by wife Margaret Barbara. The names of the sons stand in the order of their birth, but the names of the daughters do not, as will be seen later.

For his "beloved wife Margaret Barbara Moyer," aside from the interest already mentioned and the money secured by the sale of the personal property, the Will provides further as follows: She was to live on the plantation with the said son John Nicholas Moyer, was to have yearly a stated quantity of firewood, pork, beef, wheat, rye, flax, wool, cider, apples, and the use of the quarter of the garden. Also the "roan mare" with saddle and bridle, and her choice of a fresh milch cow; also household furniture and kitchen utensils of best quality, with several articles of "pewter."

Then occurs the restriction concerning a subsequent marriage which reads as follows: "But it is my Will that in case my wife Should join in Wedlock again She Shall not be entitled to receive or take away any part of what I have above bequeathed or Willed unto her, but only as long as she remains my Widow." To us at the present time the above restriction may seem to be somewhat severe; but, considering the legal limitations and disqualifications of women in that day, we are led to regard the Will as specially tender and careful of his beloved wife Margaret Barbara, in that he arranged a sufficiency of the "wherewith," to cheer and comfort her declining days, and specially enjoined upon their son John Nicholas the continued exercise of his attentive care in her behalf.

The Will closes with a nomination of his son John Nicholas Moyer and his son-in-law Valentine Mochel as the executors thereof. It was signed in the presence of Henry Leitz and Jacob Lingel, and it was recorded by J. Bower, Reg'r.

The record of baptisms in Host Church gives the following information concerning the children of Valentine Moyer (Sr.): By first wife, Philip Moyer. By second wife, Maria Barbara Moyer, b. Jan. 9, 1759; Catharine Moyer, b. Aug. 19, 1767; John Nicholas Moyer, born Dec. 26, 1769; Anna Margaret Moyer, b. Dec. 28, 1770; Daniel Moyer, b. (date not given); John George Moyer, born Jan. 13, 1775; Valentine Moyer, b. (see continued sketch); Maria Elizabeth Moyer, b. July 30, 1778; Michael Moyer, b. July 6, 1780; John Peter Moyer, b. June 26, 1782; John Henry Moyer, b. Mar. 9, 1784.

At present writing (1896) but little has been ascertained concerning these several families, except, of course, the line of Valentine (Jr.), which we continue to follow.

Maria Barbara Moyer married Valentine Mochel and she died sometime prior to 1797.

Catharine Moyer became Valentine Mochel's second wife.

John Nicholas Moyer became possessor of the "homestead" in 1797, and owned it till 1828. About 1817 he built a large stone farm house and a large barn on the "plantation." Some of his descendants reside in Reading, Pa.

Anna Margaret Moyer married Henry Weber.

Daniel Moyer, it is thought, settled in Reading, Pa., where he built a stone mill; later he removed to Ohio. (?)

John George Moyer, it is thought, settled in Ohio. (?)

Maria Elizabeth Moyer, it is thought, married a Mr. Miller and has descendants in Reading, Pa. (?)

Michael Moyer was a very skillful carpenter. He made a desk and presented it to Mrs. Valentine Moyer, Jr., with drawers and hidden drawers within, which was quite a curiosity. The desk itself is lost, but the recollection of it comes down to the present day. A Michael Moyer was elected elder of St. John's Reformed church at Sinking Spring, Berks Co., Pa., December 19, 1811. (?)

John Henry Moyer, it is thought, became a farmer and lived near Kutztown, Pa. Later he removed to Philadelphia, where some of his descendants now live.

The old "Moyer Homestead" is in what is now Jefferson township, Berks county, Pa., about one mile east of the old Host Church. As already mentioned, it came into the possession of John Nicholas Moyer in 1797. It remained in his possession until 1828, when he and his wife Elizabeth deeded it to Philip Stein. In 1838 Philip Stein sold it to Isaac Herben, who in turn sold it to Michael Stupp. In 1871 Michael sold it to Isaac Grove, who, in 1881, sold it to Elias Grove, who is now (1895) the owner.

The old house, still standing, has the appearance of more than a century of age. It is now used as a tool house and storage place for useless things, and although the foundation is secure and the timbers are firm and of the best material, yet over it all, necessarily, there is the mild flavor of decay. It is about 18 by 24 feet in size, and is two stories high. The lower story contains two rooms and a kitchen, and the upper story a large undivided attic chamber. The building has but one outer door, and the rear of the building is towards the road, probably so, because it was possibly erected before the fences were built or the present road located. Some large decaying stumps nearby indicate the locality of the old orchard, and a little pile of leveled ruins is all that marks the place where stood the barn which sheltered, with rest and provender, the "roan mare" after a warm gallop under the whip of the matron of the "plantation," on her return from religious services at Host Church, or after a hurried visitation around the sparsely settled neighborhood. Near the old building is a magnificent spring, five feet square, with four feet depth of water, walled up with stones. From the spring issues a small stream, which, flowing to the south and east, empties into the Tulpehocken.

To the casual observer, or to the ordinary passer by, these matters are of but little consequence, but to the descendants of Valentine and Margaret Barbara Moyer they are items, referred to in this way, of more than common interest. It is the locality where their early ancestors in America passed through the varied experiences of joy and sorrow, of prosperity and adversity, of occasional failures and repeated successes in a struggle for subsistence and existence amid the untamed forests of the New World, surrounded by savage beasts and, at times, by still more savage Indians.

It may be a matter of interest to these descendants to know that their early ancestors in America belonged to that portion of the population who were accused, at the beginning of the French and Indian war, of being in league with the French, and in conspiracy against England's King. They met the accusation by presenting a paper of vindication to Robert Hunter Morris, Governor of the Province, November 20, 1754, in which occur these closing words: "To the Contrary we wish and pray, and the more at this critical Juncture of impending Danger, that God Almighty might rule our gracious King George and Parliament to find lawfull means to defeat and frustrate all unjust designs of the French King and all other foreign Princes whatever, wherewith they intend to disturb his Majesty's Rights: And we do hereby renew all true Loyalty and Assistance or Contribution to our King and Government in such a manner as the Wisdom of your Honour, and our worthy Assembly in Legislature by the Constitutions of this Province will find needfull and expedient."

So they continued to pay, without apparent complaint, the "yearly Quit Rent aforesaid, due or to become due for the same, To the Chief Lord of Lords of the fee thereof." But when independence was declared none were more loyal to the colonial cause than these, and when the gloom of Valley Forge had settled upon the army and the country, 1500 Pennsylvanians fell into line, and all the available farmers of Tulpehocken and the adjoining regions were organized into a provision train, which drained their fertile valleys, with but little promise of compensation, but which conspired to make the campaign of 1778, and of the other years of the war, a possibility and a success.

It may further be a matter of interest to know that these early ancestors in America belonged to that portion of the population concerning which the Colonial Governor, George Thomas, in his annual report (1738) wrote these complimentary words: "This Province has been for some years the asylum of the distressed Protestants of the Palatinate and other parts of Germany, and I believe it may be truthfully said that the present flourishing condition of it is in a great measure owing to the industry of those people. It is not altogether the fertility of the soil, but the number and industry of the people that makes a country flourish."

If these interesting references to the facts of the past shall conduce to the pleasure of any, or of all, the writer will be well repaid.

DESCENDANTS OF VALENTINE, SON OF VALENTINE MOYER, SR.

II. Valentine Moyer, a son of Valentine (Sr.) and Margaret Barbara Moyer, b. in Tulpehocken Twp., Berks Co., Pa., Aug. 8, 1776; d. at Red Bank Creek, Armstrong (now Clarion) Co., Pa., Jan. 8, 1825; mrd. Mary, dau. of Christian Merkel. She was born May 1787; died in Luzerne Co., Pa., Jan. 8, 1836. Her mother's maiden name was — Boyer. Mr. Moyer was 21 years old when his father died.

After marriage Valentine was for some years a farmer in Maiden Creek township, Berks county, Pa. He was drafted for the War of 1812, but an injured ankle, causing lameness, relieved him from the draft. In the year 1814 he removed to Brier Creek township, Columbia county, Pa., and bought a 300-acre tract of land nine miles northeast of Bloomsburg, in what is now Center township. He then, in the course of time, sold 100 acres to H— S—, 33 to D— F—, 92 to D— M—, and reserved 75 acres for himself. The purchase and subsequent sales proved most unfortunate. There was a prior title vested in a Mr. G—, of Philadelphia, and the legal difficulties resulting, arrayed against him his father-in-law and brother-in-law, besides other parties also.

After years of expensive litigation, which greatly crippled him financially, he resolved to go West. He resolved to do what, he said, the Devil never did—that is, leave Columbia county. So in the Spring of 1824 he, with his little family and personal belongings, in an emigrant wagon drawn by a yoke of oxen and a white horse, crossed the Allegheny mountains. After many a long day's journey he finally pitched his tent on Red Bank Creek, about ten miles southwest of Brookville. He bought a tract of land and began the work of retrieving his losses. He was farmer, stone mason, shoemaker, and he worked so hard that before the close of the first year he broke down and died. One account is that he suffered an internal injury while at work in a harvest field, resulting in a lingering illness, and the other account is that he caught a severe cold, resulting in a fatal fever. During his illness he longed for returning health, intending to go back to the Susquehanna and purchase Great Island, near Lock Haven.

His widow and little family in March 1825, faint with weariness and sorrow, returned to the county of Columbia, and by order of the Court was granted a small piece of land on the tract formerly owned by her husband. Here she lived, supported by her older sons, until her marriage with a Mr. S——. Her subsequent life was very unhappy. The avails of the Armstrong county tract, together with what remained of the Columbia county tract, and the money accruing from the public sale of personal property, were all absorbed in legal "ways that are dark," and the widow and children never received a cent therefrom.

In personal appearance Valentine Moyer was five feet ten inches in height and weighed 180 pounds, black hair and heavy beard. He was an active man and, had he lived, would have risen above the Columbia county disaster. He was a good singer, and at the time of his death was the leader of the choir in the Reformed church, of which he was a member. His dying request to his wife was, that their children become members of the church. Children: William, John, Daniel, Henry, David.

III. William Moyer was born in Tulpehocken Twp., Berks Co., Pa., in 1809; d. in Momence, Kankakee Co., Ill., February 24, 1883. After the death of his father much of the burden of caring for the mother and younger children came upon him. His brother John was somewhat associated with him in these matters. He married Esther Hagenbuch, of Delaware township, Northumberland county, Pa., who was born June 19, 1817, and died September 29, 1847. He lived in Northumberland county for many years, but later in life went to Illinois. He was a carpenter and cabinet maker, a fine workman, and was employed to finish residences in the matter of mantels, stairs, etc. In 1855 he went to Seneca Co., N. Y., to finish some buildings. He was jovial in disposition, always ready to do a kindness, even though such a course might result in injury to himself. Mr. M., Ref.; Mrs. M., Luth. After the death of his father Mr. Moyer was apprenticed to the shoebench with a Mr. Hopkins, who was also his guardian.

Mr. and Mrs. Moyer started housekeeping at Turbotville, Pa., and became home itinerants, for they moved more than a dozen different times. Late in life he purchased a lot at Trout Run, Pa., and built a house. For about five years he was a farmer. In one sense he was not a successful business man. About 1857 he met with serious business reverses, from which he never rallied. Yet, rearing a large and intensely active family, giving them to the extent of his ability a fair educational start, and, for more than a score of years "keeping the wolf from the door," may after all be success of a very high order.

Socially he was reserved with strangers, naturally suspicious and almost forgiving, but in company with his chosen friends he was remarkably genial. As a father, in his younger days he was a severe disciplinarian, but as he grew older he became indulgent. He secretly rejoiced in the successes of his children, but was very careful not to spoil them with complimentary words. He was a man of contrasts and extremes. In religious matters he was disposed to doubt, but by patient thinking always returned to the truth. His belief and trust in Divine Providence was marked. He was a man of few words, who did a vast amount of thinking. One of his sons (D. V. M.) writes of him: "Uncontrolled by the influences of religion, his indomitable will, his intensely passionate nature and his ideas of exact discipline, might have fostered disastrous consequences, nevertheless, after a long, useful and devoted life, he, like the Arab of the desert, quietly folded his tent and silently stole away.”

He died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harriet N. Ranson, of Tioga Center, N. Y., June 30, 1890. Mr. Moyer, Reformed, later Methodist; Mrs. Moyer, Lutheran, then Methodist. Children: Henry, Ethelinda, infant, Harriet, Daniel, Sarah, Aaron, William, Martha, M. Emma, John, Frank.

The most of the Winters of these years were spent in the home of his brother John in Northumberland county, Pa., and his genial manners made him a very welcome guest. He had so high an appreciation of the value of his education, though his own advantage in that direction had been limited, that the children of John, through those Winter evenings, were inspired by him towards intellectual pursuits.

In the Spring of 1844 he and William Hartranft joined the emigrating family of William Oyster, of Northumberland county, Pa., and traveled in pioneer fashion to Iowa. In the Fall of the same year he and Hartranft returned by way of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. reading medicine at the same time. He became a student in Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, from which he graduated with honor, taking the prize "On Diseases of the Skin." During a vacation from Jefferson he filled the position of principal of the Schuylkill Haven High school. After graduation he located in Cressona, Pa., where he soon built up a large practice and was employed as surgeon for the Mine Hill Railroad. In 1886 he was elected physician for the Schuylkill County Almshouse.

But his prosperous career met with a sudden fatal reverse. On January 8, 1887, his horse became unmanageable and he was thrown against a knot in a rail of the fence, causing a fracture of the skull. He died February 8, 1887, on the very day when he was to begin his work at the almshouse. His death was greatly mourned. Students from the several schools where he taught, classmates from Millersville and Jefferson, physicians with whom he was associated and patients to whom he had ministered relief, all bowed with the family under the weight of a great sorrow. But none felt the blow so keenly as his father. Nine months later he too was carried to the grave. CHRISTIAN MEYER,

OF SHREWSBURY TOWNSHIP, YORK COUNTY, PA.

SKETCH BY ISAAC W. MEYERS, OF HAMPTON, IOWA.

I. Christian Meyer, b. Dec. 10, 1708; died in 1777; married Elizabeth Kauffman. She was born January 10, 1720.

When more than a 100 years after his death the study of the life of Christian Meyer, of York county, Pa., was first suggested, it was supposed that he was a native of Germany. A minute research as to his history has not been made, but a glance at some old indentures, his old homestead, the old family cemetery and the records of the old family Bible, creates the thought that he may have been born in the township in which he lived and died and now lies buried. Two of his sons, John and Andrew, have several descendants still living, whose lives had well begun before the two brothers closed their career.

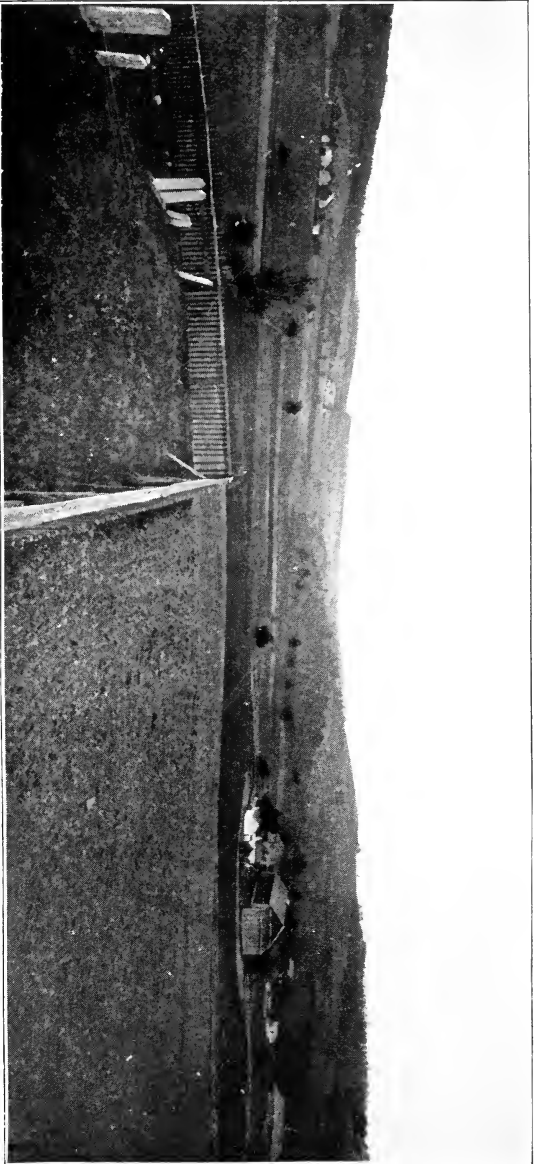

It is principally through the lives of John and Andrew, as recalled by these living witnesses, that their descendants are enabled to get a glimpse of their more venerable ancestor, Christian Meyer, his estate having fallen into their hands, partly before and partly after his death. Andrew and his descendants have remained in possession of their inheritance to the present day. John and his descendants clung to the greater part of theirs' till 1837, when they sold it, part to a descendant of Andrew and the remainder to Peter Feigley.

the eastern branch (south of York) of Codorus creek, in the northeast corner of Springfield (formerly Shrewsbury) township, York county, Pa. In the vicinity of the northeast corner of the estate a small creek, forming the boundary line between Hopewell and York townships, falls into Codorus creek near the point where the latter changes its course to a western then to a northern direction; the western direction continuing about a mile and the northern nearly the same distance. In no other part of its course does this branch of Codorus creek present a similar feature. Hence the mouth of the small creek becomes an unmistakable landmark. This chosen landmark is about a mile and a quarter northward from the town of Graydon, two miles and three quarters east of Loganville, and less than half a mile east of the old family cemetery. Going down stream of Codorus creek from this landmark for half a mile we reach the mouth of a small creek coming in from the southwest, or going up stream three-fourth of a mile we reach the mouth of another but smaller creek coming in from the same direction. These two creeks are prominent features of the Christian Meyer estate, the former flowing through the north part of it and the latter through the south. Between these two creeks, and running nearly parallel with them, is a high hill whose ridge divides the estate into the north and south parts.

In order to give clearness to the description of the two parts and the dividing hill two photographs have been taken and engraved for this work, the one taken on the north side of the hill being designated as the "View of John Myers' Estate" (see engraving on another page), and the one taken on the south side as the "View of Andrew Myers' Estate."

The view of John Myers' estate was taken (May 1896) from the old family cemetery, looking southwest or up the valley of the creek, which, as it approaches the cemetery, turns to the north, and, passing between the two homes seen in the valley, falls into Codorus creek at the northern limit of the estate. Of the two homes seen in the valley the one beyond the creek, at the foot of the hill, is of special interest to the grandchildren of the late John Myers (grandson of Christian), of Ohio, having been his home and place of business for fifteen years. It is often spoken of as the fulling-mill place, because such a mill he operated just outside his door yard with the water power furnished by the creek. The high hill west of the house aids in locating the ruins of the old mill dam, which is at its extreme southern point, and the town of Loganville over a mile west. Between this hill on the north and the divided hill on the south spreads out a rich and beautiful valley, which, though covered with thick forests, must have been the chief attraction to the pioneers. Opposite the two homes already mentioned, in the midst of a group of farm buildings, south of the valley on a highway creeping over the undulating grounds between the dividing hill and the valley, appears the old stone barn, which is fast becoming an object of exciting interest, not only to those familiar with the structure but to many who have never seen it. Every circumstance points to the probability that Christian Meyer himself built that barn and accompanying house for his son John in 1770 or 1771. That the building antedates his death cannot be questioned. If his hands did not assist in rearing those walls his emotions were at least stirred with the conviction that the edifice must needs become an enduring monument of the sturdy, patient, economical habits of the German pioneers of the forests of Pennsylvania.

Barring these oldest of the ancestral buildings, the most interesting of all the objects clustering around the old homestead is the cemetery itself, hanging on the southern slope and near the brow of the hill at the eastern border of the valley. Here sleep several of the ancestors of the descendants of Christian Meyer, who, without a doubt, himself selected the spot, for here, too, lie buried his descendants, many of whom preceded him to this common and final resting place. Here is found the tomb of his wife and of Christian himself. We can think of this place but as a parcel of his own possessions, set aside as a gift to his loved ones.

Passing now in a southeastern direction from the old stone barn up the north slope of the dividing hill, and (as may be noticed at the extreme left of the picture) through a narrow strip of native woods still crowning the dividing ridge, down the southern slope, we come suddenly upon the object of our search, the place where once was Christian Meyer's home. When we look upon the decayed orchard, the sparkling spring, the ruins of the old log house and cellar, we say "it is enough." (See engraving, View of Andrew Myers' Estate.)

The photographer, who was requested to catch a picture of this place, did not stop here, but continued his descent into the valley towards the town of Graydon, crossed the little creek and set up his camera in the midst of the south-half of the old estate, now known as the Andrew Myers estate. The view is nearly north and in the direction of the cemetery. Referring to the picture the reader will find directly in front, and stretching far to the northeast, a valley as fertile and beautiful as the one to the north of the hill. South of the highway, near the centre of the picture, may be seen a trace of the creek, winding its half-hidden course toward the extreme right, and falling beyond that point into Codorus creek at the foot of the distant hill, which comes partially into view at the northeastern extremity of the valley. After marking for a short distance the boundary between this hill and the valley, the Codorus creek is lost sight off by the intervention of the dividing hill. Less than a hundred rods from its banks at this point appears the old home of Andrew Myers. The larger of the two is the old stone house, built by Andrew in 1784 or 1785. What the stone barn, just over the hill, is to the descendants of John, this house is to the descendants of Andrew. Immediately to the left we have an admirable view of the eastern end of the dividing hill, a highway older than the dwellings marking its base, and a private lane leading far up the southern slope into the old orchard. Here the eye rests upon a sheltered nook, a small tableland partly surrounded by hills, and yet overlooking the valley below. The orchard and the rippling spring have little meaning to the stranger, but they speak volumes to the descendants of Christian Meyer.

In 1835 the old log house near the spring was yet standing though roofless, and its doors and windows had been removed or destroyed. It was built probably not later than 1742, and occupied by the builder until his death. Such was the home of Christian Meyer, and here he lived and reared his family. He owned lands on both the north and south sides of the dividing hill. He was a farmer, cultivating the fields which he was preparing, one each year, by felling the trees of the forest and burning them in high piles. According to the custom of the times his wife and daughters manufactured the common wearing apparel worn by the family, also spreads, tablecloths and linen articles. They spun the carded wool shorn from the flock, and the "hetcheled" fibre of flax raised on the farm, the latter being done by the wheel and distaff, which is still kept as an heirloom in many of the older families. The surplus products of the farm, orchard and garden were sold at York and Baltimore. The almost forgotten five-horse team furnished the principal means of transportation and was used to market the wheat and other crops in the latter city, forty-five miles distant.

It would be natural to suppose that this home on the hillside was Christian's first and only one, but the supposition cannot be supported by evidence. On the contrary, aged descendants and others still living, throw no light but rather confusion on the question. They remember that up to 1825 the outlines of two decayed orchards were distinctly traceable on top of the dividing hill, one on the north and the other on the south side of the ridge. Assuming that these two orchards withstood the effects of time as well as did the one on the south slope by the spring, they could not have been planted later than 1670 and may have been planted much earlier. Nor will this seem improbable when we remember that the location is only twelve miles from the Susquehanna river, only thirty miles from the head of Chesapeake Bay, about the same distance from the trading post established in 1632, near Havre-de-Grace, and that the territory was under the control of the Calverts from 1632 to 1681, proprietaries who defended the settlers in civil liberty and religious toleration to the utmost. If these orchards were planted after William Penn became the proprietary in 1681, but not later than 1720, they may have been planted by Christian's father and grandfather. The reasonable conclusion is that they were planted within those limits of time and by those parties. Such a conclusion is not out of harmony with the progress made on both sides of the hill in clearing away the forests. For on both sides the progress in clearing away the forests was from the dividing ridge toward the valley below. On the north slope the old stone barn place was established in about 1770, and the fulling-mill place in 1822. On the south slope the home in the old orchard was created many years prior to the one located in the valley by Andrew.

Do the two orchards on the ridge mean two homes? Were these two homes located by strangers or by a father and son, the immediate progenitors of Christian Meyer? If by the latter Christian was a native of Shrewsbury township; if by the former he was in all probability one of those who, having heard the words of William Penn, "I will found a free colony for all mankind," crossed the Atlantic with the double purpose of finding a home and religious freedom. It is known that he was a minister of the Gospel of a society known as the German Baptist Brethren and preached in the dwellings of the settlement. Two of his sons, John and Andrew, also became ministers of the same denomination, and Andrew attaining to the office of Bishop.

As a Pennsylvanian of the colonial period, Christian Meyer not only witnessed the triumphs of the nobler virtues over violence and wrong, but he watched, in the evening of his life, that storm cloud rising higher and higher, which, three years prior to his death, resulted in the War of the Revolution and the Declaration of Independence. In the midst of that war, in the year 1779, the same in which the Penn family surrendered their claim to the soil and jurisdiction of Pennsylvania, he sank to his final rest, survived by his wife and children. His children in the order of their birth are as follows: Elizabeth, Maria, John, Christian, Andrew, Michael, Henry, Abraham.

II. Elizabeth Meyer, b. Sept. 24, 1743; mrd. Christian Radfan. Descendants, if any, not found.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN MEYER, SON OF CHRISTIAN MEYER.

SKETCH BY ISAAC W. MEYERS, OF HAMPTON, IOWA.

II. John Meyer, b. in York Co., Pa., Nov. 25, 1748; d. June 1833; mrd. Barbara Kauffman. His name is given here as John Meyer. It might with much propriety be given as John Myers, for the old indenture made in 1779 shows that he permitted his name to go into that document as John "Myer;" and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in a patent issued in 1811 to John Myers (himself or his son) recognized the tract of land owned by Christian's sons as "Myerstown." The change from Meyer to Myers, as adopted by most of Christian's descendants, was therefore made during the lifetime of John. He was born in the log house by the spring, at least no other can be suggested as the place of his birth with any assurance of finding evidence that would give weight to the suggestion. After his marriage the old stone-barn place became his home. These buildings were photographed and engraved (see engraving) for the especial purpose of associating them with his name, and the children of the late John Meyers, Esq., of Waterloo Co., Ont., who have been mainly instrumental in procuring the several photographs, will contemplate this old fashioned colonial scene as the home of their great grandfather and the birthplace of their grandfather and their father.

Though in the early part of his married life, as is believed by his grandsons, Moses and Samuel N. Myers, he may have harbored his aged parents in this house through the closing years of their lives, and though ten of his grandchildren were born in it through the declining years of his own life, this home was especially his own, his by possession and occupancy. Here he lived during his entire life after gaining his majority, and here his seven children were born. He was a farmer and owned about 400 acres of land, including all once owned by his father on the north side of the hill and some that he acquired by patents from the State. Iron ore being discovered on part of his land, he sold to a mining company a strip of land containing 100 acres, stretching from the dividing ridge on the south along the east line of his estate to the cemetery on the north, leaving his remaining possessions L-shaped, extending along the west and north of the tract sold. In 1822 the north 132 acres became what is known as the fulling-mill place, the old stone-barn place being thereby reduced to 162 acres. On the former he established a new home and also a fulling and carding mill. His only surviving son, John, took possession of the new home and the mill. Soon after this his granddaughter Hannah (his son's eldest daughter) married Peter Hartman, and the old colonial home fell into Peter's possession, the youthful and the aged couples sharing the old home together. In 1826 his wife Barbara died, aged 86 years, and in June 1833 he, too, passed to his final rest, aged 85 years. The two lie buried side by side in the old family cemetery. Though a farmer, he was also a minister of the German Baptist Brethren. Children: Esther and Maria (twins), Christian, Esther, John, Eve, Susanna.

Franklin Co., Va., Dec. 22, 1785 ; d. in Darke Co., Ohio, in 1863. He was born in Shrewsbury (now Springfield township), York Co., Pa., in the house of the old colonial home, known as the old stone-barn place. He remained with his father and worked on the farm until after his marriage, in the 23rd year of his age. After that he probably took charge of the farm, for he lived with his father on the old homestead until ten of his children were born. In 1822 he became owner of the north part of his father's farm, on which had been built the same year a house and fulling mill, now known as the fulling-mill place. The mill, which stood just south of the house, has long since disappeared, but the house is still standing and has been engraved for this work. (See engraving "Fulling-Mill Place.") His two youngest children were born here. He cleared away some of the remaining forest and operated both the farm and the mill for fifteen years.

During his fifteen years residence here his family was reduced in number. Hannah married Peter Hartman and was living on the old colonial homestead ; Jacob was married and lived in Maryland ; John and Moses were married and left their native State ; Michael, Solomon and Amos died in childhood (the latter was drowned in the flume of the mill) and were laid side by side in the family cemetery, immediately east of where their grandparents lie buried. In 1837 he sold his farm and mill to George Ness, and Hartman at the same time sold the old homestead to Peter Feigley. His son Jacob then returned from Maryland, and later the three families moved to Clark county, Ohio, accompanied by his remaining children, viz: Elizabeth, Sarah, Polly, Samuel N. and Joseph. They arrived in Springfield, O., late in the Fall, having made the journey in covered wagons. Early in the Spring of 1838 he bought and located on a farm in Mad River township, Clark county, about two miles west of Enon. His brick residence, standing on the north side of the Springfield and Dayton pike, just opposite the brick schoolhouse of the district, is yet a familiar object. It has been engraved for this work through the kindness of his grandchildren. Here he engaged in farming until his son Joseph was old enough to manage the farm, after which he lived a retired life. All of his daughters and his son Jacob lived within easy reach of him, and in his older days his feeble voice often mingled with the prattle of his grandchildren. His wife, whose senior he was by several years, outlived him eleven years. Both are buried in a small family cemetery on a farm on the north side of Mad River, four miles west of Springfield, known as the Keifer farm, now owned and occupied by L. J. M. Baker. His twelve children were born in the following order: Hannah, Elizabeth, Sarah, John, Jacob, Michael, Moses, Samuel, Solomon, Polly, Amos, Joseph.

fulling mill. He attended school in Winter and worked in the factory in Summer.

Having reached his majority in 1829, his father gave him a wagon and a pair of horses. The gift was suited to the time, for he found work between Baltimore and Ellicott's mill at the grading of the first railroad built in this country. Many Pennsylvanians had already located in Waterloo county, Ont., and when the grading was finished he went to that Province. He arrived there in April 1832, and found employment in a woolen mill at Bridgeport, on the Grand River, near Berlin. Here he was married and remained with his employer six years. For a future home he had purchased, in 1834, the north-half of lot No. 22, in the German Company tract, in the township of Woolwich, county of Waterloo, and had caused some improvements to be made thereon.

On March 13, 1838, he moved into the log house of this forest-hidden home, one mile east of the present site of Heidelberg. The dark forest melted away before his pitiless axe, wielded with perpetual energy, and fields appeared instead, which yielded him forty bushels of golden Winter wheat per acre. In 1847 he purchased lot No. 24 (318 acres) of the same tract. This too, was cleared and arranged for two farms. The town of Heidelberg stands on the northwest corner of this lot. In 1848 he built his stone house, which is a sort of reproduction of the ideas incalculated by his ancestors, and stands unimpaired as a monument pointing to the physical realm of his life. (See engraving "Home of John Meyers, Esq.," of Waterloo county, Ont.) His three youngest children were born in this house. The three oldest were born at Bridgeport, and the remainder seven in the log house, which stood a few rods southwest of the stone house.

He lived in the stone house until 1871, when he moved to the town of St. Jacob's, which became his home the remainder of his life. None of his children were with him then. They were seeking fortunes of their own, but remembered the stone house as their home. It was beneath it's roof that, through the cherishing influence of father and mother, musical and mathematical associations had been maintained for practical work during the long Winter evenings by the family circle and the youths of the neighborhood—the songs of Zion receiving their full share of attention. Beneath that roof the entire circle—father, mother and their children, had lived together for several years.

The circle was first broken into by marriages. Soon after a son and son-in-law went to Illinois to take charge of their father's land, which he had bought in 1857. The son-in-law enlisted in the Union army and died in the hospital at Nashville, Tenn. Another son went to Illinois to take charge of part of the land, and he, too, enlisted. These enlistments were unexpected by the parents and fell upon them like bolts from a cloudless sky. In the latter instance the mother's anguish was unconcealed and retributive fate ordained that the son should see her no more in this life—though he had made immediate amends by endearing letters written from his post of duty. Her death in 1868 divested home of its real meaning.

The father was loved and respected by his children. He had been one of Her Majesty's magistrates for many years. In 1841 he was elected a member of the Council of the District of Wellington, representing Woolwich and the adjoining Queen's Bush—a territory extending to Lake Huron. He held this position for eight years, until district authority was abandoned and county authority created. He then continued to represent the same territory in the Waterloo County Council until 1852. All of the sessions of the Wellington District Council were held at Guelph, the first one being convened by the Governor General February 8, 1842, and the closing session being held in October 1849. The first session of the Waterloo County Council was also held at Guelph, January 28, 1850. Subsequently its sessions were held at Berlin, the county seat. With but a slight interruption he continued to be a member of the County Council until 1863, when he declined to serve longer.

The writer, on February 9, 1896, received from the Hon. James Cowan, of Galt, a letter from which the following is copied: "In 1840 the old districts were created corporations with municipal powers. As soon as Woolwich, with the addition of Queen's Bush (an adjoining forest extending to Lake Huron), had the legal number of inhabitants, your father was elected Councillor by acclamation and held that position until the law was changed, in about 1850, appointing township and county councils. Being now in my 93rd year, the staunch settlers of Waterloo county, with whom I came in contact socially, municipally and politically for sixty years, many of whom were my juniors and among whom your father was chief, are all gone."

His Heidelberg farm was sold in 1868, the south half to his son Solomon and the northern half to John Hahn. His homestead was sold in 1871 to John Brubaker. His estate, at the time of his death, amounted to $43,000. He was not a member of any church but believed in and defended Christianity. He was an ardent advocate of the public schools and encouraged every advancement in educational means of the Province. He took a deep interest in all public questions, but was unusually calm in expressing his opinions on the same.

He was married a second time to Margaret (Ziegler) Wenger February 16, 1869. He lies buried by the side of his wife Maria in Martin's Cemetery, located in the northern part of Waterloo township, on the line between that township and the township of Woolwich. His children were born in the following order: Diana, Louisa, Eliab, Solomon, Isaac, Marian, Sarah, Eliza, Hannah, Absalom, Barbara, John, Aaron.

V. * Isaac Wenger Myers, was born in the log house of his father's forest home November 20, 1839, but the stone house of the same place became his home at the age of 10. The deep forests, traversed by creeks and rivers teeming with fishes, and bordered in the green breaks by wild fruit trees and the overhanging grape, mingled with the rippling of waters, the chattering of birds, and the ding-dong of bells echoing through the woods from the roaming herds, all overruled by the light of a Summer Sunday morning sun, made the scene at such a time a very paradise for the youths of that day, which in some degree made amends for that darker side of life, incident to the toil and economy necessary to convert forest into field. If to these we add the scenes of the long Canadian

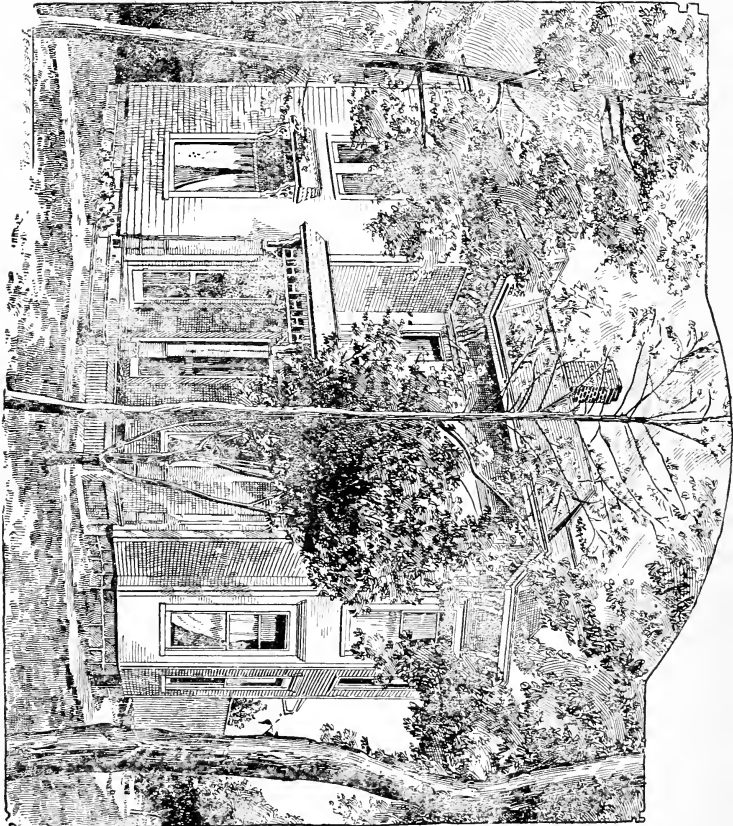

* Sketch from a friend.

Winters, the deep snows, the aurora borealis, the moonlight sleigh rides, the spelling, singing and day schools in the old log schoolhouse, we have the principal features of Canadian life (barring home, fireside and church) as brought to bear upon the generation of boys and girls to which the subject of this sketch belonged.

Early in life he worked on the farm in Summer and attended school in Winter. At the age of 14 he began a course of evening studies at home. Afterward he organized and taught home classes in mathematics and vocal music during the Winter evenings. In 1858 he became teacher of the public school in the district, which position he held nearly three years. During this time he took twice an eight weeks' course at the Galt Grammar School under William Tassie, Esq., A. M. In November 1860 he took charge of the public school in the town of St. Jacobs. Self-educated he entered upon his task, a self-taught and somewhat self-willed teacher, demanding of his pupils (in turn) that the school become a self-governed one without a set of fixed rules. His evening and early morning studies were kept up with unflinching application. The school had 150 pupils enrolled. He organized it as a monitorial or normal school, making teachers of such qualified pupils as could by their own efforts win the respect of junior classes. He measured teaching force by the measure of interest and love for study the teacher could create in the pupil, and these he gauged by the depth and simplicity of the teacher's knowledge of language as applied to the subject taught, his clearness of thought, his power to make others think as he thought, his worthiness of the pupil's respect and confidence, and his readiness to devote his energies to the pupils. The St. Jacobs school flourished and was conducted on the monitorial plan for three years, at the end of which time the teacher resigned to take care of his father's farm in Daviess county, Ill., where he arrived January 1864.

While the Rebellion was raging, under the call of December 19, 1864, he enlisted from the above county February 8, 1865, in Company G., 147 Ill.

Vol. Inf., under Capt. A. C. Bardwell and Colonel Sickles, to serve one year or during the war. The regiment was assigned to 1st Brigade, 2nd Separate Division, army of the Cumberland. The brigade moved direct to Dalton, Ga., and actively engaged in breaking up the guerrilla bands of northern Georgia. After the close of the war it engaged in provost guard and garrison duty in Georgia and Tennessee. During this time Mr. Myers was taken sick with typhoid fever and was taken to the Calhoun (Ga.) hospital on June 20, 1865. He was afterward removed to hospitals at Nashville, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., New Albany and Jeffersonville, Ind., and Marine Hospital, Chicago, from which he was discharged Aug. 3, 1865.

He returned to Jo Daviess county. In 1866 he became principal of the schools of Lena, and during 1867 of the schools of Davis, Ill. In 1868 he moved to Franklin county, Ia., and located on the east half of Sec. 24, Twp. 91, Range 21, which he purchased. In 1872 he was elected County Superintendent of the schools of Franklin county, but remained on his farm while attending to the duties of his office. In 1877 he was re-elected and moved to Hampton, the county seat, where he still resides. At the close of his last term of office he built a creamery at Hampton, the first one in Franklin county, starting business August 1880. His business was very successful, due to careful management, and gradually increased until the annual sale of his products reached from $60,000 to $70,000. He also established creameries at Latimer and Geneva. Other creameries were put up in the best milk districts, some by co-operative companies and some by individuals. His business began to net him a loss, and during the panic of 1893-95 he was forced to close his factories. He sold those at Hampton and Latimer, but re-opened business in the one at Geneva. His products have generally been sold in the city of New York. He received a highest award medal and diploma for his butter exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, in 1893. He is a member and ex-adjutant of J. W. McKenzie Post, No. 81, Dept. of Ia., G. A. R., and in 1891 was Aide-de-Camp on the staff of the Department Commander. He is a staunch Republican.

Mr. Myers married Alice, daughter of Charles Francisco, of McHenry county, Ill., October 28, 1866. He is a member of the M. E. church. Children: Inez A., Frank, John, Percival, Aaron, Irving, Helen M., Garfield (dec'd), Ruth M. All but Ruth (now in the ninth grade) are graduates of the Hampton High School. Their factory was located on their father's Heidelberg farm, which Solomon then owned. In 1875 the partnership was dissolved and he moved to Shelby county, Iowa, on a farm he had purchased east of Harlan. In 1880 he leased his farm, took his family back to Canada and located at Listowel, where he purchased a half interest in a flouring mill, with A. S. Moyer as his partner. next seven years. He leased his farm in 1885, and has since then been engaged as miller in the Maitland Valley Roller Mills, of Listowel, Perth county, Ont. In 1888 the firm increased their business by purchasing the Victoria Roller Mills, of Palmerton. Mr. Meyers was left in control of the former and his partner assumed control of the latter. DESCENDANTS OF REV. ANDREW, SON OF CHRISTIAN MEYER.

SKETCH BY ISAAC W. MYERS, OF HAMPTON, IA.

II. Andrew Meyer, b. in York Co., Pa., May 29, 1753; died Nov. 20, 1833; mrd. Magdalena Keller. She was b. 1754; died 1815. Andrew mrd. second wife Anna ——. She died Nov. 25, 1831. He was born in the log house, which then stood near the orchard on the south slope, of which mention is made in the sketch of his father, Christian Meyer. Little is known of his early life, but at 26 he appears as the purchaser of the south part of his father's estate. His brothers and sisters and their widowed mother joined in signing an instrument known as the old indenture of 1779, conveying the land to Andrew. This was done to satisfy a certificate made by his father in 1777, showing that the land was to fall to Andrew. Circumstances show conclusively that he had been located on the land as early as 1775, at which time his marriage evidently took place. The land was covered with heavy timber, and Andrew was content with a log house for the first ten years of his married life. In 1784-85 he built the stone house, which, though more than 110 years old, his descendants yet point out with pride as the home of Andrew Meyer. It has been engraved for this work by them at the instigation of his great grandson, S. B. Myers, the present occupant of the house. Here he lived for half a century. Towards the close of his life his son Jacob became the owner of the homestead, but Andrew continued to live in the house with his son.

REV. GEO. N. FALKENSTEIN.

See Page 695.

Though a farmer, Andrew was a minister of the Gospel of the German Baptist Brethren, ranking as bishop. He was called to the ministry about 1785. As in his father's day their religious meetings were held in the residences of the settlement, the home of Andrew Meyer became one of the principal places of worship and remained such for 88 years or until 1872, when churches were built. The declining part of his life was no doubt entirely devoted to his ministerial labors, except perhaps the last few years. He sleeps in the old family cemetery. Children with first wife : Christian, Magdalena, Jacob, Henry. No issue with second wife.

Here he worked on the farm for his father while he was growing into manhood. In 1870 he became the owner of the west-half of his father's farm, including the buildings of the fulling-mill place, where he continued to live until 1893.

Christian married second wife Catharine, widow of the late Joseph Myers. He is now living on a part of the old Andrew Meyer estate, all of which Catharine and her heirs now own. When less than a year of age his father moved to what became the Falkenstein homestead, and there lived the remainder of his life, he succeeding his father as owner of the homestead. He was a very successful and well-to-do farmer. Upon the death of his father, Bishop Jacob Falkenstein, he was elected to the ministry by the Brethren church of that place. He, however, did not live many years to preach. He died April 13, 1866, after a few weeks' illness of typhoid fever. In the midst of life and usefulness Mr. Falkenstein followed his venerable father, and in the presence of a vast assembly he was laid by his side, that in death they might not be separated.

VI. Jacob N. Falkenstein, born in York Co. Sept. 1, 1855. As is often the case, the death of father and mother scatters the children far and wide ; this was the result in this case. At the age of 21 he went West, which he intended to do early in life, and was about three years in Illinois. Returning in the Spring of 1879 he, with his brother George, entered Huntingdon (Pa.) Normal College, but after one year he returned to Illinois and entered the Mt. Morris College, graduating in the scientific course three years later. His brother now joined him, and they again spent a year together at school. Choosing their work here they started on an extended tour to the Pacific coast July 16, 1884. This tour occupied ten months, including three months teaching in Oregon. Going twice across the continent, and from British Columbia to Mexico, they traveled more than 10,000 miles. Meeting the Hon. Mr. Bradburry in Southern California, the friend of James G. Blaine, he said upon learning of their tour, "you are entitled to be classed among the great American tourists." He has devoted himself to teaching and is very successful. He spent several years in the South, mainly to study the race problem. Mr. Falkenstein returned to teaching in Georgia, and has permanently resided at Columbus. S.

VI. Rev. George N. Falkenstein, born in Springfield Twp., York Co., Pa., July 16, 1859, on the old Falkenstein homestead, which was owned by the family for 67 years, and is still to this day known by that name. When less than 7 years of age his father died (in 1866) and eight years later his mother. The early breaking up of his home had a wonderful influence upon his life. He remained on the farm until 19 years of age, attending the county academy one session. In the Spring of 1879 he entered Huntingdon (Pa.) Normal College (now Juniata College), graduating in 1882. The following year was spent in Oberlin College in the study of the Classics. In the Fall of 1883 he entered Mt. Morris (Ill.) College, intending to complete his college course, but at the close of one year the college course was interrupted, and in July 1884, accompanied by his brother, he started on a trip to the Pacific coast, spending one year in traveling and teaching. Returning to his native State in September 1885 he entered the mercantile business, but retired in less than two years, finding it neither profitable or desirable. Having married in the meanwhile he moved to Kansas and returned to teaching. Finding teaching to his liking he decided upon further preparation for more advanced work. He entered the University of Michigan and devoted himself entirely to the Sciences. Soon after entering he was called to the chair of sciences in the Mt. Morris College, and he began his work in that institution in September 1889. These were years of preparation and development, now followed four years of hard work.

In May 1892 he was elected to the ministry under instructions from the annual conference for supplying men for the mission field. The Germantown Brethren church, organized in 1723, the original mother church in America, was in need of a pastor, and applied to the General Mission Board. Upon the Board's recommendation the church gave him an unanimous call to become their resident minister and pastor in November 1892. The following Spring he resigned his position and removed with his family to Philadelphia. On June 11, 1893, he entered upon his ministerial duties in the old mother church, where he has since labored to the edification and building up of the church.

Mr. Falkenstein was married to Eva Shellenberger April 15, 1886. Ger. Bap. Br. Children : (VII) Mary Olive Falkenstein, b. Mar. 23, 1887 ; died July 13, 1888. (VII) Holmes Falkenstein, b. VI. Dr. Andrew N. Falkenstein, born February 25, 1865 ; married Millie Radcliff. Dr. A. N. Falkenstein is a born physician and one of the most successful practitioners in the county. He was a mere infant when his father died (in 1866), and after the death of his mother eight years later he found himself in the home of strangers. He worked on the farm until he left the public schools to prepare for college. As he could not leave his medical books, he left his college work to attend lectures in Baltimore. In the Spring of 1886 he graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, at the age of 20, the youngest man in a class of 72. After practicing a year with his preceptor he determined to see the West, and visited his brother in Kansas. He practiced a few months in Newton, but not finding Kansas to his liking he returned to Pennsylvania, locating in his native village of Loganville, and built up a large practice. He is the third Dr. Falkenstein that has practiced in the same territory, his uncle and grandfather practicing respectively in the preceding generations. Two years ago he removed to Glen Rock, being more central to his territory. P. O. Glen Rock, Pa. One child : Alice.
